

Rolling Mill Consumption

When out of every ten men who work in rolling mills, iron foundries and glass factories the average life span is only thirty-five years. The usual complaint is a chronic cough and phlegm day and night, which eventually leads to death. The trouble comes from the dust and the constant fuming of the fine particles of dust and iron that fill the air. These particles enter the lungs, irritate the mucous membrane, which has and mutilate the delicate lining of the throat and lungs. Perpetual sore is thus formed, and here it is that the cause of consumption that a place to feed and multiply.
