Smart Looking

is the woman who comes down the street with a trim-fitting pair of street boots, made on a mannish last. Her tread is firm and solid, because the soles extend and are broad on the bottom. She is indeed a sensible woman. Box call, vici kid, all sizes and widths; some with extension soles and rope stitch, the typical mannish shoes, so stylish and sensible.

Special good values at $2.50, $3, $3.50 and $4.

With ATTRACTIONS UNEQUALED.

Prof. E. J. Rose, the High Diver, diving from a pole 75 feet high, turning a complete somersault and diving into a tank of water 3 ft. deep.

Dandy, the High-Diving Dog, ascends and dives, at the command of his trainer, Prof. Harry Holmes, from a 60 ft. ladder into a net.

Luenette, the Mysterious Flying Lady, flies through the air and performs truly astonishing feats without any assistance. A truly edifying moral exhibition.

The Bioscope, direct from London, England, showing the famous Passion Play, Sappho, Dixon-Palmer Fight and other scenes intensely interesting.

Bosco, the Abyssinian Snake-Eater, eats 'em alive. Don't fail to see Bosco.

Beautiful Ione, in poses plastique. A startling, beautiful effect. Illustrated songs.

Vaudeville Show. La Belle Rosa, the premier Oriental Dancing Girl. Prof. Schmidt, the hypnotist. Prof. Post, the anatomical wonder; a freak of nature, the most wonderfully developed human being extant.

The Old Plantation. Fun on the levee. Buck and Wing Dancing. Quaint Southern Melodies.

The Indian Mummy. A remarkable freak of nature.

Dr. M. H. Walker, Professional Palmist, associated with the celebrated Gypsy Palmist.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

The weather forecast received from Portland this morning says: "Fair to-day and Tuesday. Frost tonight."

The diamond ring will be presented with appropriate ceremonies, to Queen Melvia, Wednesday night. Meanwhile it is on exhibition daily in Van Norden's show window.

A message sent by telegraph is termed a telegram, but a message sent by telephone is as yet without a name. "Telephone" has been suggested, as well as "telephem" and "phonogram."

Andrew Urquhart brought to this office this morning a piece of grape vine of the Sweet Water variety, about five feet in length, the grapes on which weighed twenty-seven pounds. It is an exhibition in the fruit booth.

Mrs. J. H. Shaver, of Sherar's Bridge, who was seriously hurt last week at Grass Valley by the kick of a favorite mule, is, we are pleased to learn, improving to such an extent that no permanent injury is apprehended.

It would be well for people to look out for counterfeit money as well as other forms of robbery during the fair. It was currently reported on the street this morning that the "shovers of the queer" had already got in more or less of their work.

Portland papers announce the engagement of Miss Susie Gambell, who is well known in this city as an accomplished vocalist, to Lambert D. Whitehurst, of Tacoma. The wedding is announced to take place at the home of the bride's parents in Portland today.

The friends of Miss Ida Ward will be pleased to learn that she is recovering rapidly from the operation she underwent recently at St. Vincent's hospital, and is now considered out of danger. Dr. Gelescoffer had word to that effect from Portland yesterday.

The Buffalo News tells a story of a 4-year-old girl who was spending a night away from home. As bedtime she brushed at her mother's feet to say her goodnight, expecting the usual response. Finding Mrs. B. unable to help her out, she concluded that: "Good, God, 'twas me; I can't remember my prayers, and I'm staying with a lady that don't know any."

A simple remedy for warts is a dram of salicylic acid with an ounce of colloid in a bottle which has a tiny brush run through the cork. Apply this mixture to the warts twice a day and in a few days they will dry up and fall off.—October Ladies' Home Journal.

Two carloads of horses and one of sheep arrived here last night from the street fair. W. O. Minor's load of short-horns arrived Saturday. The stock and horse entries will not be complete till tonight, but there is hardly a doubt that every available shed and stall will be occupied. So says Secretary Williams.

Mr. John Bonn brought down from his home this morning for exhibition at the fair a German family Bible that was translated by "John Dichtenberger and other learned and godly persons," and printed in the year 1577. It has been in the Bonn family for 324 years. It is in a fine state of preservation.

The More Observer dismises a very unpleasant subject in the following characteristic manner: "J. A. Knox contends that the smallpox which he scattered in the Hood river valley section, he got in More, as he camped here two weeks. Joseph, you stole nothing; you perhaps had it with you when you came here, and we are thankful to Almighty God that you took it away with you."

A new law makes the next November term of county courts the time for fixing the boundary lines of election precincts. The January term before an election was the time by the old law. The limits must be fixed by the courts so as to conform toward and road district boundaries. It is also provided that no election precinct will have more than 300 votes. Petitions to the court for desired changes must be brought in at the coming November term or precinct limits will stand for two years as at present arranged.

