If you want a government homestead, call on Hudson & Brownhill, the leading real estate agents, Washington street, The Dalles, Oregon.
The dedication of the bell for the Zion Lutheran church will take place one week from tomorrow. Sermon for the occasion will be delivered by Rev. A. J. Leas, of Portland.
Taxes are coming in lively these days, following the notice that the day of grace is far spent. At noon today Sheriff Kelly had received over $16,000 since the 16th instant.
Frank Tyler, the carpenter, a former employe of Hugh Glenn, has been sick and helpless for the past couple of weeks from a severe attack of rheumatism. At last accounts he was a little better.
We are pleased to learn that at noon today Lois Thompson was "very decidedly better," and her recovery is now confidently expected. Her father, Mr. A. R. Thompson, is expected home tomorrow.
The engagement is announced of Miss Alice F. Huott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huott, of Eight Mile, to Mr. Charles Zigler, Jr., of Portland. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents Wednesday evening, May 29th. No cards.
We have a fine farm for sale about ten miles from the city. It consists of 170 acres; 155 acres in cultivation, 115 acres in wheat, which will produce at least 2000 bushels. We will sell this place within the next thirty days for $2000, easy terms. This is a snap. Hudson & Brownhill, the leading real estate agents, The Dalles, Or.

The river gauge at this place this morning indicated 30.1 feet above zero, a fall of eight-tenths in twenty-four hours. Yesterday was the warmest day of the year. The maximum temperature reached 81 degrees.

Oil experts have been in the vicinity of the Cascade Locks for several days past, and while they will give out nothing, it is known that indications are favorable for a large deposit of petroleum in the region which they have been prospecting. The experts are also looking for coal lands.

The Dufur Dispatch says George B. Bourhill, of Graes Valley, has been interviewing the farmers of Dufur and Kingsley and soliciting contracts for storing their coming crop of grain in a large warehouse he proposes to build in The Dalles provided he shall receive sufficient encouragement to warrant the investment.

With the exception of some little complaint of depredations of the army worm on spring grain, the most flattering prospect for a large yield of all kinds of grain is reported by the farmers from all sections of the county. Indeed, present indications warrant the prediction that the largest crops will be harvested the coming harvest ever known in the history of the county.—Dufur Dispatch.

The grass in the old city cemetery in some unknown way caught fire yesterday, and before Acting Marshal Harry Mahear could get there with help several panels of the outside fence and a number of wooden head-boards and the fencing around a number of the graves and lots were destroyed. The city fathers have ordered the repair of the outside fence and the matter is being attended to today.

John Snodgrass, brother of Robert Snodgrass, of this city, and father of Mrs. J. B. Havelly, of Boyd, and Mrs. A. J. Brigham, of Dufur, arrived at Dufur this week from California and will make his future home with Mrs. Brigham. Mr. Snodgrass is 87 years of age. His father died at 104, a brother died at Boyd a year ago aged 87, and Robert, of this city, the baby of the family, is over 80 and has never been sick a day in his life.

A letter arrived at The Dalles post-office this week addressed to the "President of the Mohair Association of The Dalles, Ore." The letter is only one of from three to twenty that arrive here every day that are intended for one or other of the seventeen "Dallas" post-offices in the United States. There isn't a score of Angora goats in Wasco county, probably not half a score, hence there is no mohair association nor any need for one. When will outsiders learn that this city is distinguished from all other towns in the United States with a nearly similar name by the definite article "The," and that it is not The Dalles, with an a, but "The Dalles" with an e?

We have a number of very fine locations in the state of Washington that will make splendid farms, when cleared. They are near to school house and church; good wells can be gotten on all of them; six to ten miles from steamboat landing on Columbia river. If you are looking for a good homestead it will pay you to call and see us, or enclose a 2-cent stamp for reply and we will write you particulars. Hudson & Brownhill, The Dalles, Oregon.

Seignior Smilini, of the Owl, believes in advertising, first and foremost in the local paper, and next in any effective, legitimate way. So today after the big procession of dogs and ponies had passed, the seignior fixed up the east show window of the Owl, and located therein two little matrons of the pug persuasion with a family of six lovely little pups. The very pretty little exhibit is labeled "The Owl's Opposition to the Dog Show. Patronize Home Industry."

Speaking of the recent Bruner trial the Prineville Review says: "This was N. J. Sinnott's first appearance in our courts and the able manner in which he reviewed the case and the logical inferences he drew from the testimony must have carried conviction to the jury. For an hour he faced the jury, and the congratulations that he received at the close of his address were many, and all his friends who heard his able plea predict for him a bright future."

The business directory of The Dalles is being compiled, and we are glad to state it is to be all home work. Heretofore they have been gotten out in Portland, and in consequence many names were misspelled, etc., errors which will not happen in this case. The work is to be first-class and should be liberally patronized by our business men, as it will be depended upon for several years before being superseded by a new one. Advertisers in this way get several years' benefit of their advertisements.

