DEFENDED WIFE'S HONOR.

Andrew Lytle's Excuse for Killing Emmett Eagan.

Hunters of a party from Prineville, now in Portland, give particulars of the killing of Emmett Eagan by Andrew Lytle at the old Maling saw mill, eighteen miles north of Prineville, on last Sunday. The shooting took place about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and Eagan died at 9 o'clock in the evening, after making a dying declaration which was put in writing.

It appears that both men had been working at a saw mill as common laborers. Lytle, who has a wife and two children, had rooms, and Eagan, who is a single man, slept at the bunkhouse of the company. Last Sunday afternoon Lytle, who had been away for a day or so, returned and went to George Poin-dexter, one of the mill hands, and requested the loan of a revolver, stating that he wished to kill a dog. The revolver, an old cap and ball affair, was lent him and he went immediately to the bunkhouse and knocked on the door. Eagan, who was dressing when the door was opened, was in a stooping posture, putting on his shirt, and Lytle raised the revolver and as he fired said: "You are the ——— I am looking for." He fired one shot, the ball entering Eagan's breast and passing out low down at the back. Eagan fell to the floor and Lytle threw the revolver down and ran. He did not stop until he reached Prineville and found the sheriff, told him what he had done, and gave himself up and was locked in jail.

Eagan died about 9 o'clock that evening denying all charges made against him, which statement was put in writing.

It is claimed by Lytle that during his absence from home Eagan went to his wife's room and knocked on the door and grossly insulted her, and that upon his return his wife informed him of the fact, which prompted him to commit the murder.

The two men were born and raised in Crook county. Lytle is 30 years of age and Eagan is 25. They have been lifetime friends. Eagan is a drinking man and was regarded as a worthless fellow. Lytle has only one arm, having lost the other a number of years ago. Lytle's attorney says that Mrs. Lytle's evidence will clear his client.

The old Maling saw mill, the scene of the tragedy, is located on Willow Creek and is one of the oldest business enterprises in the county.—Evening Telegram.

The Whitney dog and pony show will exhibit Thursday evening, on the beach back of the Umatilla House.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. Frank Taylor tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon.

W. S. Cooper, of Sherman county, recently sold a ranch near the town of Wasco for $16,500 that he bought last fall for $11,000.

A telegraph office was opened today at Rowena. The O. R. & N. Co. is establishing telegraph connection at every station on their road.

C. J. Stubling has just received a large consignment of Schlitz' malt extract, strictly non-alcoholic and one of the best remedies in the world to build up a weak or broken-down constitution. jly29-1w

Ten car loads of wool, aggregating about 250,000 pounds, arrived at the Wasco warehouse this morning from Durkee, Baker county, to be baled and shipped to Halliwell McDonnell & Co., of Boston.

The Bailey Gatzert, while climbing the rapids below the Cascade locks today, broke a pitman strap and was compelled to put back to Portland. She will not resume her run between here and Portland till next Friday.

It would appear as though the tourist business has just begun, says the Telegram of July 29th. On her trip out this morning the Dalles City carried a passenger list of 205, and will go to Cascade Locks and return. The Regulator left at 9 a. m. with 270 passengers aboard, who will be taken to McGowan's cannery and back. Excursions are booked for each day this week and a sufficient number of passengers are in sight to guarantee a big passenger list every trip.

Clark Dunlap, of Wasco, telegraphs the weather bureau that harvest has begun in that vicinity and that crops are turning out better than was anticipated, as the frost in the month of June did not do as much damage as previously estimated.

John Doyle, of Endersby, has threshed his fall wheat and found the yield 35 bushels to the acre. Mr. Doyle tried to better himself a year ago by going to California, but found that wheat lands, no better than he since purchased in Wasco county for $10 an acre, would cost him in California anywhere from $50 to $100 an acre.

Make up your mind that we are going to have the street fair and carnival and are going also to provide for the district fair; possibly not as well as we ought to, but still in a way that we devoutly hope will bring us no discredit. These enterprises mean much to The Dalles, and every person and business interest in the city should put its shoulder to the wheel and help the cause along. A dollar now is worth five times that amount a year from now when it isn't needed. Due preparation for the district fair at this time will mean practically no expense a year from now.

Six to eight dollars a day for labor in the rolling mills and glass plants in the East, $5 to $6 a day for teamsters in San Francisco, nearly $3 a day for Chinamen in the salmon canneries on the Columbia river, a minimum of $2 a day for unskilled laborers on the railroad grades of Northeastern Washington. Plenty of work for all able-bodied men who are not afraid of work. If the Northwest, the Southwest and the East are not prosperous it is not because of poorly paid workmen, says the Spokesman-Review.

It would certainly appear that Dave McKelvey, of Antelope, is the victim of undeserved suspicion as regards the several charges made against him of horse-stealing. He had no sooner arrived in the valley, recently, with a bunch of horses that he had for sale than he was arrested and brought back to The Dalles, charged with having stolen horses of a certain brand that, after the fullest possible investigation, were not found to have ever been in his possession. This matter was no sooner cleared up and McKelvey discharged than a Mr. Rothrock of Hartland, Wash., announced his suspicion that McKelvey surely had taken to the valley some horses that had got away from him while he was freighting last year in the Antelope neighborhood, for whose recovery he had offered McKelvey the sum of $10. Constable Jackson, of this city, had taken an inventory of the brand of every animal that McKelvey took across the mountains, but this didn't satisfy Mr. Rothrock and today, in response to the request of Constable Jackson, the sheriff of Washington county writes Mr. Jackson that his list of the brands of the horses found in McKelvey's possession at Damascus is absolutely correct, and that the band contained no horses with Mr. Rothrock's brands.

A Dalles Minister Debates.

The following is copied from the Roseburg Plaindealer of July 29th. It is in the form of a communication signed by "One Who Was There."

"During the month of May, C. P. Baily, a Baptist minister, of Douglas county, challenged the Christian church of Elmira to discuss the differences that exist between the two churches. The Christian church accepting, July 17, was agreed upon as the date of discussion.

"Rev. C. P. Baily secured W. B. Clifton, of The Dalles, as disputant on the part of the Baptist. The Christian secured J. B. Lister, of Eugene, state evangelist of the Christian church, as disputant on the part of the Christians. The propositions agreed upon were as follows:

"That the church with which I (W. B. Clifton) stand identified is Apostolic in doctrine and practice, and is therefore the church of Christ."

"W. B. Clifton, affirmed, J. B. Lister, denied, second proposition: 'That the church with which I (J. B. Lister) stand identified is apostolic in doctrine and practice, and is therefore the church of Christ.'

"Two days of four hours each were given to each proposition. In the rules and stipulations it was agreed that each disputant was to select a moderator, then the two chosen select a chairman. W. B. Clifton selected Rev. Varney, of Portland, on the part of the Baptist. J. B. Lister selected J. M. Alexander, of Baker City, on the part of the Christians.

"The above mentioned moderators agreed upon Rev. Smith, of Elmira, a minister of the U. B. church, as chairman moderator."

Of course both sides claim the victory.
