WHEN WASHINGTON SWORE.

Former Secretary Foster Tells of the First President's Anger at the Senate.

In discussing the language used in treaties between governments a century or more ago, former Secretary John W. Foster explained in a lecture to Yale students recently that a treaty between the United States and Great Britain in 1783 began with these words:

"In the name of the Most Holy Trinity."

"A curious thing about those that signed that treaty on behalf of the United States," Mr. Foster said "was that only one of the three believed in the Trinity. He was John Jay. Of the other two, John Quincy Adams was a Unitarian and Benjamin Franklin, well, called the speaker 'well, Franklin would hardly be called a trinitarian.'"

Mr. Foster said that a story about George Washington of that was how to nearly everyone in the audience. The speaker was drawing upon the presidential records of the president of the United States, and he said that he had seen the original of the treaty when it was signed in 1783.

"It was then President Washington thought he would give consideration with the president's name in the treaty and under the signature."

"President Washington thought it would be wise to put the name of the president in the treaty," explained Mr. Foster, "and he put the name. For ten hours he sat there, and in Washington's great anxiety, and with his great and cross-eyes, until the president, very much exasperated, retired from the senate. When he was passing through the senate he turned to one of his friends and said:

"I'll be d— if I'll ever come here again."

"Does it Pay to Buy Cheap?" A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, it is possible, if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles. "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world, and sold by Clarke & Falk. Get Green's prize almanac.

We offer for a limited period the twice-a-week CHRONICLE, price $1.50, and the Weekly Oregonian, price $1.50, both papers for $2 a year. Subscriptions under this offer must be paid in advance.
