WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Uncle Tom's Cabin
At the Vogt opera house tonight.
Forecast—Fair tonight; Wednesday, cooler.

Fruit packers wanted by the Columbia Commission Co. aug.27-31
"You'll have to hurry," the tickets for the excursion are going fast.

When them Goo Goo eyes bother you call on J. E. Adeox & Co. and the doctor will examine them free of charge.

Take your children to the "Lincoln" sale and shoe them for school. All kinds of shoes and all at bargain prices at A. M. Williams & Co.'s.

Harry Harkness resumed his duties in Pease & Mays' store today after an absence of several months, occasioned by a severe attack of rheumatism.

The "Lincoln" sale is on for all week at A. M. Williams & Co.'s, so if you can't go one day go the next—but by all means go if you need shoes. It'll pay you.

William Wallace, who was stabbed some time since by Frank Green, has been discharged from the hospital and this morning went to work in the scouring mill.

Fire at Wyeth last Thursday destroyed 3000 cords of wood belonging to A. A. Bonney. Passengers who came up Friday night say the wood was still burning.

Saturday Manager Crandall let the contract for 150,000 feet of lumber for the street carnival and fair, to Davenport Bros.' Lumbering Company of Hood River.

Don't forget the excursion tomorrow night. A pleasant time is assured. The new band will furnish excellent new music. Tickets on sale at the office of the Regulator line.

It will be beautiful on the Columbia tomorrow night, and all should avail themselves of the opportunity to enjoy the ride. The boat will leave the dock at 8:30, and the agent assures us the boat will return by 11 o'clock, there being nothing to delay her. There will be nothing to mar the pleasure of the party, as tickets will not be sold to objectionable characters, who might annoy those about them.

The report which reached here Sunday of the death of Joseph Smith from a shock received while fixing a cable box during the storm, was premature. Smith fell from the cable platform and was badly injured, but at last accounts was alive.

We understand Frank Cram, formerly with A. M. Williams & Co., and his brother, Win Cram, will engage in the dry goods business in Hood River at an early date. Frank had a taste of Lewiston weather, which was sufficient for him.

The thunder storm was very heavy at Mt. Hood Sunday and the guests at Cloud Cap Inn were treated to a brilliant electrical display. Never in the history of the Inn have so many guests visited the mountain as during July and August.

A few days since Mrs. J. C. Cowles received word of the death of her sister in Florida from a bowel trouble, and this morning another letter advised her of the death of a brother. At the same time her father and mother are both dangerously ill of the same disease.

Twenty-five girls employed by the Walla Walla Produce Company as fruit packers caught the strike fever and demanded three cents a box instead of 2½ cents. The affair did not come to a walkout, the girls serving notice and promptly getting their demands.

Twelve persons succeeded in reaching the summit of Castle Rock in two days—Saturday and Sunday. It is supposed to be 1200 feet high and very difficult of climbing. Today the party intend to tackle Archer mountain farther up the river and another almost unsuccessful point.

Sunday was the nineteenth anniversary of the connection of Rev. W. E. Potwine with the Church of the Redeemer in Pendleton, where he is highly esteemed. Rev. Potwine came West in the pioneer manner and reached Pendleton, via Portland, when it was a mere village.

There were 8000 applications for the thousand positions to be filled by American teachers in the Philippines, and yet teaching there is not a sinecure. School rooms are small and the number of pupils large, and the teacher has to struggle with children who do not understand English.

Just received at the American cigar store and news stand, 10,000 Stratton & Storm 5c Owl cigars. We buy them in large quantities, pay cash and take our discounts, therefore can afford to sell them cheap. On next Wednesday and Thursday we will sell 7 for 25c, 15 for 50c, 32 for $1. Remember this is for next Wednesday and Thursday only.

Return of the favorite Sutton's big New York Uncle Tom's Cabin Company

as usual filled the house to witness this moral play. The play was well handled by this company and the music was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The Marks, Cate and Topsy did their share to make the people laugh, and in fact all are worthy of mention.—Spokesman Review. At the Vogt tonight.

The Eastern Oregon Railway Company, just incorporated, will construct and operate a railroad from Arlington to Condon, forty miles; to construct and operate telegraph lines and transport freight and passengers. Arlington is to be the headquarters, and the capital stock is $500,000, divided into shares valued at $100 each. L. K. Moore, J. B. Hosford and J. O. Elrod are the incorporators of record.

