A marriage license was issued this morning to Allan J. Bardness and Maude Gorten, both of the Wyeth neighborhood.

A little girl read a composition before the minister, says Leslie's Weekly. The subject was "A Cow." She wove in this complimentary sentence: "A cow is the most useful animal in the world, except religion."

A grand, free, phono-stereo entertainment will be given in this city on the night of June 24th, under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World. Full particulars will appear in THE CHRONICLE in a few days.

The contract for the building of seven miles of new road between tunnel No. 3, at the lower end of the Snipes' ranch, and The Dalles will be let on the 1st of July and work will commence as soon as possible thereafter.

The steamer Dalles City took with her to Portland this morning the pile-driver that has been in use for the past few days, by employees of the White Collar Line, in making a landing for the steamer Bailey Gatzert at the foot of Union street.

C. J. Patton, the delivery man of the Pacific Express Company, resigned his position today and advertises in another place for any kind of a job, at reasonable wages, that won't require him to work sixteen hours a day as he has been doing for the past eleven months.

The Wasco Warehouse Milling Company is building eight different warehouses at different points on the O. R. & N. and C. S. The foundation for the new warehouse at Columbus is laid but the work is delayed by reason of the lumber not being delivered fast enough.

Secretary J. F. Watts, of the Hood River Fourth of July committee of arrangements, notifies the editor of THE CHRONICLE that he has been appointed one of the vice-presidents of the day for the celebration at Hood River. In a postal card the secretary says: "Bring The Dalles with you and we will try to make it lively for you."

Representative M. A. Moody was notified this morning by the commissioner of pensions at Washington, D. C., that his application for a pension for Sarah E., widow of the late Alexander Henderson, of Houlton, Columbia county, Oregon, had been acted upon favorably and a pension of $8 a month granted her, to date from June 9th of last year.

J. W. Dixon, of Endersby, returned recently from Canyon City, whither he went with a load of groceries for local merchants and stockmen, bringing back a load of wool from the ranch of Wallace and Johnston, of Birch Creek, Grant county. Mr. Dixon says he could go back and have all the freight he could carry both ways, but is obliged to stay at home and look after affairs on the ranch.

It is the intention of Volney Driver, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Driver of this city, to take the examination, to be held in Portland on the 27th instant, for admission as a cadet to the Annapolis naval academy. About fifteen to twenty young men will contest for the appointment of one of their number to the cadetship, and the test, physical qualifications being equal, will be one of scholarship.

The hills surrounding Antelope were covered with snow, last Wednesday, to a depth of from four to eighteen inches. On the divide east of that town there was eighteen inches, and a phone message from the Rooper ranch stated that there was an average of depth of five inches at that point. The Herald thinks it would possibly be a good idea to put off the Fourth of July celebration until the Antelopers are sure the winter is over.

The chemical engine got a chance last night to show what it can do, and the result ought to be most gratifying to every man who subscribed a dollar for its purchase. Had the ordinary hose been used the amount of water needed to extinguish the fire would have flooded the building. As it is, business goes on today in the restaurant, and the only evidence that there was a fire overhead that is visible from the restaurant is a trifling hole in the plaster of the ceiling that can be repaired at a trifling cost.

The examination of J. C. Craig for the assault and robbery, Sunday night, of the Chinese gardener, Chan Sing, was finally set for this morning in Justice Brownhill's court, but Craig waived examination and was bound over in the sum of $300. It is probable that Craig may be permitted to plead guilty to simple assault, as the authorities find it impossible to prove home on any of the young fellows, who were undeniably mixed up in the assault, such evidence as will convict any of them of the higher crime of highway robbery.

Mr. G. J. Farley announces in another place in this issue that he will permit his name to be used next Monday as an independent candidate for mayor, and that he has adopted this course at the repeated and urgent solicitation of a large number of the taxpayers of this city. The announcement is not a surprise, as it was well known that Mr. Farley had been earnestly urged to permit his name to go before the convention, but refused. The only contest will be over the mayorship. The other nominees of last night's convention will run without opposition.

Within the space of about five hours yesterday afternoon two fires were started on the second floor of the McKay building, which is occupied on the first floor by the New York restaurant. Both fires would seem to be the work of an incendiary. The first fire was discovered at 2:30 in the water closet after it had burned a hole about nine inches in diameter through the laths of the wall just above the base board. The plaster had probably been pulled off to give the fire a start. Wallace Wilson, the lessee of the building, supposed at the moment that the fire had probably started from the lighted stump of a cigar. The fire was easily extinguished with two or three pitchers of water. About five hours later somebody on the south side of the street opposite the building noticed a thick volume of smoke issuing out of a bedroom window on the east side of the building. A fire alarm was rung in and the fire was soon extinguished by the chemical engine, but not before it had burned the bedstead and bedding, ruined the furniture and carpet and burned a large hole in the wall. Here again the work of the incendiary was more clearly in evidence, for the room had not been occupied for some time and was awaiting a renter. The loss, all told, amounts to something in the neighborhood of $100 to $150 and is fully covered by insurance.

Announcement.

Upon the request of many voters and taxpayers of Dalles City, I hereby offer my name for the office of mayor, and if elected I will do all in my power to perform the duties of that office to the best interests of the city.

G. J. FARLEY.

The Shooting of Jake Prahl.

John McAlister, of Glenwood, while in town today gave THE CHRONICLE the following version of the events leading up to the shooting of Jake Prahl some six miles north of Glenwood last Sunday morning. The shooting can be set down to a dispute over sheep range. Prahl and McGrath, who did the shooting, are both sheepmen. McGrath has a flock of 600 that he has been running on a range that not long ago sufficed for five or six ordinary flocks. It is all public land and Prahl took his sheep to it and pitched his tent about a mile from McGrath's camp. Next morning Prahl found that McGrath's sheep had mixed with his at early dawn. A separation was made, and on the morning following Prahl discovered McGrath deliberately driving his sheep towards the Prahl band with the evident intention of mixing them. Prahl ran between the two bands to keep them from mixing, when McGrath pointed his shot gun at Prahl and swore he would fill him full of holes if he did not desist. Prahl, who is anything but a coward, drew his revolver and said he was ready to do some shooting himself the moment McGrath dared to fire.

The sheep were kept separate, and McGrath and a brother-in-law, who had arrived at McGrath's camp the previous night, retired behind a large rock where they could not be seen by Prahl, and McGrath deliberately fired at Prahl, the shot taking effect in Prahl's hip and felling him to the ground.

Coming to himself after a short time he fired two shots in the direction of the smoke of McGrath's gun and then crawled back to the tent, where he mounted a horse and rode to Glenwood, where his wound was dressed by a local physician named Spongal. On arriving at Glenwood Prahl fainted from the pain of the wound and loss of blood. Monday morning John McAlister hitched up his back and took Prahl to Golden-dale, where his wound was probed by Drs. Bonebrake and Stewart, but without being able to extract the bullet.

Prahl left his sheep in the hands of two men who were, unknown to McGrath, witnesses to the shooting. Upon information sent to the sheriff of Yakima county that officer and the sheriff of Klickitat county started yesterday morning for the scene of the shooting armed with a warrant for the arrest of McGrath, and probably another for the arrest of McGrath's brother-in-law.

Nominations for City Offices.
Pursuant to the call of the mayor, about 350 citizens of The Dalles met in the circuit court room last night and nominated candidates for mayor, councilmen and water commissioners to be voted for next Monday. The meeting was called to order by President of the Council Frank Gunning, who stated the object of the gathering and called for nominations.

Attorney F. W. Wilson placed in nom-
