in a change of the race track and in working facilities, as he always does, to get it in first class order. Various horses, mostly runners, are at the stable with the secured expectation of many more. A communication just received from Antelope says that town will be represented at the coming district fair by two fine runners—Phillip Fair, owned by Jim Silvertooth, and the mare Gessie, owned by the Gillesons from the Oregon stables.

Henry York, of Boyd, was fined $33 in Justice Brownhill's court Saturday afternoon for an assault committed on the person of William Hastings, also of the Boyd neighborhood. The trouble arose over a trifling dispute as to the price York was obtaining for potatoes that he was delivering to one of our merchantile firms, York challenging Hastings to cover a bet of $10 that he was getting a dollar a sack and Hastings insisting that he was getting only 85 cents. Hastings finally covered the bet and the money was placed in the hands of Sylvester Mason. The day following this incident the men met a second time in this city and York told Mason that he wanted back his $10. Mason refused to give up the money till the subject matter of the bet was settled. York insisted he would have the money or take it out of Hastings's hide. Hot words followed and York reached out his right fist and struck Hastings in the face, leaving the mark of his blow. Witnesses swore that York pulled out a knife and threatened to disembowel Hastings if the latter attempted to lay a hand on him. York's version of the affair differed materially from that of the complaining witness, but three witnesses supported Hastings's testimony and the justice gave credence to the latter and decided accordingly. It is an unfortunate affair as both men are respected citizens of the same neighborhood.

A TIMELY PROTEST.

The Dalles Has a Breed of Young Anarchists at Home.

Mr. Editor:—Those who had the privilege of listening to Mr. Pollax Sunday evening or of reading the admirable resume of his discourse in your issue of Monday, may well resolve that each individual anxious for the welfare of our beloved country shall devoutly and faithfully take all the steps nearest to them to crush out the anarchy that is nearest to them. One thing is very plain these fall days—the little boys who ride ponies through the streets are wholly unobservant of any regulation concerning the speed. Is there a law on this subject? A lady was nearly run down by a galloping pony yesterday under circumstances that a little child would almost surely have been struck. Will you, Mr. Chronicle, please publish the ordinance that no one need say, as a little boy did this morning, "I did not know." Then you will have done your duty. If the city marshal will do his, and the recorder his, and parents and teachers their's respectively, one step will have been taken toward making good citizens out of what now bid fair to become anarchists in a degree—those who obey law or not at their own sweet will.

The following is the ordinance asked for by the correspondent:
No person shall ride or drive any horse or horses, mule or mules, or any beast of burden, within the corporate limits of Dalles City, at a greater speed than four miles per hour, and any person or persons who shall violate the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before the recorder's court shall be punished by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $25.

Proclamation.

In accordance with the proclamation of the president of the United States and of the governor of the state of Oregon, designating Thursday, the 19th day of September, 1901, as a day of public worship and of special services in memory of the late president of the United States, J. G. Farley, mayor of Dalles City, do hereby publicly request the citizens of Dalles City to observe such proclamations: to close their places of business on that day, abstain from their usual vocations and assemble in their accustomed places of worship for public prayer and such other rites as may be appropriate as a memorial of the life and services of our late president, William McKinley.
G. J. FARLEY, Mayor.

Pease & Mays have received this morning their line of children's automobile coats. They are the proper thing for the winter's wear.

Teams commenced work this morning hauling and placing on the grounds the 150,000 feet of lumber needed for the booths and fencing for the street fair.

Pease & Mays are receiving so many new and interesting articles of merchandise that it is hard to keep track of ladies' fashions and fancies this season.

Miss Christine Nickelson will give instruction in embroidery and plain sewing on Wednesday and Saturday of each week, from 2 till 5 o'clock. Wednesday will be devoted to adults and Saturday to children. Apply at her residence on Alford avenue. $17-1c

Will Scott, a colored employe of a local barber shop, was arrested last night by Officer Padden on complaint of Irvin Julian, who charged Scott with creating a disturbance in the neighborhood. According to Julian, Scott was engaged in the practice of beating his wife. This allegation the wife stoutly denies. The case will be tried in Justice Brownhill's court at 7 o'clock this evening.

The Christian Adventists will hold their semi-annual conference and camp-meeting on the old fair grounds, commencing on the evening of Friday, 20th instant, at 7:30 o'clock. A number of able ministers will be in attendance and a cordial welcome will be extended to everybody.

Mr. Gumbert, of the Leading Cigar Store, is keeping track of the votes cast at his place for the queen of the carnival and offers a box of good cigars to the gentleman who will cast the largest number of votes for any candidate. Get in your work, ye patrons of the wood, and earn that box of cigars.

Dad Butt yesterday sold to M. Dichtenmuller and wife the Billy Spencer place on Tenth street, consisting of three lots with a small dwelling, barn and chicken house, for the sum of $450. This is undoubtedly a great bargain, for the lots alone are worth the money; but Spencer wanted to get rid of the property, as he has for a good many years made his home in Albina.

E. T. Anderson, late in the employ of C. J. Stubbing of this city, writes Dr. Siddall from Cape Nome, Alaska, to the effect that reports from Gold Run are bad and that Teller City is "a dead one," and at present Nome is not doing any business to speak of. Mr. Anderson intended wintering in Nome, but had changed his mind because, as he puts it, he is "not stuck on becoming a sour dough." Notwithstanding this gloomy outlook Mr. Anderson says "everyone expects to make some money this fall." The last fleet of boats of the season had left and taken out a lot of people.

Frank Gabel, of the Oak Grove Sheep Company returned from Sacramento the other day with eighty-one head of bucks which he purchased of Glide, the well-known sheep-raiser and importer of that place. Forty of them are thoroughbred French merinos, and experts say they are the finest lot of bucks that ever came into Wasco county. The rest are thoroughbred yearling Shropshires save one, a five-months old lamb that Mr. Gabel believes will tip the beam at 100 pounds. The animals are in Ward & Robertson's corral, where the older bucks are being dyed of their fleeces that weigh from twenty-five to thirty-seven pounds each.

According to the announcement which has appeared in The Chronicle since September 6th there will be a meeting of the common council at 8 o'clock tonight, specially convened for the purpose of determining what property within the territorial district of the proposed Court street sewer will be benefited by the sewer, so that the cost may be assessed proportionately. Court street needs a sewer. That is an undisputed fact. The council is anxious to do its duty in the premises. Now if
