WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Menefee & Parkins yesterday sold to Father Bronsgeest a magnificent Weber piano in fancy English oak, one of the best make of upright pianos in the market.

Lee Steers, of Suplee, Grant county, arrived at the Wasco warehouse yesterday with a load of wool belonging to Alex. McIntosh, of Grindstone. Mr. Steers will return with a load of merchandise and supplies.

The secretary of the interior has affirmed the decision of the general land office, denying the application of William C. Caldwell for re-payment of purchase money paid by him on cash entry for a quarter section tract in The Dalles land district.

Adjutant Marion Evans, junior staff secretary of the North Pacific Division of the Salvation Army, will be with the local corps tonight. Miss Evans is on her farewell tour of the division, having been appointed J. S. secretary for the Michigan chief division. Everybody is cordially invited.

The Boston Bloomers duly arrived in town this morning, and their car is sidetracked at the foot of Washington. As all the business houses agreed to close at 2 o'clock to give the employees a chance to see the base ball game THE CHRONICLE goes to press an hour and a half earlier than usual.

The ladies of the Good Intent Society invite their friends to a midsummer evening's entertainment and social in the basement of the M. E. church Friday night. A good entertainment is being prepared, as well as an enjoyable gaze. The basement is always cool, and the ladies will serve ice cream and cake. Go and enjoy yourself.

One of the contests on the 4th of July at Albany will be a very laughable swimming match between eight or ten men. They will start in tight and swim to a raft, where they will put on stove pipe hats, swim back and put on their pants, cross again and put on their coats, then again and get an umbrella, which they will raise and swim back with, the man getting out first with his umbrella being the winner. It will afford an immense sight of sport.

O. L. Paquet, of Wapinitia, came to town yesterday with a bunch of twenty-five head of yearling steers recently purchased on the Warm Spring reservation by Henry Phirman, for the Columbia Packing Company. They cost about $25 a head, which shows conclusively that your Warm Springs siwash knows with tolerable accuracy what a steer is worth.

The fountain in front of the United States land office should be attended to now that the warm days have come when a drink of water is peculiarly refreshing, especially to the dumb brutes. The fountain has been for a long time clogged up and utterly useless. In the several basins are little greenish colored liquid pools, from which even the thirsty dogs turn away.

What is known as the big trestle on the Paul Mohr portage, a little above Big Eddy, not having been anchored to the ground when it was built, was floated by the recent high water in the Columbia and fell over on its side, every bent of it being so moved save one. The trestle is 600 feet in length and about fifty feet in height at the middle. It is believed that the timbers are badly wrecked and twisted.

A Gilliam county paper boasts of a resident of that county who has a turkey gobbler that is hatching out a setting of turkey eggs, after having driven the mother turkey from the nest. That's nothing. Enderby, in this county, has a resident who owns a gobbler that is hatching out a setting of hen's eggs, after having driven the hen from her nest. The Enderby man is Bill Robertson, and he has the further distinction of raising hens that once in a while lay three or four eggs without drawing their breath.

We copy the following from the Greensburg, Indiana, Standard, a paper, by the way, that was established by M. Z. Donnell's grandfather in 1835 and is still owned and conducted by a relative of the family: "J. P. Thompson received by express on Monday a Columbia river salmon, forty-two inches long and weighing as many pounds. It arrived in splendid condition, packed in ice. This is no doubt the first fresh salmon ever 'landed' in Greensburg direct from the famous home of the salmon. It was a present from a cousin, Martin Z. Donnell, of The Dalles, Oregon. It was divided and nine persons drew a piece each of the mammoth, toothsome fish."

It has happened as THE CHRONICLE predicted. When Seth Morgan and his good wife sold their comfortable home on Three Mile, with the intention of taking up their residence in the Sound country or in the Willamette valley, THE CHRONICLE told Seth that they couldn't hold him over there with a log chain. They were to try one or other of these countries for three years at least, and in any event, but both came back yesterday and they came to stay; and if anybody has a nice little home he wants to part with he might find a customer by conferring with Mr. Morgan. THE CHRONICLE heartily welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Morgan back to God's country. We have been sort of lonely since Seth went away. He was about the last living representative of the populist party in this county, and they, in their time, contributed so much to the gavity of this part of the political vineyard that we always wanted Seth to sort of stay here for seed.

Some time ago a well-known San Francisco attorney, who prides himself upon his handling of Chinese witnesses, was defending a railway damage case. Instead of following the usual questions as to name, residence, if the nature of an oath were understood, etc., he began: "What is your name?" "Kee Lung." "You live San Francisco?" "Yes." "You sabbie God?" "Mr. Attorney, if you mean do I understand the entity of our Creator, I will simply say that Thursday evening next I shall address the State Ministerial Association on the subject of the 'Divinity of Christ,' and shall be pleased to have you attend." Needless to say, a general roar of laughter swept over the court room at this clever sally, and it was some minutes, much to the discomfort of the lawyer for the defense, before order was restored and the examination proceeded upon ordinary lines.

Killed By Vandals.

Last Sunday night, says the Fossil Journal, unknown vandals, to the number of ten or twelve, rode through a band of sheep belonging to Shown Bros., which were camped near where Rock creek empties into Crooked river, in Crook county. As they rode, the lawless gang fired about a hundred shots into the sheep, killing five and crippling many others. The herder, R. E. Scott, was awakened by the commotion and saw the men ride away. Prior to the shooting, a warning notice had been pinned on the herder's tent.

The sheep were on government land, many miles from the so-called forbidden ground of the Beaver creek settlers, and the outrage has aroused great indignation among the sheepmen of central Wheeler county who summer their sheep in that vicinity. The sheepmen have no intention of taking their flocks away there and are organizing to meet force, which they have a legal right to do.

It is probable the end of the affair is not yet.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.

The partnership heretofore existing between John Howe and M. Curran, under the style of Howe & Curran, has been dissolved. M. Curran will continue the business at the old stand and pay all debts of the late firm, and collect all accounts due said firm. Dated June 12, 1901.

Indians Must Obey the Law.

L. P. Quimby, the game and forester warden of the state, lately visited Walla Walla county for the purpose of endeavoring to settle the controversy between the settlers and the Indians over the question of the latter's practice of hunting and fishing out of season. To a Baker City reporter Mr. Quimby expressed the determination to put a stop to the practice. He had come to the conclusion that often the depredations of Indians were due to negligence or willful disregard on the part of the agents on the reservations. For instance, he found in Southern Oregon that Indians outside of the reservation had a permit to get deer hides, although the season for deer was closed. This agent, who was in charge of the Warm Spring reservation, had no authority whatever to issue such a permit, and merely misled the Indians so that they went forth and violated the law, believing that they had absolute authority to do so. Mr. Quimby states that this agent is in trouble over the occurrence, and that he will make it a business in the future to determine the attitude of agents wherever Indians are found killing game.

G. J. Farley Elected Mayor.

The city election of yesterday resulted in the choice of G. J. Farley, independent candidate for mayor, over W. A. Johnston, the regular nominee, by a majority of 37.

The only other contest was for councilman of the first ward, where F. W. L. Skibbe ran against the regular nominee, J. M. Toomey, and notwithstanding that Mr. Toomey, when he heard he was opposed, promptly announced his resignation, the people kept voting for him and he was elected by a majority of 30. The vote stood 98 for Toomey and 68 for Skibbe.

The vote for mayor in the various wards was as follows: First ward—Johnston 107; Farley 65. Johnston's majority 42. Second ward—Farley 127; Johnston 84. Farley's majority 43. Third ward—Farley 114; Johnston 78. Farley's majority 36. Total majority for Farley 37.
