Lived in the Ferris Wheel.

When the great Ferris wheel at Paris was made ready to resume business, after its winter closing, two families of tramps, comprising eleven members, with some women and children, were discovered installed and living comfortable in two of the swinging cars. They told the police they had been camping out thus all winter. They first entered the cars one bleak night. They selected the lowest cars, but one day two engineers, who had been sent to examine the machinery for some reason, made the great wheel describe half a turn. So the camping families were hoisted to the topmost position. Since that time only one man, a former sailor, could communicate with the earth.

Climbing down nightly from the giddy height by means of the grinders and guy ropes, he would hustle for food to keep the two tribes alive. The provisions were hoisted up with a rope.

Their existence lasted for two months, undetected, and on February 22d a baby girl was born up there. In consideration that she is a healthy little child the commissary of police released the whole party. The wheel company not only refused to press the charge of trespassing, but offered the mother and infant a salary of $40 a month to exhibit themselves throughout the coming season in the car in which the child was born.

Henry Steers, of this city, last week sold eighty acres of land within the limits of the town of Fossil for $4000. The purchaser is T. J. Smith, proprietor of the Fossil flouring mill.

The Baldwin opera house building was sold today by Sheriff Kelly on a decree of foreclosure, and was bought in by the mortgagee, Henry E. Parmenter, for the sum of his claim, which amounted to $5,116 85.

Emile Strasser, of Five Mile, is on trial in Justice Brownhill's court as we go to press on the charge of laying out poison for domestic animals. The complaining witness is John Dalrymple, of the Floyd ranch.

The case of the State against J. Brown for committing a nuisance on the premises and property of John Moore, of Tenth street, was again postponed yesterday afternoon, this last time to Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The Telegram says that while there is still a rumor that the steamer Bailey Gatzert will go on the Portland-Dalles route as soon as she is ready, which will be about May 14th, it is generally believed that she will go to the Sound to resume her old run.

Charley Deckert, of Ten Mile, will be tried in Justice Brownhill's court tomorrow afternoon on the charge of larceny of a $5 blanket from an Indian woman. Deckert was arrested several days ago and placed under bonds of $250 to answer for the alleged crime.

A Goldendale dispatch in the Oregonian says that George Baker, of that place, recently caught a carrier pigeon in the cupola of the academy building with a tag on its leg marked "L. B. 536." There are no carrier pigeons in Klickitat county.

Reports of phenomenal increase in lambs continue to reach us. From Henry Stagman, of Klickitat county, we learn that he has just marked 1600 lambs from a band of 1600 ewes, or an increase of 60 over one hundred per cent. In the 1600 ewes the barren ones are included.

A match game of baseball will be played on the old fair grounds next Sunday by The Dalles and a Portland team. This is expected to be the best game of the season and a large crowd is expected. The game will commence as soon as possible after the arrival of the noon train. Tickets for sale at most any place at 25 cents.

Bert Lynch is in more trouble. Last night J. W. Sparks swore out a warrant for Lynch's arrest on a charge of assault and battery committed in the Obarr hotel a short time before Lynch got into trouble with John Frates. Lynch had not been arrested as we go to press although he was well enough to appear in court this morning against John Frates.

The county commissioners' court meets here tomorrow pursuant to an adjournment from last Wednesday. Under a law passed by the last legislature the commissioners' courts are required to meet on the first Wednesdays of January, March, May, July, September and November, instead of the first Wednesday after the first Monday of these months.

Henry Brune brought over from Rockland today thirty head of sheared yearling wethers, which he sold to Chrisman Bros. at $3.10 a head. Our free trade brethren, who are shedding big crocodile tears over the poor sheepmen on account of the low price of wool, had better reserve them for a more fitting occasion. As long as yearling wethers are worth anything like $3.10 a head the sheepmen could give the wool away and still make good money.

John Frates was examined today before Recorder Gates on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon, the complaining witness being Bert Lynch, who claimed to have been stabbed in the back with a knife in the hands of Frates. Judge Bennett appeared for the defendant and F. W. Wilson for the state. The evidence showed that Lynch was in a drunken condition and provoked the trouble that led to the stabbing. Mr. Frates, who is a quiet, peaceable and sober man, was acquitted.

A Missouri editor, going away, left a minister in charge of his paper. A day or two later a letter from a "way-back" subscriber came which read: "You know d— well I paid up my subscription the last time I was in Lexington. If I get any more such letters I will come down and maul h— out of you." The minister answered: "I have been trying to maul that thing out of the editor for ten years, and if you really come down and maul it out of him, then, my dear sir, I have twenty members of my church you can operate on."

The Dalles must celebrate on the coming Fourth. That is all there is to it. There has been no celebration here since 1898, and the feeling is general that we must and shall hold a celebration this year. But somebody must start the ball a rolling. That is all that is needed at present. The people will do their part when called on and their time comes. Now, as a starter, let THE CHRONICLE suggest that the Gentlemen's Driving Association take the matter in hand. This is a new body, composed largely of our leading influential business men. They could make the celebration a success if anybody could.

Mrs. Lua Hine-Cranston, wife of C. K. Cranston, and daughter of Rev. H. K. Hines, of Portland, died at Pendleton Saturday morning from asthma and was taken to Portland for burial. She had been an invalid since 1885. Those who remember Lua during her father's pastorate in this city almost a score of years ago, will think of her as an unusually bright young woman, giving promise of a brilliant future, which, however, was nipped in the bud. While pursuing her studies at Willamette University she contracted the severe cold which caused her the long years of suffering, culminating in her death.

S. H. Watts, the tombstone man, had a runaway this afternoon that resulted in a badly wrecked buggy and a badly sprained leg. The team became frightened at the woodsaw, in the neighborhood of Lane's blacksmith shop, and starting to run as the tongue of the buggy dropped out of the neck-yoke, the animals soon got beyond Mr. Watts' control. In trying to save himself he jumped to the ground, but was severely sprained by the fall. The buggy finally collided with the watering trough on Laughlin street, where the tongue and one wheel were ruined and another wheel badly injured. The horses escaped without injury.

The Umatilla county court, acting under the advice of the district attorney, will ignore the new law passed at the 1901 session of the Oregon legislature in regard to re-selling lands previously bid in at delinquent tax sales. The position taken is this: The county of Umatilla, in accordance with law, obtained these lands by buying them for the delinquent taxes. They became the property of the county the same as they would have become the property of an individual, provided they had been purchased by an individual. The legislature is powerless to enact such a retroactive measure as the law of 1901, and it will therefore be ignored. Instead of advertising and selling to the highest bidder as directed by the new law, these lands held by the county, the county will sell them, just as would an individual, and the purchaser of course will get
