

Now the Clearance Sales of July....

There's more than one good reason for phenomenally low prices in the month of July. It's the best clearing time for Summer Merchandise. It's easier to sell it just when you can make the most use of it. It's better to sell it, even at a sacrifice, than carry it over to another season—it's against our plan of merchandising to carry goods over. It means small profits for us, but more of them, and it means BETTER VALUES FOR YOU.

four miles below town. What became of the man nobody knows but there is a strong presumption that he is somewhere at the bottom of the river.

SALMAGUNDI.

The first thing a woman wants is to be well treated; once in a while she wants to be petted; the third thing, she wants to be admired; the fourth, she never wants to be contradicted.

It is stated that representatives of the German government are scouring Arizona for horses for the German army, and that several hundred of a rough and hardy variety have already been selected.

The Berlin municipal authorities have granted £1,000 for the preparation of a plan for an underground railway, which is to run from north to south of Berlin, following the line of the Friedrichstrasse.

At the beginning of June in each year about 300 organ grinders leave Italy for London. They return to their native land in October and live well for the next eight months, when they again start on their pilgrimage.

A fool of a man named Brown, of Spokane, went to Portland last week and took a $500 champagne bath at one of that city's sporting houses. One hundred bottles of $5 champagne were emptied into the tub, and Brown bathed his feet in it for an hour or two.

The Woodmen of the World will initiate 1000 candidates in Portland on August 3d. It is expected that 10,000 members of the order will be present from all over the state. The ceremony will take place at midnight in the open air near Mt. Tabor.

Another bond uniting us to England has just been forged. King Edward bet his money on Whitney's horse and won, of course. As long as he doesn't undertake to play poker with any of our people there is no reason why the amicable relations already established should not grow.—Topeka Journal.

This is from the Moro correspondence in the Wasco News: "Mrs. Redfield writes of Omaha as a hell of a place. Well—she didn't say that exactly, but from her description of the heat we think it a correct way to put it. We people out here in the West don't know when we have a good thing. No heat that kills, no blizzards, no cyclones, and in fact no hell."

If a dainty white hand should slip into mine,
Would I squeeze it? Well, now if I shouldn't
I'd feel like a clam—such a chance to resign—
I couldn't keep from it, and wouldn't.

If a trim little waist I should find in my arm—
Now where is the fellow that wouldn't?
Who in such a conjunction could find any harm?
I'll swear that I wouldn't and shouldn't.

If a pair of red lips were turned up to my own,
With no one to say that I shouldn't,
Would I pray for endurance to let them alone?
Well, I wouldn't! confound it, I couldn't!—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Alice Ball from the corps of teachers was overlooked. Miss Ball has had charge of her sister's room during her absence the past year. She is an earnest, enthusiastic teacher, and her work has been quite satisfactory. Miss Ball withdraws from teaching entirely on her own accord. She leaves the public school work to engage in the study of music. She will also teach music in The Dalles the coming year.

A paragraph in yesterday's Oregonian relating to the health of Mr. D. M. French of this city is liable to create an impression that is opposite of the truth. It would indicate that Mr. French's health is worse since his visit to Sea View about a month ago, whereas, the truth is, his general condition is improved. His appetite is much better than it was when he left here, and while his heart still gives him trouble, this too is better. These facts are gathered from a letter received from Mr. French yesterday by his brother, J. W. The letter is in Mr. French's own handwriting.

Justice Brownhill's court was occupied all day today and yesterday with the examination of Charles Green, A. J. Bardness and Cliff Gorton of Wyeth who are charged with attempt to kill and assault with a deadly weapon on complaint of J. Jackman, the section foreman of that place. The testimony was all in at the close of the forenoon session and this afternoon, up to the time of going to press, the lawyers, Frank Menefee for the state and Moore & Gavin for the defense were occupied in telling his honor what they thought about the case. The case will probably be submitted to the justice before the supper hour.

