quarters is situated at the Anderson place; No. 2, is P. P. Johnson's camp; No. 3, J. W. Hastings; No. 4, W. F. Nugent; No. 5, engineer's camp, and No. 6, Sullivan Bros. The visitors called at the headquarters of J. W. Hastings, W. F. Nugent and J. C. Sullivan all of whom were most cordial and showed them about the various camps. They took lunch at the latter camp, presided over by Mrs. J. C. Sullivan, where they were received in the most hospitable manner. Work is progressing favorably especially at the Sullivan camp where a large force is at work. About 500 men are now employed on the work, and they hope to secure that many more when harvesting is over. The straightening of the road will cut off at least a mile between here and Rowena.

Regarding Expense of School Books.

In order to lessen the expense of the exchange and introduction of the recently adopted school books, Supt. Landers is making a division of the subjects and text-books now in the hands of the pupils for separate date of exchange. In subjects that pupils have completed and are ready for another book, the pupils will of course purchase the newly adopted books. In cases where the branch of study will be completed at the middle of school year or at the end of first term, the classes will not exchange now but continue with the old books to the last of December and then purchase the new book. This will save exchanging now and then laying aside a comparatively new book to buy another at the middle of the year. When subjects will be completed at the end of school year they will also retain the old book to save the exchange. There will thus be a few exchanges made at the opening of school, Sept. 9th, also some at the close of December. By this plan, considering the reasonable exchange price and the reduced price of the new books, the cost of the change of books will be reduced to a minimum, and will not be much greater than the regular purchase of new books. One of our dealers remarked that he did not believe the cost to the entire district by the exchange will exceed $150.

The books will be received by the first of September, and next week THE CHRONICLE will publish a list of books to be exchanged at the opening of school and those in December.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Sutton's N. Y. Uncle Tom's Cabin Co., gave its first performance at the Grand opera house last night. The company is composed of some very clever people and has some fine specialties between acts. The King Sisters are fine buck and wing dancers, and Vic Guion does an unusually good juggling and ladder act. Marks, the lawyer, Cute, the speculator, Aunt Ophelia, Topsy and little Lillian, as Eva, are clever performers. All in all the company is first class and deserves patronage.—Miner, June 14.
At the Vogt opera house one night only, Tuesday, Aug. 27th.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Excursion Wednesday night down the Columbia by moonlight.

Forecast—Tonight and Sunday, possible thunder showers, cooler.

Mrs. Emma Southwell was today appointed administratrix of the estate of Joseph Southwell, deceased.

The machinery is now being put in place in the power house of the Wasco Warehouse Milling Company.

Yesterday Dad Butts disposed of the Coubert property east of F. C. Sexton's residence, to G. N. Watt, of Mosier, who has moved his family into the city and will be a permanent resident here.

Frankton district, near Hood River, has just finished a new school house, the cost of which, including furniture, was $500. School will begin some time next month, with Miss Stella Brown, of this city, as teacher.

The absence of the usual number of farmers in our city on Saturday is indicative of the work that is going on in the country about us. The harvest must be gathered in before business in town can be transacted.

Dad Butts has a very desirable place containing an acre and a half of ground in a splendid location in The Dalles; good seven-room house and a fine orchard, for sale or trade for small farm near the city. Also thirty-one desirable building lots, ranging from $25 to $50 a lot. 24 3t

It is said that there will soon be a telephone circuit in operation from the Pacific coast to Boston. It is doubtful if conversation can be maintained at that distance, and even were it possible, it is not probable that anybody will make use of it at existing long distance telephone rates.

A report from Independence says that Miss Ann Mann, of that city, has received a Government commission as a teacher in Unalaska. The same school of which she will be in charge was presided over last year by her sister, Miss Frances Mann, who returned to the states a few weeks ago. Miss Mann is a graduate from The Dalles High school and a niece of D. J. Cooper of this city. She was for a time an employe of the Times-Mountaineer office.

Among the carloads of fruit being shipped today was one of watermelons, which are a splendid crop this year. Wagon load after wagon load of these delicious melons are hauled into the city each day, unnoticed by those who are so accustomed to the sight, which would be a treat to residents of less favored sections.

