Wheat is arriving by wagon at the rate of about 500 tons a day.

Professor Sandvig will give a social dance at the Baldwin Saturday night. 24

Sweet potatoes have been raised quite successfully in Columbia neighborhood, the Goldendale Sentinel says.

Complete tailor system of dress cutting taught by Mrs. E. E. Henderson at her residence on Third street, near Madison. 010-1wd

Fred Fisher put a force of men to work this morning on the foundation for his new residence south of the Mitchell residence on Washington street.

Fred Ward, of Ward Bros., the saw mill men, is building a handsome new residence for himself in the Hamason Addition, west of the old fair grounds.

Mrs. Sparlin will give lessons in stenography at the residence of Mrs. E. E. Henderson, Third street, near Madison. 010-1wd Carpenters are at work on the new W. A. Johnston residence on the southwest corner of Third and Laughlin. The building promises to be a very handsome one.

Governor Gear will leave Salem next Thursday for Columbus, Ohio, to participate in the campaign in that state, and make speeches for the republicans. He expects to be home again about November 10th.

The Pullman agricultural college will hold a farmers' institute in Goldendale October 21st and 22nd. Professor Spillman, of the Pullman college, and Hon. C. L. Smith, of Minamta, will be the principal lecturers.

On petition of August Hixon, G. M. Connett has been appointed by Judge Blakeley administrator of the estate of the late Henry Dyon. Dyon had left no known heirs. His estate is valued at about $2000, but he left debts that may use this sum all up.

Dad Betts has sold the residence of Charley Allison, an Elmwood street, to Fred Loh, of the Robinson precinct, for $800, cash. He also sold Mr. Loh the three lots adjoining that belonged to Mrs. Antone Jerome, now of Tillamook county, for $750. Mr. Loh's family have moved into their new home.

All the machinery of the new flouring mill is in the building, and most of it is in place. There is a small army of carpenters and millwrights at work, and the indications now are that the mill will be all ready to start up by November 1st. Whatever delay there may be after that will be in connecting the mill with the electric power.

The Olympia chamber of commerce recently passed resolutions condemning of anarchism and urging congress to pass laws placing membership in an anarchistic organization on the calendar of crimes, such as high treason, and further urging that an attempt made on the life of the chief officers of the nation be punishable by death.

The Linn county Council, Patrons of Husbandry, yesterday passed a strong resolution against the calling of a special session of the legislature to make an appropriation for the Lewis and Clark exposition. Their opposition, we are told, is not to the exposition, but to the expense; and herein they manifest that they are in thorough accord with the majority. We all want the exposition, but if it is going to cost us anything, why then that's another question entirely.

The Philadelphia Times is authority for the statement that during the winter season of the new presidential administration, official mourning will be observed, and not until January 1, 1903, will the white house doors be opened for either public, diplomatic or army and navy receptions. The members of the cabinet will not hold open house, and there will be no official participation whatever in the social life of the capital for the first six months of President Roosevelt's term.

Will wonders never cease? Cabbages weighing twenty pounds, potatoes three pounds, onions nearly as large, cauliflower five pounds, turnips, radishes, lettuce and peas that would put Mill Creek on the back seat. These are included in the Klondike exhibit and all raised around Dawson City. Alaska will be a garden spot yet. On October 15th the O. E. & N. will sell round trip tickets to the Portland exposition for $3.10, including two admissions to the exposition and good for returns within six days. 08-14

Mrs. W. F. Magill, of Dufur, died at The Dalles hospital yesterday afternoon of nephritis, or inflammation of the kidneys. About a week ago she was brought here for surgical treatment, from which she rallied and was doing nicely till other complications set in. Mrs. Magill was in her 60th year. She leaves a husband and two children and seven children by a former husband, nine in all, the youngest being about 15 years of age. Her aged mother, Mrs.

H. H. Hayward, lives in Wamic, and her brother, C. E. Hayward, is a well-known resident of The Dalles; while a sister, Mrs. Chas. Wing, and a brother, Horace Hayward, are residents of the Wamic settlement. Mrs. Magill was an earnest Christian woman and had been a church member for many years. The remains were taken today to Dufur, from whence they will be taken on to Wamic tomorrow for interment.

