STATE OF COLLAPSE

Czolgoss' Legs Unable to Carry Him to the Penitentiary—Falls on the Floor, and Expires in Terror.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Leon F. Czolgoss, assassin of President McKinley, in the custody of Sheriff Caldwell, of Erie county, and twenty-one deputies, arrived in Auburn at 3.15 a. m. The prison is only about fifty yards from the depot. Awaiting the arrival of the train there was a crowd of about 300 people. Either for fear of the crowd, which was not very demonstrative, or from sight of the prison, Czolgoss' legs gave out, and two deputies were compelled practically to carry the man into the prison. Inside the gates his condition became worse, and he was dragged up the stairs and into the main hall. He was placed in a sitting posture on the bench while the handcuffs were being removed, but he fell over and moaned and groaned, evincing the most abject terror.

As soon as the handcuffs were unlocked the man was dragged into the principal keeper's office. As in the case of all prisoners the officers immediately proceeded to strip him and put on the new suit of clothes. During this operation Czolgoss cried and yelled, making the prison corridors echo with evidence of his terror.

The prison physician, Dr. John Goeris, examined the man and ordered his removal to the cell in the condemned row, which he will occupy until he is taken to the electric chair. The doctor declared that the man was suffering from fright and terror, but said that he was shamming to some extent.

The collapse of the murderer was a surprise to everyone. En route from Buffalo he showed no indication of breaking down. He ate heartily of sandwiches and smoked cigars when not eating. He talked some and expressed regret for his crime. He said he was especially sorry for Mrs. McKinley.

Czolgoss reiterated his former statement that he had had no accomplices and declared that he had never heard of the man under arrest in St. Louis, who claimed to have tied the handkerchief over his hand concealing the pistol with which the president was shot. He says the handkerchief was not tied. He went behind the Temple of Music, arranged the handkerchief so as to hide the weapon, and then took his place in the crowd.

To Jailer Mitchell he sent this message to his father: "Tell him I am sorry I left him such a bad name."

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. Then he was advised to try Electric Bites, the wonderful Stomach and Liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." ### Washington, Sept. 27.

President Roosevelt probably will make an extended visit to the Pacific coast next year. The president has spoken of his intention to travel to several of his friends, among them H. W. Scott, of the Portland Oregonian, and S. A. Perkins, of the Tacoma Ledger, who left for the coast today in the belief that this trip would be climactic. It is reported that the president will visit Washington and Tacoma, then return to Portland and Seattle, and finally through the United States to Seattle. The president has never visited the Pacific coast.

Higher Than in England.

New York, Sept. 27.—Sir Christopher Furness, the English steel and ship manufacturer, who arrived on the Deutschland, in an interview is quoted as saying: "I have not come to America to form any combination or make any deals. I have had a number of experts over here visiting the shipyards and steel works. I have their reports, and now I have come myself with the idea of improving the manufacture of steel and the building of ships in England.

"Labor in England, skilled labor, is realising that it is for its best interests to give up the idea of limiting the output per man, and also is beginning to realize that much is to be feared from competition from Germany, and principally from America. While in America the price of labor is higher, yet the product per man is so much greater that labor really costs less in the United States. The threatened American trade and industrial supremacy almost created a panic at first, but we are aware of the fact that we have been driven until our backs are up against the wall, and now we must fight.

"The idea of running steamships loaded with cargo from Chicago to Europe I consider impracticable. The Lachine canal has a depth of only fourteen feet or so, I believe, and ships cannot carry enough freight to make this scheme profitable."

Rich in Fossil Remains.

BAKER CITY, Sept. 27.—Considerable interest is taken by students of geology in some of the fossil remains brought in by the oil prospectors who are looking for oil indications out in Malheur county. Some perfect oyster shells are found, some of the rock strata carries salt water shells, while in others far above are found specimens of fresh water shells. Several bones resembling the bones of the mastodon have been found, and it is believed that if there was a careful search made, possibly some perfect remains of the bones of this prehistoric beast could be unearthed. Specimens of gypsum, lignite, salt, mineral oil and numerous other things have been brought in from time to time, but as the prospectors are all in search of coal oil they pay little attention to these other finds, because to them they are of little or no importance.

Judging from what the prospectors say Malheur county, or portions of it, is richer in fossil remains than the famous Wyoming fossil beds in the vicinity of Green River, in that state. The sea shells, while decomposed, have made a lasting impression in the rocks, and their perfect outline can be traced. It is believed that at some distance below the surface the shells will be more perfect, or rather will not have become decomposed by the action of the elements. Some of the better specimens will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution, at Washington, and doubtless next season a representative of that great scientific institution will visit the deposits and make thorough examination in the interest of science.

Arthur Hauerbach Is the Victor.

WALLA WALLA, Sept. 27.—The long-delayed decision in the interstate collegiate oratorical contest, held at Whitman College, last May, between Elwood Minchin, of Pacific University, of Oregon, and Arthur Hauerbach, of Whitman, and A. C. Gaube, of Washington University, has at last been decided in favor of Hauerbach, who was awarded four firsts and two seconds. Minchin was awarded four seconds and two firsts. Gaube did not appear, and was not placed. Whitman students are greatly elated over the outcome. The report of the California judge, Professor Martin Fishery, on thought and composition, has just been received at Walla Walla. Arthur Hauerbach is a native of Utah, and came to this place from that state six years ago. He was born in Salt Lake, November 30, 1877, and passed the grammar schools of that place. He afterwards went into the jewelry business, which he followed prior to his coming to this city. Immediately after coming to Walla Walla Mr. Hauerbach entered Whitman Academy, and is now a member of the junior class of the college. He has long been associated with field sports, and is captain of the football and baseball teams of his alma mater. He is a brother of Professor O. A. Hauerbach, instructor in elocution at Whitman.

The latter two are new to the field, but the other members of the party were driven from China during the recent troubles.
