Total expenditure $12,778 85
Total income $17,657 67
Total expenditure 12,778 85

Total saving for city $ 4,878 82
A comparison of the saving this year with a few other years will show that the administration of the city's affairs has been better than all previous records. Previous to the years following the city ran at a loss and the present debt was incurred amounting to $57,000.

For the fiscal year, July 1, 1896 to June 30, 1897:
Expenditure $10,119 34
Income 10,077 18

Deficit $ 42 16

Income $14,448 00
Expenditure 11,917 57

Saving to the city $ 2,530 43
And this my third report shows:

Income $17,657 67
Expenditure 12,778 85

Saving to the city $ 4,878 82
Besides this saving, money was expended beyond the usual expenditures as follows:

The beneficial improvement of nearly one mile of street; the construction of more than 1000 feet of 10-inch terra cotta sewer mains on Union street; the complete repair and rebuilding of Ninth street bridge; the purchase of 500 feet of fire hose; the purchase of fire hydrants; the expense of the proposed sewer system incurred the previous year, and the successful defense of the action against the city for damages.

The city is running on a five or six mill tax, while many of the other cities of Oregon and Washington, are struggling under a much heavier tax a few of which are cited:

Salem with a debt of $200,000	10 mills
Astoria	10 mills
Oregon City	7 mills
Eugene	8 mills
Portland	10 mills
Forest Grove	10 mills

Less than two and a half years ago there was no sinking fund to meet the city's bonded obligations, now we have over $12,000 all of which is drawing interest. Besides this there is in the general fund about $6,000 in cash.

POWER FOR THE DALLES.

Electric Plant Being Built at White River Falls.

The Pacific Bridge Company, of this city, which was recently awarded a contract by the Wasco Warehouse & Milling Company, of The Dalles, for the construction of a hydro-electric power plant at White River Falls, has commenced operations. It has fifty men employed on the head works, and has the poles for transmission line partly set. The falls in White River are 142 feet high. They are situated between Tygh Valley and Shearer Bridge, thirty-five miles from The Dalles. The contract calls for the construction of stations on White River and at The Dalles, and for the erection of wires for the transmission of the electricity generated; also for supplying and installing all water wheels, dynamos, transformers, etc., the whole to be completed and ready for operation by September 1st.

The head works consist of a dam across White River a short distance above the falls, an intake, trench and tunnel for a wooden stave conduit 56 inches in diameter, and 1250 feet long, to convey the water to the wheels in the station below the falls, giving a fall of 130 feet. The station will be of masonry or concrete 35x65 feet with an iron truss roof, fire-proof and indestructible, and like everything about the plant, of the latest and most improved style. The waterwheels are of the type known as the "impulse wheel," and will be connected direct to the generators. They have buckets around the periphery, into which the water from the conduit passes through nozzles. There will be two 500 K. W. generator sets in this station, which will generate electricity at 2300 volts, which by passing through transformers, will be "stepped" to 22,000 volts, and under this "pressure" will be transmitted over three bare No. 6 copper wires to The Dalles, where it will pass through transformers and be "stepped" down to any desired "pressure." The generating station will supply about 1000-horsepower of electricity.

The largest consumer of this current will be the new flouring mill being built by the Wasco Warehouse & Milling Co. The company is investing $40,000 in a mill of the latest and most improved style. It will be operated by electricity. About 300-horsepower will be needed for this purpose. The steam plant which operates the electric light works at The Dalles, owned by the same company, will be shut down, and the plant will be operated by electricity. The company will also furnish electricity for private or municipal lighting or commercial power.

When completed, this will be the longest electric power transmission line in the Northwest. It will prove very beneficial to the interests of The Dalles.—Oregonian, 8th.

The Grass Valley Journal learns that C. C. Cooper is thinking of locating in that town and going into the harness business.

A meeting of The Dalles Driving Association will be held in the Commercial club rooms at 8:30 tonight. By order of the president of the association.

The sale of the George Gardner property at the Cascade Locks, by the sheriff, on a judgment and execution in favor of W. Lair Hill, was postponed today, for want of bidders, to next Saturday at the same hour.

Sam T. Shaw, the prince of theatrical managers and a general favorite of the public, died in Kansas City last week. Many play-goers in this city will feel that Mr. Shaw's death has closed the career of a most clever and versatile comedian.

A. H. Fligg, of Endersby, told THE CHRONICLE today that fully one-third of the wheat in his neighborhood has been ruined by the late frosts, and of what is left none of it will be No. 1. Here, again, however, the damage is in stacks, for while Orville Wingfield's wheat is badly damaged, John Doyle's, on the other side the fence, is uninjured.

Yesterday forenoon an unknown young man of a sandy complexion and wearing dark clothes "borrowed" the horse and cart of Alex Frazer, of Dutch Flat, and did not return the rig for six hours. Mr. Frazer came to town in the morning and, as is his custom, hitched his horse in a vacant space southeast of the Columbia Packing Co.'s market.

When he was ready to start for home the horse and cart were missing. After considerable inquiry he heard of a man and single rig having crossed the Fourth street bridge. Securing a saddle horse he hurried after the outfit and rode to Downs, only to find that he was on the wrong scent. At his wit's end to guess what had become of his horse and cart he returned to town, and exactly six hours after they were stolen he found both, safe and sound, with the horse hitched to a post in the neighborhood of Chrisman Brothers' meat market. Now, Alex was out a dollar for the saddle horse and it the thief will leave that amount for him at this office, and a couple more for the six hours' use of the horse and cart, Alex will agree not to shoot him on sight, otherwise otherwise.

If that man Vereshuren, or whatever they call him, who recently told the Astoria News that the heat in The Dalles was "terrible," had been here today he would have seen ladies walking the streets, near the noon hour, wearing astrachan cloaks and fur collarettes, and one lady actually wore a big, fuzzy fur collarette up over her little pink ears. And she was young and good looking, too, and dressed, as far as THE CHRONICLE is able to judge what is au fait in female toggery, in the height of fashion. And the forenoon was nearly as warm as any forenoon of the season. The fact is, no country under the stars ever had more delightful weather than The Dalles has had so far this summer.

The directors of The Dalles Commercial club met last evening to consider what action should be taken in connection with the coming visit of the congressional river and harbors committee in view of the correspondence on this subject between the committee and Representative Moody. This correspondence was submitted and a committee was appointed to counsel with the citizens of The Dalles and plan measures for the proper reception and entertainment of the visitors, who are expected to arrive here on the afternoon of Wednesday the 24th instant. Through the efforts of Mr. Moody, in connection with the Portland chamber of commerce, a boat has been secured to bring the committee from Lewiston to Wallula, but thus far these parties have been unable to secure a boat from Wallula to Cello. However, the effort will not be abandoned till the last moment, and in the event of failure the party will make the trip by rail. The Lewiston chamber of congress sent an invitation to Representative Moody and two members of The Dalles Commercial Club, asking them to visit Lewiston with the congressional committee and be its guests while there and during the trip from Lewiston to Cello, and The Dalles Club appointed as these guests, John S. Schenck and E. O. McCoy.

W. E. Anderson has purchased the barbershop formerly conducted by Frank Lane, on Second street near Court. He will conduct a first class place and respectfully solicits a share of the trade. jy12-15
