

The newspapers of the country, without respect to party affiliation, and yellow journals included, are warm in their praise of the position taken by the new president.

The Globe-Democrat notes that no English ruler has been assassinated in a thousand years, while three republican presidents of the United States have fallen by the hand of assassins within thirty-seven years.

Socialist organizations have made strenuous efforts to prove that they are in no wise in sympathy with anarchists. This is well. There is surely a great deal of difference between them, theoretically.

Owing to a shortage of potatoes in the middle West, agents of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern are contracting for shipments of this vegetable from points in the far West.

The following resolution adopted by the New York board of fire underwriters is to the point: "We believe President McKinley's murderer was incited to his evil deed by the teachings of journals which, by holding him up to ridicule and misrepresentation, have led a vicious class to think that he was the enemy of the poor, instead of being, as he was, the faithful representative of all classes."

"Let us hope," said W. J. Bryan at the memorial services held at Lincoln, Nebraska, "that this national affliction, which unites all factions in a common sorrow, will result in a broader charity and a more liberal spirit among those who, by different policies and through different parties, seek to promote the welfare and increase the glory of our common country."

"We first endure, then pity, then embrace" socialism and anarchy! says the Cowletz Valley Journal. What shall we do with them? Do they stand in the same position to us? The socialist tells us that he stands for all that is high minded—for universal brotherhood and the love of man for man.