Every visitor to the fair last year stopped longest at the fruit exhibit, and well they might, for a handsomer display had not been seen in this section, nor any other, for many a day. This year, however, the handsomer exhibit will be in evidence, so say the committee, which will hold a meeting on Saturday afternoon at 1:30, with the view to impressing all our growers with the fact that their co-operation is needed.

Few realize what it means to have such immense power introduced into our city as will be brought in by the Wasco Warehouse Milling Company in the course of a few weeks. With its advent many industries will no doubt be the outcome. Among the first should be a cold storage and cannery. That a place surrounded by such orchards as is The Dalles should have been minus a cannery thus long is a surprise to every visitor who has been shown about our city. There is now no reason for further delay.

A letter received from Rev. W. Brenner, pastor of the Lutheran church, who left here two months ago for a visit in the East, announces his marriage in Saginaw, Mich. While his congregation were not positive as to his intentions when he left here, yet there was a surmise as to what his visit would portend, and they will gladly welcome their pastor and his bride, who will leave for home about the 3d of September, reaching here so that Mr. Brenner will conduct services the following Sunday, Sept. 8th.

The law makes no allowance for drunkenness, neither should the parents nor guardians of the girls who are from time to time annoyed by the simpering idiosyncy of the men who roam about our streets under the influence of liquor. The fright given a prominent young lady on one of our street corners Saturday night, should cause renewed vigilance to be used in The Dalles concerning these persons who call themselves men. Upon returning from her work about 8 o'clock on the evening mentioned the young woman was overtaken on the corner of Fourth and Washington streets by a drunken fellow who had followed her from Second street. As she attempted to enter a gate seeking protection he grabbed her and only by the strongest effort did she extricate herself. A gentleman, whom she informed, started after the culprit and overtook him, but finding he was intoxicated it was thought best to let him go after a severe lecture. Such should not be the case. The plea that he was not accountable and would not harm the girl, is a poor one, and in nine cases out of ten the victim receives, not only a severe fright, but injury, as in the case of Mrs. Unsworth, near Fossil, mentioned in yesterday's telegraph. Arrests should be made in such cases and the villain made to feel the power of the law when he is sufficiently sober to understand what drink led him to do.

APPLES AND SPUDS.

Oregon Will Be Called Upon to Supply the Immense Demand.

E. L. Smith, of Hood River, tells the Telegram that letters are pouring in from Illinois, New York, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore and from all Eastern cities, so far as that is concerned, inquiring about Oregon apples. The drought in the East has made a practical failure of the crop, and they must get their supply from this country. He says that buyers are besieging fruitgrowers at Hood River to secure their fall crops in advance. Some few have already sold at $1.36 a box to be delivered this fall, but the majority are holding back. Mr. Smith says that there is no question but that the best grades will readily bring $1.50 a box this fall, and probably more. And in Northwest and West Germany the crop is a failure and people there are depending on the United States for fruit, and a majority of the Eastern states are depending on Oregon. Talbot J. Albert, United States consul at Brunswick, Germany, writes the secretary of the State Horticulture Society, that the prospects for winter fruit in the northeast and west of Germany are the worst that could be possibly thought.

And the irrepresible spud is riding a high horse too, according to Mr. Smith's statement. The drought has made this crop a failure also in the Eastern states, and letters are pouring into Oregon to secure every shipment. The fruitgrower and the potato-raiser can just about name the price of these products by early fall, and as we have prospects for a crop of 75 per cent of the average in apples and the Oregon spud never fails, many thousands of dollars will reach our state throughout these channels this fall.

Work on the O. R. & N. Track.

It might be well for any man who is now out of a job to visit the various railroad camps between here and Rowena, and before he gets very far away from the city he will find himself employed, as the contractors expect to hire at least 500 more men.

The work extends not only along the line in Oregon, but much bridge filling is being done in Washington and Idaho, Contractor A. Mason being in charge. Between this city and Rowena there are eight camps, instead of six as mentioned Saturday, beside one at Hood River and one at Bridal Veil. As soon as the work is a little further advanced two steam shovels will be in use, one near The Dalles and one at Hood River.

The roughest part of the road being between here and Rowena, the most important work will be done in that section. Between The Dalles and Hood River there are forty-eight curves which will be reduced to fifteen. The total saving in curvature will be over 900 degrees, or better than 2¼ full circles, making the gain in distance to Rowena one mile. The company is now contemplating an extension of the improvements on the track clear into the city. Travelers over the road will thus be benefited in enjoying a much more pleasant ride to Portland, complaint often being made regarding the roughness of the trip.

Wednesday Evening, Aug. 28th.