Two strange-looking, iron-strapped wooden boxes, bearing the brand "Kansas City Creamery" might have been seen lying in front of the Pacific Express office yesterday afternoon, and if one had inquired what they were for he would probably have been surprised to learn that they had come here all the way from Abeline, Kansas, loaded with butter which was sold in this city. Think of it! Shipping butter from Kansas, and yet living in a state that is, naturally, one of the finest dairy countries in the world.

A fairly good house greeted Herr Anton Schott and his assistants at their musical recital at the Vogt last night. Our German friends were there in generous force, and as many of them possess high musical culture, and the songs were mostly of the Fatherland, their appreciation could easily be inferred by the less happily situated, from the hearty and long-continued rounds of applause. The rest of us had to be content with such pleasure as flows from listening to a voice of marvelous compass and dramatic power, without the added pleasure of understanding the words. Not so was it, however, when our own Lizzie Bonn came to the footlights, amid a long-continued round of applause that was as flattering to the young lady as her subsequent performance proved it to be deserved. After singing a very sweet German song, Miss Bonn responded to an encore with "The Holy City," in English, at the conclusion of which she was presented with a magnificent bouquet of flowers and was called before the curtain no less than three or four times. It is no figure of speech to say that Miss Bonn's singing captured the house, and if she should live a hundred years she will hardly ever have a more appreciative audience than she had last night, and that among those, many of whom at least, have known her from childhood. And, best of all, this appreciation was fully deserved.

The Wheat Trade.

The Portland Commercial Review of October 10th has the following to say of the wheat situation:

"We note a fair export movement during the week just ended. Trading has been without special features, the situation being unaltered as to conditions previously noted. That holders are disposed to accept current values is confirmed by constant selling, which, while at no time of an active character has been steady and perhaps more satisfactory to exporters than if what poured in on them. Receipts have been liberal, the average to date being about 150 cars per day. Wheat is going on board ship rapidly and since out last there have been quite a number of vessels loaded. The week's foreign advices were on the whole of a weak nature, few cargo buyers being in the market, owing to the low prices at which English wheats were selling, the average market price this week being 27s 3d per quarter. The outlook for any material advance in price is not very encouraging at present, and it would be with great pleasure if the Commercial Review could say that the markets were better and prices likely to advance. The crop of the United States is very large, and with the competition of Russia and Argentina on cheaper wheats, it does not look very encouraging. Bulling or bearing wheat or any other commodity on paper is about as valueless as counting paper profits unsecured as tangible assets. There is, therefore, no harm in looking at the facts as they are rather than distorting them—we are dishonest to ourselves the moment we adopt the latter course—it is always more sensible and profitable to bow to fact than to worship the haughty of fiction, to dream.

"In normal years, when the crops of the world outside of wheat were at a normal, the big yield of wheat in the world this year would undeniably mean very low prices. Fortunately for wheat producers generally, the coarse grain crops of America this year are abnormally small. This is all that prevents very low prices. But just how much this is worth to the wheat price is yet uncertain. So far it has been worth all of 10 cents per bushel, perhaps 15 cents. The advances of wheat consumption have been widened materially by its cheapness as compared with the dearth of the coarse grains, but whether sufficient to absorb the big surplus of wheat is yet to be determined. If not, then prices must go lower—there is certainly nothing in the present situation to put them higher. Prices here may be quoted for Oct, $2.85 cents; bluestem, $4 cents; valley, $4 cents per bushel."

BIG DAY AT EXPOSITION.

The O. E. & N. Co. will sell tickets to Portland and return on October 15th, including two admission coupons to the exposition, for $2.10, good returning within six days. Children, half these rates.

We beg to present a picture of a late arrival. While up-to-date, the design is quiet and in good taste.

This is not a $3.50 shoe, as good as $5 ones, but thoroughly $3.50 through and through.

We have a whole window full of the same kind.

Light and heavy soles.
