FOR AN APRIL INAUGURATION.

It is to be hoped that the agitation recently started for an April presidential inauguration will bear some practical fruit. So many vague snggestions of a change of date have G been put forward from time to time under the spur of a particularly blustering March experience, only to be forgotten before the two houses of congress met again in December. that public sentiment has been disposed to dismiss the choice of a more seasonable and appropriate day for our presidential installations as one of those blusive legislative reforms which everybody favors but no one will ever seriously interest himself to accomplish. The present Sold by Clarke & Falk, The Dalles, Or. movement seems certainly to contain more promise than any of its immediate predecessors. Heretofore some senator or representative has a desultory sputter of comment and an organized and intelligent effort is to be made to secure the legislation needed to restore our political calendar to its original integrity. The District of Columbia committee. which so successfully conducted this year's inauguration ceremony, has planned a campaign for a change of ly throughout the Union.
