HOLD FAST TO THAT WHICH IS GOOD.

The American people are enjoying the results of a long-continued policy of protection to American labor. The results are greater than the advocates of the protective policy anticipated, says the Bulletin. They are so great, in fact, that men who have become conspicuous for their advocacy of protection are inclined to the opinion that the American laborer can take care of himself in competition with the laborer of any race in the world. The general demand now is for new markets. It is admitted, however, that to get into foreign markets we must let foreigners into our markets. This, it is contended, we can afford to do. The fact that we have increased our exports of manufactured goods is accepted as proof that home labor needs no protection. There can be, it is urged, no protection for the labor employed in the making of goods sold in foreign markets and if we can make the goods that are sold in foreign markets more cheaply than competitors, we certainly do not need protection against these same competitors in our home market.

This reasoning is plausible, but not conclusive. Before we can fully accept it we must ascertain if the goods sold abroad are sold at the same prices as like goods sold at home. If, for example, the steel trust sells steel rails at $20 per ton abroad, and charges home consumers $28 per ton, the fact does not prove that we can make steel and transport it to a foreign country at $20 per ton. The high price charged the home consumer may enable the steel trust to sell a portion of its steel product at less than the cost of production and transportation.

There is another point to be considered. We do not know that under the press of competition foreign manufacturers of steel will not reduce the cost of production to $20 or less. When a market is being taken from a competitor, the competitor fights to retain it. If he cannot get $20 a ton for steel rails, he makes them for $18. If the invader comes down to $18, he reduces his price to $16 or less. Neither the manufacturer nor his employe can afford to lose their market. Men who have been working for $2 per day will work for less rather than not work at all. This invasion of foreign markets, in the long run, subjects the laborer to the operation of the law of the survival of the fittest—of those best fitted to the conditions under which they live. When this law is in full operation, the discovery may be made that some other race makes more patient slaves than Americans.

The maintenance of the protective policy will always preserve for us the home market. It may not give us a complete run of the markets of the world, but it will enable our manufacturers to pay rates of wages that will provide comfortable homes for the families of workmen.

Nothing ever said or written could better illustrate the utterly coarse-grained and calloused nature of the Oregonian than its brutal and unfeeling criticism, in yesterday's paper, of President McKinley for bringing his "chronic and invalid wife" along with him on his Western tour. Great Heaven! has it come to this, that a man's devotion to the person related to him by the holiest ties that are known to earth is to be subservient to a little pomp and spectacular exhibit that form no essential part of presidential duty? All honor to William McKinley for bringing his invalid wife along with him, and all honor to him for preferring the moan and sorrow of the sick chamber to the plaudits and buzzahs of the admiring multitude.

Says the Oregonian, speaking of President McKinley's great sorrow: "A prudent man in his place would have foreseen this contingency and forestalled it by leaving his semi-invalid wife at home when starting off on a fatiguing tour of official visitation." Said a little girl yesterday afternoon who, with an armfull of flowers, braved the blue coats and ascended the steps of the San Francisco mansion where Mrs. McKinley lies hovering between life and death: "I brought these for Mrs. McKinley. We are so sorry; I hope she will be better soon." Which of these two, the big Oregon daily or the little San Francisco maiden, voices the sentiments of the people of the Pacific Coast? The question needs no answer.

It is thought in Portland that the Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Company will put on a boat between Portland and the Cascades to compete with the Bailey Gatzert of the White Collar line. If such action is taken a lively rate war will ensue.

Eighty-seven carriage horses were sold in New York the other day for an average of over one thousand dollars each. The horseless era has been indefinitely postponed.

Yesterday evening's Telegram has a nice write-up of the Dalles races, that did not come off. The Telegram correspondent went off that time at half cock.

NOTICE TO WATER-CONSUMERS. All persons using Dalles City water for irrigating purposes between the 1st day of May and the 1st day of September, will observe the following rules and regulations:

Persons will be permitted to use the water below the bluff on all even days, and above the bluff on all odd days from 6 o'clock a. m. until 8 a. m., and from 6 o'clock p. m. until 8 p. m. The above rules must be strictly complied with, and any infraction of the above rules will subject the offender to a fine of $1, and the water will be shut off until paid; and for a second offence double the amount.

The following charges will be made: For one full lot 50x100, $1.50 per month. Each additional lot $1.25; half lot 75 cts. All persons using water in closet or toilet will see to it that the water is shut off when not in use, or water will be shut off altogether if allowed to run to waste. J. B. CROSSEN, Supt. Dalles City Water Works. m1-3wd

TO DELINQUENT TAXPAYERS. The county court has instructed the county clerk to place a warrant on the tax roll of 1900 commanding me to collect the taxes for said year by making sale, if necessary, of the property therein mentioned, and to return the roll inside of sixty days.

I am sworn to do my duty, and am also under bonds for my faithful performance; therefore have no alternative but to obey the mandate of the court, and will immediately proceed to make out a list of delinquents and advertise the property for sale.

Advertisement for M. T. Nolan's book sale. Text: 'FOR about thirteen years I have devoted more time to politics than to business. The result is that my business has suffered. For a time, at least, I propose to devote more time to business and less to politics, provided the other fellows will let me. During these years some features have come into practice among business men that were not considered proper or necessary at that time. Among them is the scheme of profit-sharing or giving to some lucky customers a valuable present. I propose to do something in this line myself. For each fifty cents paid to me for goods furnished I will give the customer a numbered coupon. On each Saturday at 9 p. m. I will give away two presents—one, a year's subscription to any $1 periodical desired, and the other, one copy of some of the famous pictures neatly framed, the customer can also make a choice of these as there are a number to be given away before supply is exhausted. In addition, every month I will give several valuable presents. On June 5th the presents will be a fine Bible, a Webster's International Dictionary, one year's subscription to a $4 periodical and one 'Boys' Baseball Set. The presents to be given away on July 6th will be announced later. I hope to confine myself in these presents to articles in my own line so that I will not interfere with sale of goods in other lines. In addition I will give a dividend each month to the person who has purchased the most goods from me. On June 5th this will be $5.00. You do not have to purchase fifty cents worth at one time to get a dividend check, as I issue certificates of sale for less amounts which can be exchanged for dividend check when they amount to fifty cents. If clerk does not give you checks or certificates when you make a purchase, ask for them. M. T. NOLAN'

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness. Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly. Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Drug Store or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 60 Warren Street, New York.
