The Glacier says E. E. Savage, of Hood River, is very sick with stomach and heart troubles, and there is only slight hope of his recovery.

Sheriff Kelly returned this morning from Boise City with E. Fish, who is wanted here to answer to the charge of receiving money under false pretenses.

The firm of J. E. Adcox & Co. being now extinct, J. E. Adcox, the watchmaker, formerly of that firm, is now in the employ of T. A. Van Norden. Those sending watches in from a distance, intended for J. E. Adcox, will please address the same to T. A. Van Norden, The Dallas. oct18dw1f

The Hood River Glacier is responsible for the following: "And now comes the most amusing incident that occurred at The Dallas carnival. Two young married men, who do not live far from The Dallas, accompanied by their wives took in the carnival and at night put up at the Umatilla. The host viewed the jolly quartet through crooked glasses, and when the hour for retiring came insisted upon the ladies occupying one room and their angry husbands another. Next time, boys, take the baby and your marriage certificates along. Cigars for two."

Hon. E. L. Smith gathered 520 boxes of apples in his lower orchard of four-year-old trees—trees that had been set three years, says the Hood River Glacier. In the 520 boxes he found less than one boxful of wormy apples. Across the ravine from this orchard a neighbor picked 100 boxes from trees of the same age. The neighbor did not spray his trees, and about two thirds of his apples are wormy. This is a very convincing object lesson to the neighbor, and next year, it is hardly necessary to say, he will spray. Mr. Smith sprayed his orchards six times during the season. He feels very much encouraged over his success with his new spray pump and is satisfied he knows how to get the best of the codlin moth.

The Wiedemann's gave another pleasing performance at the Vogt last night, and as usual the house was crowded. The play was Bartley Campbell's "A Great Divorce Case" and proved the strongest dramatic bill the company has put on this week, although the absence of Tom and Nellie Wiedemann from the cast was felt. The vaudeville features as usual, were pleasing foremost, among which is Miss Wiedemann's electric dances, a specialty new to Dallas audiences and is a strong drawing card. Tonight the company will present "The Steam Laundry;" Saturday's matinee, "The Village Belle," and will close their engagement Saturday night with a scenic and costume production of "The Sea of Ice."

The Shaniko Leader says: "The Mountaineer appears determined to show up what it terms the poor fruit display at The Dallas fair, while the Chronicle upholds it. This controversy is shameful, and will do about the same good as the Sobley controversy. The fruit display at The Dallas was all right, and while there could have been more of it, what would have been the use? When exhibitors bring sheep, cattle or horses to a fair they do not bring the whole band. Then why in a fruit display should they bring the entire orchard? Better stop quarrelling, gentlemen, and instead of tearing down build up. The public who took in the fair was satisfied, even if the editor of the Mountaineer was not."

The coming attraction, "Daughter of the Diamond King," is said to be one of the greatest hits known in years, both from an artistic and a monetary standpoint. Its popularity is due to its beautiful story, and the simple manner in which it is told by a cast that must have been carefully picked out to fit each individual character. So perfectly do they conform to the creation of the author's that one forgets he is watching a play, that he is gazing upon a reflection of nature, and when the old schoolmaster says, "Come, children, take your seats, fold your hands," to the accompaniment of such detail as the rattle of slates and the closing of books, it needs no great flight of imagination to take one back to the time he sharpened slate pencils or had to stay after school for setting apples behind the geography. Another loadstone the author has discovered upon which to anchor public favor is the sweetheart of school days. They are the leading characters in the play and their joys and sorrows are felt in every human heart who witnesses the development of their bliss and the bitterness of their sorrow when the unavailing of the plot casts obstacles across their path. "Daughter of the Diamond King" will be the attraction at the Vogt October 21st.

Christina, the beloved wife of F. C. Claussen, of Dufur, died at the Obarr hotel in this city, yesterday, October 17th, at 4:30 p. m. The cause of death was Bright's disease and the end came after a painful illness that extended over a year. Everything that medical skill and tender care could accomplish was done for her, but in vain. Mrs. Claussen was aged about 46 years. She was married in California twenty years ago to her surviving husband and shortly after moved with him to this county, settling on a homestead claim near Nansene. She leaves seven children, three boys and four girls, ranging in ages from 5 to 18 years. Mrs. Claussen was a devoted, loving wife and mother, and the bereaved family have the deep sympathy of all who know them. The remains will be taken to Dufur for interment, leaving the Obarr hotel for that place at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The remains of the late W. E. Campbell arrived here from Willows county this morning and were taken to the family residence on Eighth street, from whence they will be taken at 9 o'clock tomorrow to Eight Mile for interment beside Mr. Campbell's two dead children. W. E. Campbell was born in Oregon City October 18, 1851. His parents, William B. and Frances Campbell, were early pioneers. They located first at Oregon City, but moved to Eight Mile, this county, when the deceased was a lad of about 10 years. Mr. Campbell was married to Sarah Angell, who survives him, in 1872, and to their union was born eight children, six of whom are living. Five of these are residents of The Dallas, and a daughter, Mrs. Ella Racer, lives in San Francisco. Those residing here are W. A. Burr Campbell, George R. Charles L., Roy T., Rex and Freddie. Mr. Campbell was a man of high moral character and an earnest and sincere Christian. For many years he was a highly esteemed member of The Dallas M. E. church.

"Charley" Shackelford, the doctor's well-known horse, seems to have taken a new lease of life after an illness of many weeks that has reduced him to a shadow of his former self. As THE CHRONICLE mentioned some time ago, old Charley's illness was caused by a rusty nail that ran into one of his feet. The doctor did everything possible to bring him back to health, but for two or three weeks looked for his death any day. Yesterday the old horse got off his pins and could not rise again to his feet. At 1 o'clock this morning the doctor and another gentleman visited the barn and found the horse just breathing, but no more. As it was impossible to get him to his feet they made him as comfortable as possible and left him for the night. When the doctor went to the barn this morning the horse was gone, and in a few moments he was found quietly grazing by the roadside in front of Mr. Maler's residence on Fourth street. Charley had staggered into the doctor's lawn during the night and had fallen over the wall into the street, a fall of probably six feet. He seems none the worse for it and begins to look as if he might get well. Charley is probably 30 years of age, and has been owned by the doctor for 23 years. He was a noble animal in his day and one of the most intelligent we have ever seen.

An Aid to the Buyer...

The Pianos which have been endorsed by the most eminent experts are now on exhibition right here in your city, and are offered at prices upon easy terms of payment, heretofore never attempted by a reliable house.

The laws underlying the theories of standard piano construction are today an unacquainted feature with nine hundred and ninety-nine people out of every thousand, and in the advanced race for business many cheap and inferior instruments are being offered for sale through various avenues by an unscrupulous class of illiterate vendors.

When you stop to consider that the Steinway, the great Kimball, the wonderful Weber, the peerless Chickering, are conceded by the world's greatest critics to be the acme of piano construction, you need not hesitate to buy now.

Thus far the business already transacted during this special sale has been of the most flattering type, and we beg to offer through the columns of this paper our hearty appreciation and many thanks for the liberal patronage bestowed upon us, and our earnest endeavor will be to please and satisfy the most skeptical, with a positive and distinct guarantee with each and every instrument sold at this really reduced-price and genuine piano sale.

Yours for good Pianos,