From various reliable sources we learn that winter wheat in some sections of the Dufur neighborhood has been practically ruined by the frosts of a few weeks ago that caught it in the bloom. Hundreds of acres that promised to yield from 30 to 50 bushels to the acre have been blasted so that they are not even fit for hay. The names of Johnston Bros., Willard Vanderpool and Alex Strachan are mentioned as heavy losers. Leon Rondeau, of Tygh Ridge, who was in town last night, says no damage has been done to the grain in the Kingsley country, so far as he knows; and H. N. Dertlieb, of Victor, makes a similar report for the Wapinitia flat. In no instance that we have heard of has any injury been done to spring grain, and that done to fall grain has only been in streaks.

A telephone message received from Prineville this morning announced that M. A. Moore, a prominent business man of that town, had accidentally shot himself to death the night before last, while handling a loaded revolver in his store. These are all the particulars yet received regarding the accident. The deceased is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, of this city and a brother of Mrs. V. C. Brock of Wasco.

His wife was in The Dalles last week on official business connected with the Degree of Honor, and went from here to the Willamette valley. She passed up the road at noon today to meet the remains of her husband which will be taken to Portland for interment. She was joined here by the father and mother of her dead husband. Mr. Moore was a man of about 45 years of age.

The Dalles City had on board this morning, bound for Portland, George W. Waite, a civil engineer of Chicago who has been a resident of the Windy City since 1839, a period of sixty-two years. At that time the city which now has over 2,000,000 inhabitants claimed a population of 3,500, but had not in reality, in Mr. Waite's opinion, more than 3,000. Mr. Waite told THE CHRONICLE that he was the first surveyor to set a stake for a railroad in the state of Illinois, a state that has now a railroad mileage of 10,870 miles. He has been on this coast since the month of April, traveling all over it, and is therefore very enthusiastic in its praise. He has made himself acquainted with the vast resources of the Inland Empire and has inspected the Dalles-Celilo obstruction to the navigation of the Columbia, with the result that he avows his determination to advocate the immediate construction of a canal and locks wherever and whenever such advocacy has any prospect of being effective. Mr. Waite is a man of over 82 years of age, but he is more active and hearty looking than many a man of 50.

A passenger on the Regulator a couple of days ago saw lying on the bank of the river, opposite the Snipes ranch below Crate's Point, a strange looking craft built wholly of tin and fashioned into the shape of a diminutive scow, about six feet in length and four feet in width. The sight may indicate a tragedy. For some weeks a man, evidently crazy but harmless, was camped under the willow trees north of the railroad track and east of the Wasco warehouse. Officers of the law visited his camp for the purpose of arresting him for larceny but desisted on coming to the conclusion that he was simply a harmless crank. The fellow spent his time gathering discarded tin cans and soldering the pieces of tin into a little scow. When asked what he was going to do with the scow he replied that he was going to Portland on it. When asked how he was going to get through the locks, he said he wasn't going through the locks but over the rapids, and that the scow would carry him over without a bit of difficulty or danger. And sure enough he meant all he said, for a few days ago he launched the little scow in the river and was carried past The Dalles by the current. As the little craft struck the cross current at the mouth of Mill Creek it spun around like a top, but on it went and was never heard of or seen till the passenger on the Regulator saw it high and dry on the bank of the river three or

Just received at Gilbreth & Son's lumber yard, a few carloads of No. 1 cedar posts and A shingles. They are agents for Heath & Milligan's celebrated shingle paint. Call on them; their prices are all right. Wood not seasoned is better by 50c a cord than wood that is. j10

At the last regular meeting of the Order of Washington, Continental Union No. 76, the officers elected in June were installed in their respective offices by Mr. Mayberry, supreme drill master of the Order of Washington. Edgar Lemmon was appointed captain of the team here. Mr. Phillip Surad, of the Great Northern Furniture House, served the union with an elegant lunch at the close of the installation.

A telephone message received by Mrs. A. M. Patterson of this city, Monday night, announced the dangerous illness of her sister-in-law, Mrs. G. B. Grey, wife of a prominent hardware merchant in Salem. Another message yesterday morning announced the lady's death, and Mrs. Patterson left on the next train to attend the funeral, which took place today. Mrs. Grey was about 42 years of age. The cause of death was peritonitis.

In the publication of the assignment of teachers of The Dalles public schools a few days ago, the withdrawal of Miss
