WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

A new vault for a fire-proof and burglar-proof safe is being built in the Wasco warehouse.

It is with regret that we learn of the serious illness of Lois, one of the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Thompson.

Marshal Driver is confined to bed with an attack of the grippe. Harry Mahear is acting marshal till Mr. Driver's recovery.

Ladies who prefer the finer grades in muslin underwear are making their purchases for the season at A. M. Williams & Co.'s special sale.

Dainty under-muslin, elaborately trimmed in laces and embroideries, are now on sale at a third below the regular price, at A. M. Williams & Co.'s.

Arrangements are all but concluded to hold a picnic on the first day of June at Lyle under the auspices of the M. E. Sunday school. Due notice of the event will be given later on.

A colony of 1000 silk worms arrived here yesterday by express. They will commence spinning in a few days when the public will be apprised and due notice of the event given in THE CHRONICLE.

We inadvertently omitted to mention before this time that at the regular weekly drawing at M. T. Nolan's store, Saturday night, Thomas Lantry, of Lyle, captured the picture prize and E. O. McCoy the prize for the magazine.

Judge Blakeley has appointed John Wagonblast as guardian of his two nephews, Edwin and Roy Wagonblast, aged 9 and 6 years respectively, minor children of Charles F. and Bessie Wagonblast, deceased.

THE CHRONICLE is asked to remind the business men of the city that this is the night of the firemen's hose drill and that all members of fire companies should be released from business duty at 6:30 o'clock, so as to give them time to prepare for hose drill.

A dispatch from Shaniko says the Baldwin Sheep & Land Company, of Hay Creek, Crook county, will soon have all their wool in the Shaniko warehouse, the amount being estimated at 1,000,000 pounds. The firm intends to place the entire product on the market some time in June and sell it to the highest bidder.

The last legislature fixed a severe penalty for the sale of "short weight" butter. If a pound roll contains less than 16 ounces, or two-pound roll less than 32 ounces, the seller is liable to a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $100, or imprisonment in the county jail not less than 30 days nor more than six months.

The river stood at 32.2 feet at 8 o'clock this morning, a fall of nine-tenths feet since yesterday noon. Observer Beale, at Portland, announces that the fall in the river will continue for some three days to come. With the maximum temperature of the last few days at about 68, it is possible, and almost probable, that the highest water has been reached. The highest point reached last year was on the 19th, when the gauge showed 33.2 feet above zero.

Mr. A. Scherneckau, of Astoria, is anxious for a better acquaintance between The Dalles people and the Astorians, and to further this end intends to suggest to his people that they shall invite the Dalles people to pay Astoria a visit some time in the near future, preferably at the opening of the Astoria commercial club, which takes place in June, or at the annual regatta, which takes place in August. It is more than probable that such an invitation will be sent here in due time, and it is quite as probable that it will be extensively accepted.

At the firemen's hose practice tonight the objective point will be the new hospital building. The practice will be conducted on the assumption that the hospital is on fire, and the Columbia Hose Company will run a line of hose from the plug at the corner of Laughlin and Fourth streets up the steps to the hospital. The Jackson and East End hose companies will unite and lay a line of hose from the cistern at the corner of Third and Laughlin up the hospital steps, while the South Side and Mount Hood hose companies will unite and lay another line of hose from a supposed fire plug near Mayor Dufur's residence to the hospital.

G. J. Farley returned last night from Dayton, Wash., bringing with him the two saddles that were stolen from his harness shop a couple of months ago. As related yesterday, the saddles had been discovered in the hands of innocent purchasers near Starbuck, through the efforts of Sheriff Kelly. The thieves have been located and Mr. Farley looks for their capture in the near future. The thieves—there were two of them—are known to belong to a clique of horse and cattle rustlers and all-round crooks who are ready for anything, from stealing a cayuse or slick-car to capturing a whole band of either and disposing of them hundreds of miles from their native range. They are known to have operated for some time between Eastern Washington and widely separated points in Eastern Oregon, disposing of the property stolen in Washington here, and vice versa. The capture of the saddle thieves may help materially to break up the band.

