A NORTHWESTERN MONUMENT.

Fifty-eight years ago a majority of the settlers assembled in mass meeting at Champog voted to establish a provisional government for Oregon, a vast area embracing then the present states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho and part of Montana.

Many have regarded the Champog meeting as the turning point between American and British possession. Bancroft narrates the incidents of the memorable meeting:

"On the appointed day, May 2nd, about an equal number of French and American settlers being assembled, the meeting was organized in the open air by the election of Ira L. Babcock as president. The report of the committee was then read, and of course proved to be in favor of a political organization, to continue in force until the United States should establish a territorial government.

"This, on a motion to accept, was thought to be rejected on the first vote, when considerable confusion followed, occasioned by the speaker being unable to determine on which side was the majority. The eyes and noses being called for there was still a doubt, when Le Breton moved that the meeting divide in order to be counted. Gray seconded the motion and the order was given for those in favor of organization to file to the right, while the opposite party took to the left.

"The first to step to the right was Joseph L. Meek, his splendid figure clad in the ragged habiliments common to the improvident mountain men."

Burnett says that Meek wore a rich vest of white silk, while the remainder of his clothing was exceedingly shabby. "With a sparkling eye, a voice of command and the air of a major-general, the hero of many wild adventures in the Rocky mountains stepped to a niche in history as he strode to his position, crying out, 'Who's for a divide? All in favor of the report and an organization follow me.'

"Meek could always influence his comrades, and several took their places in his column, but half an hour elapsed, with some sharp remarks on both sides, before the count could be taken. When every man had at length decided, it was found that a small majority was in favor of organizing a temporary government. Not quite half the Americans voted for the organization, and but for the aid of a few Canadians who were friendly to the missionaries, the victory would have been on the other side."

Thus were planted the seeds of American government in this wild northwestern land. In the sunlight of a May morning, with the fair valley for their great council chamber, this pioneer band started the movement which gave the Oregon country to the Stars and Stripes. It is fitting that a monument should mark this historic spot, serving as an enduring reminder of the faith and courage of the pioneers, and a silent tribute to their patriotism.—Spokesman—Review.

Question Answered. Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion and biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's prize almanac. Clarke & Falk's.

Born and Raised in Polk County. SALEM, Or., April 22.—News was received in Salem today that Robert Glaze, a young man who was born and raised in Polk county, was recently found guilty of the murder of his partner, William Trewella, in San Francisco, and sentenced to life imprisonment. The Glaze family is well known among the early settlers of this section of the state. An older brother, Til Glaze, killed a man named Whitley in a duel at Dallas many years ago, and the feud that existed between the two families was very bitter. Robert Glaze went to the Sandwich islands, married a wealthy woman, and later became a part owner with Trewella in the Windsor hotel, in San Francisco. The killing of Trewella was the result of domestic troubles between the Glaze and Trewella families. Glaze's mother still resides near Falls City, Polk county.

Ought a Dreadful Cold. Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1638 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits." For sale by Blakeley, the druggist.

Supplies For Alaska. SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Major Ruhlen, in charge of the shipment of government supplies to Alaska points, says that 15,000 tons of freight will be sent to St. Michael, Nome and the various stations established by the war department on the Yukon this season. The first shipment will be made by the steamer Elisha Thompson, scheduled to sail from Puget Sound on April 25th, and the cargo will consist of a consignment for Captain Abercrombie's command and the detachment of signal service men now building a telegraph line from Fort Lascum (Valdes) to the Yukon.

He Kept His Leg. Twelve years ago J. W. Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., scratched his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, "but," he writes, "I used one bottle of Electric Bitters and my leg was sound and well as ever." For Eruptions, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Sores and all blood disorders Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them. G. C. Blakeley will guarantee satisfaction or refund money. Only 50 cents.

John Barrett's New Plum. WASHINGTON, April 22.—The president today appointed John Barrett, of Oregon, formerly United States minister to Siam, to be one of the United States' commissioners at the international conference of American states to be held in Mexico City. Edward B. Moore, of Michigan, to the position of assistant commissioner of patents, and Charles O'Neill, chief of the bureau of ordinance, with the rank of rear-admiral, were also named by the president.

A Testimonial from Old England. "I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mr. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." Sold by Blakeley, the druggist. Paint your house with paints that are fully guaranteed to last. Clarke & Falk have them.
