THE MAINE.

The announcement that the historic battleship, the Maine, is certain to be raised from her bed in the bottom of Havana harbor will be something of a surprise to many people who gave it up as an impossible job months ago.

It will be another surprise to the people in general to know that the Maine, when it is again afloat, will not belong to the United States government until it is purchased.

The company engaged in the enterprise is to receive the wreck, less 3 per cent of its selling price. The plan of raising the vessel is unique. The contractors are building a dam all around the Maine which will take nearly all summer to complete.

When this is completed the water will be all pumped out of the hole. This will leave the vessel lying on the bottom of the harbor, and as she is resting flat, the necessary repairs can be made in her bow with ease.

The water will then be allowed to enter the dam when the repairs have been completed and it is calculated that the vessel will rise with the water.

It is reported that the machinery in the Maine has not been damaged at all, as steel does not rust while under water. To prevent injury as the water is removed, however, the machinery will be covered with oil to prevent corrosion.

If the contractors are successful it will be a valuable work for them and should prove very profitable. There was something like $500,000 worth of ammunition in the hermetically sealed vaults when the Maine sunk, and it is believed that this will be recovered without any damage.

foreign wool, similar to our heavier territories, were imported, after paying the duty of 11 cents a pound and the transportation and brokerage charges, our friends abroad would have to make us a present of several cents a pound for taking the wool.

The machine poet of the Chicago Herald grinds out the following: "Let us, then, be up and doing, all becoming money kings. Some day we may be endowing universities and things.

W. H. H. Dufur is spoken of as next United States marshal. We sincerely hope he may land the prize, for Harrison is deserving of it.—Shankle Leader.

Uncle Sam can borrow at 2 per cent the money that costs England about three. Better still, Uncle Sam has no occasion to borrow.
