The Moro Observer is pleased to note that Mayor-Elect Farley authorizes The Chronicle to say that candidates for marshal and recorder may spare themselves the trouble of getting up petitions asking him to nominate them for these offices.

Seafar Brothers are experimenting with canning eels, which can be caught in unlimited numbers at certain stages of the dalles rapids. Samples of the new product have been sent to cannerymen at Astoria, who pronounce it equal to the imported article.

The Hood River nine went against it pretty hard at The Dalles last Sunday when the sphere twirlers from that city rolled up a 14 to 5 score. The Hood River boys are not done for yet and will endeavor to reverse the score on the 4th of July and secure the $50 purse put up by our townsmen.—Glacier.

The Astoria people are not very well satisfied with the present day service from Portland to Astoria, as the steamer does not arrive in time for way passengers to do any trading. Inducements have been made to the D. P. & A. N. Co. to put a boat on this run, leaving Portland in the morning, provided it be a faster boat than the one now in service.

Charley Hix, the Kingsley lad who was nearly burned to death last fall by falling into the parlor fire in a fainting spell, was brought to The Dalles hospital yesterday and placed under the care of Drs. Ferguson. The poor boy is in a sad condition, the scorched skin having refused to heal and the skin grafting process being hitherto only partially successful.

Hood River's most successful strawberry season has virtually closed, and the total shipments of berries will foot up close to 40,000 crates as compared with 28,000 of last year. The Glacier says it is estimated that the crop has netted Hood River berry growers $75,000 in hard cash and that there is hardly an acre in the valley planted to strawberries that has not netted the grower from $100 to $400.

The Oregonian says Archbishop Christie of the Catholic church has secured control of the Portland University property on the peninsula, and will open it about September 15th as a classical school for Catholic young men, boarders and day pupils. It will begin on a small scale but will eventually, it is believed, be a pretentious institution. The terms upon which the university passes to the Catholics are not known.

While engaged in hauling in the seine yesterday at Alex. Grant's grounds the men found a great black fish in the web, says the Astoria News. A rope was made fast around the body of the leviathan and the services of a horse called in requisition. The black fish fought hard but had to come ashore. The tightening of the rope around its body resulted in making it disgorge several large salmon. The black fish weighed several tons.

The Corkonian-Moro correspondent of the Wasco News, who was born within the shadow of the Blarney stone and who used to kiss it every morning before breakfast, writes to the News thusly: "While in The Dalles last week we had the pleasure of making a visit to our countryman, Hugh Gourlay, the editor of the Chronicle. The paper is much improved since the rooster from dear old Dublin took hold of it. It was always a gossip sheet and is now better than ever."

Eugene has a minister who works for a living. He has a little fruit ranch near town and his berries and grapes are always sought after in the markets because he puts out only first-class stuff and gives full measure with no poor fruit in the bottom. He labors all the week through with his hands and earns his own living and teaches his children to work for a living, and on Sunday he fills his pulpit and gives all indications of being perfectly sane, and has good health morally and physically. He is an Episcopalian.

Commencing next Monday the Regulator line will have two boats daily, except Sunday, on the run between The Dalles and Portland. The boats will leave here for Portland at 7 a. m. and 3 p. m., and will leave Portland for The Dalles at 7 a. m. and 11 p. m. The night boat from Portland will do the principal part of the up-freight way business. The Iraida, which has been leased to Portland parties, will be taken off the run between The Dalles and the Cascades and placed on the run between Portland and Ranier. The new arrangements have been made so as to run all the boats as near as possible on a prompt time schedule.

The Baldwin Sheep & Land Company have secured the services of Dwight Lincoln, of Lincoln Center, who is considered one of the best judges of sheep in the United States, to go to Germany and France to select some choice ewes and bucks. Mr. Lincoln sailed from New York on the 23rd of May, and he is now on the ground making selections. The company secured the privilege from the French government of going into the stud flocks of France and selecting such bucks as they desire for shipment, a privilege that is rarely granted to anyone outside of that country. When these new importations arrive they will be a most valuable acquisition to the company's choice herds.—Shaniko Leader.

Of nearly a score of boys who applied for permission to take the competitive examination for a cadetship at Annapolis Naval Academy from this congressional district only 11 took the examination, which commenced in the post-office building at Portland yesterday morning. These were Harold Baldwin, of Prineville; Ernest Durr, of Baker City; V. Carlyle Driver, of The Dalles; Percy A. Smith, A. Murphy, Horton C. Nicholas, Hugh Bellinger, Edwin C. Metchan, Marion W. Fiske, Ben S. Morrow and Will Randall, of Portland. From a private dispatch from Representative Moody, received this afternoon, we learn that the successful candidate is Ernest Durr, of Baker City, with Hugh Bellinger, grandson of Judge Bellinger, as alternate. Ernest Durr is a graduate of the Baker City High school. Young Bellinger's father was appointed to a cadetship in the same school in 1876.

Thieves entered the pantry of the W. H. Groat residence last night and swept the place of all its edible contents except a dozen jars of preserved strawberries. They carried off all the tea, coffee, sugar, meal, bread, cake, crackers, salt and potatoes in the larder, and everything else down to a bar of soap and a package of matches. They even procured a spoon and tackled a big dish of strawberry jam, wiping the last bit of it. But according to take the spoon when they were evidently intent on securing grub they left it in the dish. They had evidently emptied the provisions they carried off into sacks, for they left the packages and paper sacks scattered about the room. Marshal Driver went up and examined the premises this morning and found that the burglars had entered the premises either in their stocking feet or with burlap wrapped around their shoes. The burglary is most probably the work of local artists, but the pity of it is that even if the stolen goods were found it would be next to impossible to identify them.

R. E. Gilbreth & Sons will keep at all times a supply of hay, grain and feed which they will retail at the lowest market rates.

Goldendale as a "Dry" Town.

While the temperance people of Goldendale have the right to rejoice in their victory at the last city election, the facts are evident that their achievement is barren of results says the Sentinel. So far as outward appearances go, no one who wishes to imbibe in this "dry" town of whiskey, wine or beer need suffer long with thirst. The drug stores are doing the business and the city is minus the revenue. There is no relief under the present state laws and, under such conditions, it will be no surprise if several more "drug stores" open for business. The future Goldendale saloon keeper will have to be a registered pharmacist, if prohibition that doesn't prohibit is to continue. The rum power appears to be on top whether the town be "dry" or "wet," and the voters can have the revenue or not just as they choose. There is no use mincing words, "King Alcohol" reigns supreme. If Goldendale wants prohibition, there will have to be needed legislation enacted at Olympia. Until that time our people will continue to have "free trade" or "high tariff" corn jules, with no difference in the cost to the consumer.
