NO FURTHER WORD FROM MISS STONE

Missionary Searchers Are Unable to Find Any Trace of the Brigand Band.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 19.—Neither W. W. Peet, treasurer of the American Bible House, nor Spencer Eddy, secretary of the United States legation, had received any news up to noon today from the missionaries who are searching for the brigands who kidnaped Miss Ellen Stone and her companion, Mrs. Talika. Messrs. Peet and Eddy had a long conference today as to the advisability of reinforcing the searchers, but decided that the present arrangements sufficed. Consul-General Dickinson remains at Sofia and will operate from there until the liberation of Miss Stone is accomplished. The difficult nature of the country handicaps the searchers, and heavy rains have increased the difficulty of traversing the paths which are the only means of access to the hiding places of the bandits in the rugged mountain range.

Thick mists generally envelop the region in Autumn, preventing even experienced mountaineers from traveling. Early in the week one of the missionary searchers actually located the bandits and was approaching their retreat, when the brigands, apparently fearing to approach the troops, shifted their quarters and track of them was again lost. Now, however, that the troops have been called off, the directors of the search are hopeful of making better progress, though they pointed out that even after the brigands are found the negotiations may be prolonged, especially in view of the lack of telegraph facilities.

New York, Oct. 19.—Concerning the case of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the missing missionary, Rev. George D. Marsh cables to the Journal and Advertiser from Samakov:

"After twenty-nine years' experience in Bulgaria, during which I won the sobriquet, 'Bulgarian Atrocity,' my knowledge of the brigands leads me to believe they are widely dispersed and Miss Stone is quietly sequestered in some mountain village, of which the villagers, partly in fear, would soon tell the authorities. Modern brigands are sorry successives. They are chivalrous cutthroats who believe that if they touched a damsel they would die in a Turkish prison. A Turkish minister is credited with the flippant, though expressive saying: 'The kidnaping of another American woman would bankrupt the Ottoman Empire.'"

An Explanation.

T. A. Van Norden has seen fit to announce that the firm of J. E. Adcox & Company is extinct. The firm name is extinct it is true, but, as everybody knows, the business continues as before, and I have been its sole owner since December 10, 1900, since which time Mr. Adcox worked for me for wages till about a month ago, when I discharged him for drunkenness and for taking and pawned a gold watch left in my care for repairs. Those sending watches from a distance intended for J. E. Adcox & Co. will please address them to myself, where they will receive the attention of an skilled a watchmaker as there is in this city. All work done at my store is guaranteed, as this has always been my method of doing business.

We always keep it in the house to protect our children from Croup and Whooping Cough. It cured me of a chronic bronchial trouble that no other remedy would relieve." Death Due to Cancer.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 19.—Rear-Admiral Francis M. Bunce, U. S. N. (retired), died today at his home here.

Admiral Bunce's death, while sudden, was not entirely unexpected, as his family had been warned to expect the worst. Last May cancer of the tongue developed and an operation in Boston resulted in the removal of the admiral's tongue. In September the disease attacked the throat, and the patient grew weaker from that time fighting a hopeless battle with the courage which has always characterized the man. Two weeks ago he took to his bed and has been practically confined there ever since.

(Francis Marvin Bunce was born December 25, 1836, and was appointed to the Naval Academy May 28, 1852. He served with distinction in the Civil War, taking part in the blockade of Wilmington, N. C., and in the capture of Morris Island, S. C., July 10, 1863, he commanded the expedition which co-operated with General Gilmore in the reduction of the confederate works on the island, and was in the attack on Fort Sumpter, September 8, 1863. He served on the monitor Patapsco in the siege of Charleston. In November, 1863, he was wounded by the premature explosion of a shell in the turret of the Patapsco. He was on the staff of Admiral Dahlgren and received honorable mention time and time again for gallant conduct. He received a captain's commission in 1863, and was made a commodore in 1893. In 1898, he was given the rank of rear-admiral.)

Ninth Infantry Heroes to Be Reinterred New York, Oct. 19.—According to a Niagara Falls, N. Y., special to the World, by a singular coincidence a celebration unique in history, and concerning more than any other the Ninth Regiment, is to be carried out almost at the moment news has been received of another disaster to this splendid organization, noted in many wars. Today in Canada the bodies of nine heroes of the regiment, killed in the war of 1812, will be reinterred on Lundy's Lane battlefield, where they fell. H. W. Brush, United States consul at Niagara Falls, and chairman of the committee having charge of the interment of the bodies, which were found a few months ago on the battlefield and identified as members of the Ninth, makes this announcement:

"A company of United States soldiers from Fort Niagara will be met at the center of the upper steel arch bridge, Niagara Falls, at about 3 p. m. today by a company of Canadian soldiers, who will act as an escort to Lundy's Lane. It will be a strictly military funeral. In many respects the exercises will be without precedent. The Canadian government has given the United States soldiers permission to enter Canada with their side arms, and has extended every courtesy."
