TREASURER'S NOTICE.

All Wasco County warrants registered prior to October 17, 1898, will be paid...

JOHN F. HAMPSHIRE, County Treasurer.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Blessed are those who get away. And blessed also those who stay. For those who go spend all—alack! The others have no trunks to pack.

A. M. Williams & Co have reduced the prices of all their men's tan shoes. No time like the present to buy.

Go to A. M. Williams & Co.'s and get a cool coat for these hot days. Read their ad and note reduced prices.

Look out for fire these days when we have plenty of everything "to burn," or rather that's just in a condition to ignite.

Miss Minnie Gosser has accepted a position in the dry goods department of A. M. Williams & Co., and assumed her duties today.

Next Monday the Wasco Warehouse Milling Company expects to begin tearing out the inside of their old warehouse building, putting in new floors and making other improvements.

The school statistics show a loss in school population in Northwestern Oregon, but a gain in Eastern and Southern Oregon. Wasco made a gain of 300 school children between 1900 and 1901.

This morning Harry Ohlgechlagler, who was accidentally shot Tuesday afternoon, was brought to this city to have his wound dressed, and Dr. Ferguson tells us he is getting along surprisingly well.

Wilbur E. Coman, son of our veteran conductor of the O. R. & N., will be appointed assistant general freight agent of the O. R. & N., with headquarters at Portland. Mr. Coman's sister is associate editor of Nunsey's Magazine.

A guardian sale of property was had at the court house today. Mrs. Lacy guardian of the minor heirs of the estate of Hugh Lacy, deceased, sold the real property belonging to the estate. It was bid in by John L. Henderson, of Hood River, for $1,400.

Wm. Wallace, who suffered a severe wound at the hand of Frank Green Tuesday night and was taken to the hospital, is getting along nicely and will be able to be taken to the courthouse at 4 o'clock, when the preliminary examination of his assailant takes place.

The thermometer's a warm number today, marking 102 in the shade. What's the matter with the weather man in Portland, who said yesterday that we'd have cooler weather and thunder showers today and then "by thunder" we didn't and not a cloud in eight. From all indications he's not acquainted with Western weather, as he seldom hits it.

A writ of review was argued before Judge Bradshaw this afternoon. Mr. John L. Henderson was attorney for appellant, and Mr. S. W. Stark, attorney for respondent. Under the code the writ of review takes the place of certiorari under the common law, and an investigation may be had of the proceedings ab initio. We did not learn how the writ was decided. It was taken from the justice court in Mosier precinct.

It might be supposed that during such a heated term one would be glad to get a glimpse of winters, but after viewing the cut which was published in last night's Telegram of that "illustrious" Winters, who stole the bullion from the California smelter, we are constrained to advise that he be allowed to "take back his gold" and keep his picture out of the papers. It's difficult enough to sleep these nights without being haunted by such caricatures.

Hogs will continue to be a fine figure in the Northwest for many months to come. The recent drought in the East sent thousands to market and the shortage of the corn crop will send thousands of others before winter. There will be none to ship West this winter as there generally is. On the other hand there are many chances that eastern people will be sending to the coast for hogs. As the supply is already short here, we can look for good prices for the next year.—Pacific Farmer.

This weather is hot and while one is trying to contain his soul in patience, he can read with delight Dr. Kane's explorations towards the North pole, where the thermometer ranged 70 degrees below zero; or Lieutenant Schwatka's search for the remains of Sir John Franklin, when he traveled for days with the thermometer ranging from 45 to 80 degrees below zero. But O! wasn't that glorious weather! Let us sing, "On Greenland's Icy Mountains" till the boy brings a fresh pitcher of ice-water.

The steamer Columbia of the O. R. & N. Co., which has been tied up in San Francisco on account of the strike, arrived in Astoria Tuesday morning, having been delayed twenty-four hours by contrary winds and a heavy fog. The Columbia had but a partial cargo and only two consignments of perishable stuff. The crew was made up of office employes and Filipinos. The steamer Eider got away from the California port Sunday, and both vessels will be tied up at Portland until the strike is over.

A destructive fire occurred at Haynes' Spur, three miles below Hood River this morning at 1 o'clock when Davenport Bros.' big sawmill burned to the ground, having caught from spontaneous combustion. It took but an hour and a half for the whole thing to go up in flames and the proprietors suffer a $6,000 loss, with no insurance. Besides the mill nine freight cars were destroyed, thirty cords of wood, 15,000 cedar posts, 10,000 feet of dressed lumber and 40,000 feet of rough lumber. Mr. Davenport was absent in Portland at the time of the fire.

So often is the inquiry heard as to who McKinley's cabinet officers that we publish them for the benefit of the school boys and girls, and perhaps the older boys and girls will want to pin the list in their hats. They are: Secretary of State, John Hay; Secretary of Treasury, Lyman J. Gage; Secretary of War, Elihu Root; Secretary of Navy, John D. Long; Secretary of Interior, Ethan A. Hitchcock; Secretary of Agriculture, James Wilson; Postmaster-General, Charles E. Smith; Attorney-General, P. C. Knox.

The close season for fishing went into effect this morning at 6 o'clock and no more salmon may be caught in the waters of the Columbia until the 10th of next month. The fishermen on the Washington side have twenty-four hours more of the season than the men on the Oregon side. The closed season goes into effect in Washington at midnight on the 15th but the men will not be disturbed until after daylight on the 16th. On that day all will be warned that a violation of the law will carry with it all the penalties.