The first matinee of The Dalles Driving Association takes place tomorrow, pursuant to the postponement of a week ago on account of the rain. The track and grounds are now in fine condition and the weather today gives promise of favorable conditions for tomorrow. The attendance will undoubtedly be large, as in addition to the presence of persons from abroad, the whole town is expected to turn out, for all the business houses will be closed and all businesses practically suspended from 1 to 6 o'clock. Everything possible has been done to make the occasion one of pleasure. The best musicians in the city have been engaged and the trials of speed between the noblest of our domestic animals will be devoid of the gambling features that have so often made the race track repulsive.

"If the warm weather continues for ten days," said a prominent railroader recently to the Pendleton East Oregonian, "the Columbia river will be booming, perhaps it will be at a flood mark that will cause considerable damage. It is the seasons when the spring is rather late that the floods occur, and this has been a late spring. Already the Columbia has risen enough to cause apprehension in the districts on the lower river, and some of the people living along the shores are preparing for trouble. I was talking the other day with the superintendent of the Northern Pacific railway. He asserted that the records kept by the company show that at the tunnel high up in the Cascades 144 feet of snow fell during the winter. Practically all of this snow is yet to come out, and the danger is that when it comes it will come all at once."

PERSONAL MENTION.

A. J. Brigham, of Dufur, was in town today.

Mrs. John Weigel and child returned home today from a short visit to friends in Portland.

L. H. Scott, O. L. Paquet, W. H. Davis and Emile Hechler, of Wapinitia, were in town today.

Percy Levin left today for Goldendale, where he expects to interest the local talent in putting a play on the boards. Mr. Levin is an able and accomplished artist, whose work on two occasions along the same lines gave very general satisfaction here.

Character Concert a Splendid Success.

The entertainment given at the Baldwin last night by the music committee of the M. E. church is deserving of special commendation. It was really a most enjoyable affair throughout. There was a good attendance, and the interest from the opening double-quartet to the closing sketch never flagged for a moment.

The music was excellent. The double quartet, "Dream On," a most pleasing composition, was splendidly rendered. Mr. F. Sexton sang in fine voice the solo "Deep Down Deep," while Miss Myrtle Mitchell, who is always a favorite with a Dalles audience, well merited the hearty encore she received following her solo "Too Late." The instrumental duet of Mr. Birgfeld and Miss Schmidt was a beautiful selection and greatly appreciated. In the Irish recitation, "Jamie Butler and the Owl," Mr. J. P. Lucas talked like a "native of the soil," and his mastery of the "Deestrick Skule" was superb. After a somewhat thrilling recitation of the tragic order, Miss Buffe responded to an encore in a little catch of a serio-comic nature that showed her talent for this class of reading to excellent advantage.

The "Deestrick Skule" kept the audience in a roar of laughter during the entire session, and proved that there were some genuine artists among the pupils. The one-act sketch, "Per Telephone," at the close was not the least effective of the score, and of the cast, composed of Mr. Earl Sanders, Mr. H. E. Northrup, Misses Rose Mitchell, Pearl Grimes and Edna Barnett, it is hard to say which excelled, each and all did so remarkably well.

Taken as a whole, the entertainment was as enjoyable an affair of its kind as has been given in The Dalles for many a day.

Regarding the Training of Dogs.

The best dog with Norris & Rowe's shows is an orphan, found on the streets of Kansas City, Mo., and he didn't cost the show a cent. He took a liking to the show dogs and has stayed with them ever since. It helps a dog's understanding to get knocked around a bit in the hard world, and so the cur whose parents by chance left him on the streets of Kansas City has grown up with a breadth of understanding that is astonishing. It is doubtful, however, if a pug, under these very favorable conditions would be any more intellectual. The spaniels and poodles are best for trick dogs, and they can be taught to the limit of canine capabilities. The greyhounds do some fine jumping, and collies and others are good in their lines, but for all round work these and the nondescript specimens of caninity, the cur, are the best. And dogs vary more than human beings in their respective faculties, some of them learning in a few lessons what others take months of careful training to accomplish. The best results, I have found in my long experience, can be obtained by taking a dog just after the frikiy days of puppyhood are over. He doesn't know much then, but he learns quickly. In spite, however, of the proverb that you cannot teach an old dog new tricks, a dog that is almost grey-headed can be made a very good trick dog. It takes longer, and it doesn't acquire quite the faculty of the youths, but he can learn if handled right. The best way to train animals is by kindness. Some trainers do it by whipping, as it is a quicker way, but I prefer to treat them kindly. The best way to get the best results is to make the animal think what they are doing is fun, and if the trainer can keep them thinking so, his success is assured."