Portland, with a population of 100,000, raised $15,000 for her exposition and carnival. The Dalles, with a population of 4000, raised $4,800 for her street fair and carnival. The Dalles may be a slow town, and comparisons may be odious, but it is hard to suppress the remark that the comparative ratio of liberality of the two towns in this particular instance is nearly 4 to 1 in favor of The Dalles. The Dalles raised $1.20 per capita of population; Portland raised 35 cents. Why even the boys of The Dalles in half an hour yesterday night worked in a round thousand dollars in wares for their fraternal festival for queen of the carnival.

John Adkins, of the Umatic House, recently received from his mother an Old Fellow's apron and coat that belonged to his grandfather and was given to his father when he was a child of nine years, to be kept by him and handed down to his son in the manner to his son. The peculiar interest attaching to the regalia lies in the fact that the elder Adkins, the first owner, was a charter member of the first Odd Fellow's lodge instituted this side the Atlantic. This was probably in 1819, as Odd Fellowship was introduced in the United States, from what is known as the Manchester Unity, in that year, and the "Grand Lodge of Maryland and the United States" was constituted February 22, 1821.

M. T. Nolan received a telegram this morning announcing that his brother-in-law, George Moabus, had been killed yesterday in Missoula, Montana; and that the body would be brought here for burial. The deceased was foreman of the switching crew at Missoula and is supposed to have met his death while attending to the duties of his calling. The young man was scarcely 24 years of age. He was born and brought up in The Dalles where he has many friends who regret his untimely death. No arrangement can be made for the time of the funeral till the corpse arrives.

The number and variety of exhibits in the carnival grounds this year greatly exceed those of last year. The booths of the mercantile firms are remarkably beautiful, although at this writing very few of them are complete. The following list of booths will be found nearly complete: Louis Comtal, menswear; mines and minerals; Andrew Keller, confectionery; J. T. Peters, lumber, wood etc.; Dr. Tackman, greenhouse plants; Meier & Benton, hardware and groceries; Eastern Oregon fruits; women's fancy needle work; oil paintings and other works of art; photographs; Mays & Crowe, hardware and groceries; New York Cash Store, dry goods and clothing; Jones' Cafe, confectionery; Oregon cereal products; D. W. Vause, paints, oils, etc.; Monette & Parkins, books and musical instruments; Franz & Nitschke, furniture; ladies' cookery; White Collar Line; M. Z. Donnell, drugs; B. A. Gifford, photography; Pease & Mays, general merchandise; G. O. Blakeley, drugs; A. M. Williams & Company, dry goods and clothing. H. Glenn, paints, oils, etc.; Hub Clothing House; M. Gumbert, cigars and tobacco; Great Northern Furniture Co., furnitures and stores; E. H. Grant, cigars and tobacco; Dalles Laundry Co.; Diamond Roller Mills; E. J. Bowen, foods. In addition to these is the booth of the ladies of St. Peter's Catholic church for the sale of fancy goods of various kinds; that of J. Newton for the sale of lemonade and soft drinks; that of John Bradley for the sale of peanuts, and a long range of booths devoted to domestic and fancy goods.

Steamer Bailey Gatzert, Commanding Officer, left the port will leave Portland on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday at 7 a. m., and The Dalles on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday at 7 a. m.

The Fair and Carnival.

At this writing there is every indication that the fair and carnival will be the largest and most successful ever held in the second Oregon fair district, if not in Eastern Oregon.

The dread of rain is over, the sky is without a cloud and confidence prevails that we shall have a full week of our own ideal fall weather. These conditions are peculiarly gratifying, for besides the fact that The Dalles people have surpassed themselves in making preparation for the events of this week the county fair is an institution that is dear to the heart of people in both town and country. The fall season is never complete without it. It brings people together for a period of diversion and relaxation that is needed after a summer and harvest of hard work, and the pleasure afforded makes for the health and happiness of everyone who takes a day or two off and devotes himself exclusively to his enjoyments.

There is a good deal to be gained by the farmer from a study of agricultural exhibits. It matters not whether they are interested in live stock, wheat, fruit, or vegetables, an exchange of ideas and a comparison of products is certain to awaken greater interest in their work and create a generous rivalry that spurs the farmer on to better effort. There is nothing more efficient than the county fair to get the agriculturist out of the mistaken notion that he is doing well enough and can not improve his farm, increase his yields or better his methods. It is a school in itself and every farmer gains by a few days' attendance at it.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. M. C. George, Miss George, Miss Jennie George and Miss Bradley were in The Dalles Saturday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Toime.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Stadlerman returned last night from their wedding trip and are "at home" temporarily at the residence of the bride's Uncle and Aunt Gourlay.

DEATH.
In this city Sunday, Sept. 30th, to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hayward, a son.

Disolution Notice.
Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between J. E. Falt and Chas. H. Michelbach, under the firm name of J. E. Falt & Co., has this day been dissolved by mutual consent, Chas. H. Michelbach retiring. J. E. Falt will continue the business and will collect all outstanding accounts and pay all claims against said firm.
The Dalles, Or., Sept. 30, 1901.
J. E. FALT,
CHAS. H. MICHELBAUGH.