The CHRONICLE inadvertently omitted to mention Mrs. Jim Biakeney and Mr. E. H. Merrill among the names of the delegates from the local lodge of Rebekahs and Odd Fellows to the meeting of the assembly and grand lodge at Baker. Most of the delegates have returned and they speak in glowing terms of the generous treatment they received from their brethren and the citizens of Baker City and Sumpter. The latter town sent a committee to Baker City and invited the delegates to visit Sumpter and some 500 accepted, who were carried there and back to Baker free and given the freedom of the city while there. At Sumpter the delegates were met by easily two-thirds of the citizens, headed by the mayor and council, a troop of militia, the fire department and a brass band. Sumpter, they say, is a marvelous place, with a population claimed at 2,500, as compared with 300 in 1899 and nobody at all a few years earlier.

The Woolen Mill Proposition.

The mass meeting at the club rooms last night, which was convened to discuss matters connected with a proposition for placing a woolen mill here, was fairly well attended.

President Whealdon occupied the chair and stated the object of the meeting. W. D. Wagon, representing G. W. Hirst, of Iowa, was introduced and stated in few words what Mr. Hirst had to offer. Mr. Hirst was the owner of a four-set mill, worth $28,000. The mill was back in Iowa. Mr. Hirst proposed to install it here. It would give employment, when running at its full capacity, to from 80 to 100 persons, and would have a pay roll of $3500 to $5000 per month. Mr. Hirst asked the people of The Dalles to put up a loan of $25,000 for ten years at six per cent interest, the loan to be secured by a first mortgage on the plant and buildings. Mr. Wagon pledged Mr. Hirst to bear all the expenses of any investigation that it was thought necessary to make to determine the character of the machinery and the competency and ability of Mr. Hirst as a manufacturer.

After a protracted discussion the entire matter was referred back to the committee on manufactures of the commercial club, whose membership gives complete assurance that whatever is done or advised by them in the premises will be done wisely.

Since the meeting last night there has been considerable talk among the friends of the woolen mill favorable to having The Dalles' contribution to the project take the form of a stock subscription instead of a loan. It is the opinion of several prominent citizens that more money could be raised on subscription to stock, with the prospect of sharing in the profits of the enterprise, than on a ten-year loan at the small rate of interest of six per cent. Mr. Wagon informed these gentlemen that, other things being agreeable, Mr. Hirst would have no objection to a stock subscription of $25,000 instead of a loan.

A Splendid Show.

At the matinee performance of Norris & Rowe's big trained animal show every available space in the immense tents was occupied. It is the most complete and interesting display of animal intelligence ever seen here. It is in fact an animal circus, as almost every act attempted by human performers is successfully imitated by these animals, and most wonderfully clever and sagacious acrobats they are, too. The magnificent street parade in the forenoon, with glittering chariots, handsomely carved cages and tableaux wagons, shapely and well-groomed ponies, diminutive elephants, excellent band, trained seals, African zebra, and a host of other interesting features was the neatest as well as the most complete ever seen here.

The people who went to the show expected much from the smart-looking little animals, but still they were not prepared for the many astonishing surprises that the clever little performers had for them. What time the audience was not gazing in wonderment at the almost human acts of the animals, they were roaring with laughter at the clean comedy of both the human and animal clowns.

The performance opened with a grand entre, much the same as all circuses, but while it was going on a beautiful tableaux was formed in the center of the ring by a dwarf elephant, an African zebra, almost two score of ponies, and as many dogs, with Snowflake, the beautiful white Shetland, at the top. Next came a military drill by twelve ponies that executed difficult maneuvers with remarkable precision. Then the dogs came on. There were hind-footers and front-footers and somersault dogs, and funniest of all the clown dogs. Following in rapid succession came numerous riding acts by dogs and monkeys. The performing seals were a genuine novelty and won much applause by their clever work. Some very exciting chariot and hurdle races were given, and the closing act was a very realistic fire scene in which dogs and monkeys, acting as policemen and firemen, handled the miniature fire apparatus with astonishing skill. Taken all in all, it was by far the best show of its kind ever seen in this city. There will be another performance at 8 o'clock this evening.

Don't.

Don't expect a "cheap" enameled utensil to last long. It doesn't.
Don't think such a one can be kept clean. It can't.
Don't believe the "cheap" enamel isn't steadily crumbling away. It is.
Don't imagine in using such you're not eating the enamel. You are.
Don't figure you are saving money buying the cheapest. You're not.
Don't forget the "cheap" has but one coating of enamel. Just one.
Don't fail to recollect that imported Stransky steel-ware lasts for years.
Don't buy that kind if health and economy are of no consequence.
Don't try to get the genuine elsewhere, for it's sold exclusively by m16-1f MAYS & CROWE.

If the people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or waterbrash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. Clarke & Falk's P. O. Pharmacy.
