WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

H. M. Beall, who for some time past has been with his family in San Francisco, returned to The Dalles today at noon.

Ladies' black mercerized saten undershirts are shown at Pease & Mays in a great variety of styles and the prices astonishingly low.

Ed Burchdorf is again on our streets after a two weeks' stay at the Dalles hospital, where he had an operation performed for varicose veins.

And now the weather man is giving us a "frost." Well we're "not so warm" as we were, but we didn't expect frost so soon. The rainfall yesterday was .29.

Marriage license was granted today by the county clerk to R. B. Anson and Helen Rodeick. We hope they may live long and prosper and grow up with the country.

After the summer's vacation there will be a regular stated communication of Wasco lodge No. 15, A. F. & A. M., this evening at 8 o'clock. Full attendance desired. By order of the W. M.

St. Mary's Academy begins work tomorrow, and the school year bids fair to be a very successful one. The Sisters have made preparation to accommodate any number of pupils, and are now ready to receive them.

Saturday Lester Johnson, stepson of James B. Bandy, died on Upper Eight-Mile from poison oak. He was aged 15. The burial took place at the Dry Hollow burying ground yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

During this month legal proceedings will be commenced against the owners of lots in North Dalles for delinquent taxes. So we see our neighbors in that flourishing city forget to pay their taxes as well as we of the suburbs.

Miss Rosa Wilcox, whose home is in the valley, but who has been engaged in cooking for the workmen on the electric line between here and Dufur, was brought in to the hospital yesterday, suffering with typhoid fever.

Go yourself and be sure to take the children to see the moving pictures of the Passion Play tomorrow night at the Vogt. They are said to be beautiful as well as touching. Admission for adults will be 50 cents; children 25 cents.

As a result of the trip made by the county judge and commissioners yesterday, a number of men will leave tomorrow to make improvements in Tygh hill grade. New places for turning out will be made, and the road improved generally.

We made the inquiry Saturday as to what on earth is the matter with the water. Echo answers "what?" but that's the only answer we have received as yet. What we, and the rest of the community do know, is that if something is rotten in Denmark so it is in The Dalles water at present.

On Friday, August 30th the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins was the scene of a happy gathering. Mr. Archibald Pugh, a brother to Mrs. Hopkins, was surprised, the occasion being his birthday. It was a typical old Southern watermelon gathering, as about fifteen watermelons melted away among the thirty guests who had gathered to make this occasion one long to be remembered by Archie.

The store of J. P. Hahn at Hay Creek, Crook county, together with his entire stock of goods, was destroyed by fire recently. The fire started from the explosion of a bottle of chemical of some kind which Mr. Hahn was warming over a lamp, preparatory to selling some of it. He carried no insurance. The building cost $600 and was well filled with goods, the value of which we have not learned.

From the spirit manifested Saturday night at the meeting of the committee on fruit to be exhibited at the coming fair, we will have such a display as was never shown in Oregon before. Mr. Schanno tells us every member was full of enthusiasm, which portends much. Another meeting will be held tonight. We understand Davidson Bros., of Hood River, will make an exhibit of canned fruits.

W. A. Frantz, who came up today from Viento, tells of a serious accident which occurred Saturday evening at the Oregon Lumbering Company's mill there. About 5:30 o'clock, while H. D. Bryant was running a gang edger, an immense oliver struck him in the neck, penetrating about three inches and causing an ugly and serious wound. His physician, however, considers that there is hope of his recovery.

An agreement was filed in the state circuit court yesterday between A. Keller, of The Dalles, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gross, whereby the minor son of the latter couple is to remain in the custody of its mother. Keller is the grandfather of the boy and early in the week sued out a writ of habeas corpus alleging the child was being restrained of his liberty by his parents. The agreement is the result of an amicable understanding between the parties. The boy's name is Lloyd Gross.—Oregonian.

What THE CHRONICLE says goes. If you don't believe it, just consider that in face of the weather prophet's prediction of fair weather for yesterday, the faintest request of this family journal for a rain storm was granted, and the rain fell alike upon the just (which means us) and the unjust (our neighbors). And it was a delightful rain, too, settling the dust, clearing away the smoke and making everything beautiful. Reports from Prineville, Antelope and along the line say the storm continued at intervals all day yesterday.