In a letter received by Mrs. W. E. Sylvester from her daughter, Mrs. M. B. Murchie, she tells of the misfortune which has again befallen them by fire. Just before coming over to The Dalles to visit during July Mr. and Mrs. Murchie had moved to the farm, which they rent, about two miles from Yakima, and the day Mrs. Murchie left here on her return home, the house was burned to the ground with the entire contents. The household goods which as the house was rented, was their only loss were insured, but the loss is a heavy one, fire having visited them when in Lewiston totally destroying the store owned by Mr. Murchie there.

Yesterday Hon. L. Y. Sherman, an old schoolmate of Hon. W. H. Wilson, whom he had not seen for nineteen years, arrived in The Dalles from Springfield, Illinois, and is the guest of W. H. Mr. Sherman is a prominent man in Illinois politics, having been speaker of the house of the 40th and 41st General Assembly, which adjourned in May. He is visiting this coast for recreation and incidentally looking up some legal questions in connection with the First National bank of Vancouver for the treasury department. This afternoon Mr. Sherman will return to Vancouver accompanied by Mr. Wilson as far as Cascades and Saturday they will visit Long Beach. His stay will be short on this coast, as he is compelled to return home by the 27th.

English Want 50,000 Cavalry Horses.

R. B. Wilson, the able representative of the Burlington Company, stated in Pendleton yesterday that if they can be found 50,000 horses will be bought in this section for the English cavalry service. "Already" said Mr. Wilson, "our people have shipped out more than 75 cars and the number will have reached 100 hundred cars within a very short space of time.

"The horses needed are those from fourteen-two to fifteen-one hands high, and are otherwise not valuable. Those desired for the South African war service are lighter than the English government would use for their regular cavalry or the American government either. Hence, their purchase is of especial value to the livestock owners of this region. In the first place they cannot be sold to others to any advantage, and in the second place they will be removed from the range and will therefore leave it for the other classes of livestock that are more valuable."

The E. O. says: The feature of the removal of the horses from the range is of value because the range is just now quite small in comparison to the number of livestock bands that are owned in this territory. Throughout the present season, and all of last winter and spring, there has been much talk about the shortage of feed, and the difficulty in finding range to keep the bands going. Anything that will remove from the range a large number of animals that are now eating up the grass will relieve the situation from its present strained condition and be of benefit all around.

ASTORIA'S FISHERY SUGGESTION.

They should Attend to Their Own Kettle of Fish.

A Dalles canneryman when asked what he thought of the opinion of a prominent canneryman of Astoria regarding the closing of the upper river so salmon can go up to their spawning grounds, said the law is very good were it enforced whenever fishermen take more fish from the river than they can sell, as they did at Astoria during the heavy run last month, and rather than sell them to The Dalles canneryman for three cents a pound cash, throw them into the river to rot. When the stench got so bad and the attention of the board of health of the city of Astoria was directed to the matter, they called on the deputy fish warden and made him deputy sheriff to stop this nuisance.

If the Astoria papers would do half at home what they wish to do away from home they might accomplish good results. The Dalles fishermen and boat-pullers pay for the privilege of fishing. They do not ask their prosecuting attorney or the attorney general of the state for opinions to save them from paying $1 each to the hatchery fund. They ask no favors, but only just treatment, where the law permits all to fish.

Where the fish need protection is right at Astoria, the late heavy run having proven that, when they took all. The Dalles or anyone above Astoria thirty miles neither saw nor heard of a big run. Do not halloo, "stop thief" while you are stealing. Wait until you have finished.

THE FAMILY LIBRARY.

May Be Made One of the Most Attractive Features in the Home.

The library is now within the reach of all classes. Competition between the publishers and the multiplicity of authors has forever banished the day when a small volume was a luxury, and the book-stalls have placed treasures of literature where the poor may reach them, says Harvot Holt Cahoon, in Woman's Home Companion. The poor in purse may become rich in spirit. Books are so cheap that they often materialize in the hand of those who love them; and sometimes the possessor hardly knows how or whence they come. So the library has not only become a feature of the home, but a necessity. The collection of books without effort. It comes without effort. There is always room for one more book, and the first thing you know there is a caseful, and by and by the case runs over and another case materializes from somewhere. Maybe the family carpenter nails it together, and some one else gives it a coat of paint; later on the books crowd that case; finally there is a roomful, and lo! you have a library. You make room for the books you love.

Red Beans, Tropical Style.

What a pity it is that the red or pink bean is not more in use in the United States. In Mexico and among the Spanish Californians no meal is complete without them. They are a palatable dish, and do not require the boiling that white beans do. Put three cupfuls of these beans into boiling hot water, and do not pour this water off; let them boil until done. Be careful to add hot water from time to time to prevent burning. Slice into the beans a dried chili pepper, or more if you can stand it. When the beans are thoroughly cooked put a generous supply of pork or bacon fat into a frying pan, and when boiling hot pour in the boiled beans. Salt to taste, and add enough hot water to make a rich brown gravy. To vary this dish sometimes a fried onion is given as an additional flavor.—Washington Star.

Chicken Cutlets.

Cold chicken or veal cutlets may be made into a decorative dish by forming a ring of potato on each and filling the space with green peas. For a pint of meat make a panada of one cupful of milk, two heaping tablespoonfuls of flour, one large tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of onion juice, and salt and paprika to taste. When it is done mix the meat with it, and when very cold form it into cutlets. Roll them in egg and breadcrumbs. On the top of each squeeze with a pastry bag a ring of hot mashed potato, with which has been mixed beaten egg, and bake until a golden brown. Fill each space with green peas, seasoned with cream, salt and pepper.—Cincinnati Enquirer.