The case against Malcolm Southwell for larceny of a colt from G. H. Riddell came up for hearing in Justice Brown-hill's court today, with S. Stark appearing for defense. The State examined several witnesses and the defense moved for dismissal on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to convict. The court overruled the motion and granted the defense till Friday to secure evidence. Southwell was bound over in the sum of $500 to appear at that time.

Another case of diphtheria is reported at Enderby in the family of Cap Enderby. No serious results are apprehended from any of the cases reported.—Dufur Dispatch. We can scarcely conceive of a case of that disease (probably dreaded more than any other by parents of young children) where serious results would not follow, if not to the patient, to some one who contracts the disease from those who fail to realize how dangerous diphtheria is. The greatest of precaution should be taken.

Among the eighteen races on the speed program of the district fair one will be for the trial of the speed of the Shetland ponies, which belonged to the dog and pony show. No doubt this will be as interesting as any race on the program for the little fellows are as fleet of foot as any of their bigger brothers and display a wonderful amount of strength and endurance. Any one who may imagine these little ponies are only fit for pets and training, will discover their mistake by riding behind them.

The complaint of Mr. Dosch that the Oregon commissioners at Buffalo are not supplied with Oregon prunes for exhibition should not be allowed to go unheeded. The only benefit to be expected from the Buffalo exhibition will come, if at all, from an increased immigration induced by the excellence of our products thus placed before the people assembled from different parts of the United States. We believe the money thus expended by the state will prove a profitable investment, but the best samples of our fruit, especially, should be there to be seen.

A plan is already being formulated in Walla Walla for a straw carnival next year when a holiday will be declared, farmers will bring their straw to the city and a parade will follow. There will be speaking and a noonday lunch in the court house square. After that they will drive into the country and scatter the straw where it will do the most good. Prizes of value will be offered and a genuine good time indulged in. It wouldn't be a bad idea for The Dalles to follow suit, for surely none who are compelled to travel over the roads leading to our city will deny that a few loads of straw would greatly benefit them this year.

The residents on south Court street have built new sidewalks in front of their homes and the pupils of the High school and of the Park school, will have a good road to and from their residences. The irrepresible small boy looks with dilated optics on these sidewalks and feel satisfied that when the "beautiful snow filling the world below" embraces, with its wintry clasp, hill and dale, mountain and glen, he will have an enjoyable time coasting down Court street. He registers a protest now against city marshal or property owner cleaning the walks of any accumulated snow later in the year.

Davenport's planing mill, which was burned to the ground last Thursday, is being rebuilt. The total loss by the fire amounted to about $7,500, with no insurance. The box factory will not be replaced at present, and only a temporary covering will be erected for the new planing machinery. An unfortunate incident of the fire was the absence of water in the flume at the time. A farmer living along the flume had unrightfully turned out the water the night before and was using it for irrigation. Had the water been in the flume the mill company would have easily saved $2,000 worth of cedar posts. The accident is to be regretted, but it will afford a valuable lesson to others.—Glacier.

The first incineration at the new crematorium near City View park, Portland, took place Thursday afternoon, the body of E. P. Sine, lately an attorney from Lexington, being the first to go through the process. The casket containing the body was placed in the retort at 2:45 p. m. and was completely incinerated in three-quarters of an hour, nothing but about three quarts of ashes remaining. The furnace had been heating for an hour, but the oil had been shut off and the inner surface allowed to cool for five minutes before the casket was placed in it, so that there was no sign of flame or heat to shock the most sensitive. The casket was covered with an alum-soaked sheet, gently slid into the retort, and the door closed. There are twenty-three bodies in the vaults awaiting cremation.

"A most interesting trip" was what two of our Dalles citizens pronounced their visit to the camps of Kilpatrick Bros and Collins, railroad contractors who are now engaged in straightening and otherwise repairing the road between this city and Rowena. They found the camps nicely situated and speak particularly of the neatness displayed therein. Camp No. 1, Burns & Anderson's head-