Three men got into an altercation near the Union Street lodging house last night about 10 o'clock, the principal participants being Sharkey and Ryan. Ryan was somewhat assaulted and battered before officials put a stop to the proceedings, but upon the arrival of Deputy Sheriff Wood and Nightwatchman Alisky they were taken in custody. Sharkey being put in the county and Ryan and John Doe (the latter of whom is being held as a witness) in the city jail. The case will come up before Justice Brownhill this evening at 4 o'clock.

School teachers of every description (but all first-class) will tie themselves to The Dalles tomorrow, for the institute will begin work Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, in the High school building. The program promises to be a splendid one. Among other things will be a lecture by Prof. Hawley Thursday night and an illustrated lecture on Europe, with accompanying views, by Prof. French Friday night. Our teachers will make a special effort to be in attendance this year, as by the new law, for every teacher already employed by a district, and who is present, that district receives $5. Then for non-attendance there "may," not must, be a penalty.

At 1 o'clock ten years ago today an alarm sounded which, though striking no more terror to our residents than is usually experienced when its sounds are heard, portended one of the worst conflagrations the city has ever suffered, and before evening almost half of the town was laid low by the fire fiend; business houses were swept away, families were without a home and panic reigned supreme. While a few will never survive the blow received, beautiful homes now dot the places where less pretentious buildings were located and business is carried on in a more energetic manner above the former ruins. So far have we recovered that but few of our residents are aware that today is the anniversary of that terrible calamity.

Today is labor day, and the parade which took place this morning in The Dalles between the hours of 7 and 8 was indicative of the labor which daily goes on in our city—men, women, boys and girls all hastening to their daily avocations. Is it not a fact, however, that this parade should be many times its size; that, with the natural resources which The Dalles possesses, we should have pay rolls not excelled by any town its size in any state? But with all this discrepancy we cannot fail to note the fact that business here is as steady as a die, and old Dallesites who grow discontented and branch out, usually return, satisfied to remain. If this is the case under existing conditions, what would it be were we improving our opportunities?

As much as we know and appreciate Oregon and its resources, knowing the failing of our real estate dealers we are wont to accuse them of over-estimating its productiveness; but here is a fact which none can refute and which is told by those in no wise interested in a pecuniary manner. Eight years and a half ago D. H. Seers came to Hood River from the East in the most straitened circumstances, scarcely knowing which way to turn. He did a little carpenter work, and finally bought an orchard. Persevering and energetic he now realizes the results of his labor and this year actually estimates his apple crop at $10,000. A few days since he sold 600 boxes to Carroll for shipment to Dawson City at $1.55 a box. There is no limit to what may be accomplished in Oregon.

RUNAWAY.

Two Children Were Thrown Out and Fred Vance Injured.

Citizens in the vicinity of Second and Washington, as well as Third and Court, were badly frightened by a runaway, about 10:30 this morning, in which two children figured. Fred, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Vance, who keep the fruit stand on Court street, was driving a one-horse buggy, with which he delivers goods for his father, and had taken Della Harper, the 12 year-old daughter of Jack Harper, up to Rech's grocery. As they were returning, on the corner opposite Rech's they encountered young Marquis riding a wild horse, which he kept whipping and causing to run against Vance's horse. That, together with the light shape which Marquis wore, frightened their horse, and although the children warned him several times he paid no heed. Finally the old horse, which has always been very gentle and trusted, started on a run, going down the alley back of Liebe's residence. Reaching Court he turned up the street and the children were thrown into the middle of the road. He proceeded on the sidewalk, knocking out a hitching post in front of the recorder's office; then ran into two posts which held the awning in front of the city jail, knocking that structure down. When he struck the third he was detached from the buggy and flew up the street.

While the girl was but slightly scratched, the little boy seemed badly hurt and was taken to Dr. Ferguson's office, where it was found that his right arm was sprained at the elbow and wrist and his face bruised. This afternoon he is resting easy, and while his parents are indignant at the cause of the accident, they feel thankful that it did not result more seriously.
