Milton Harlan, formerly city editor of THE CHRONICLE, has purchased the Skamania County Pioneer and will conduct it from this week forward.

A marriage license was issued this morning to Cody Neff and Minnie Peddick, of Goldendale. Another was issued to J. J. Bennett and Emma Cross, of this city.

A Frenchman lately committed suicide because he was homely and no woman would marry him, and a hen-pecked hubby remarks editorially that some people never do know when they are well off.

T. A. Hudson, of the firm of Hudson & Brownhill, is expected here tonight from Portland to remain till the last of the week. Parties having business with him can find him at the office, on Washington street. Oct 21-1w

Tuesday, October 23d, is the date of the great welcome to The Dalles of Lieut. Colonel French, of San Francisco, and the farewell meeting of Major Kimball, and a baby will be given away. A very interesting time is expected and all are invited to attend to hear the lieutenant-colonel speak and sing. It will be worth while coming.

The many friends of Dad Butte will be sorry to hear that he has been confined to his bed for the past week with the old trouble that has bothered him at intervals since the nearly fatal accident that befell him a couple of years ago. He was able to be out of bed yesterday for the first time and was still improving at last accounts.

borning woman ridiculed the idea and told the mother of the patient that the doctor was "a fool and didn't know nothing." It was only a case of sore throat. In a few days Mrs. Know-It-All's own child took down sick, and thus it spread to other families. If people will be careless they must suffer the consequences.

The case of Miles Summers, which was set for this afternoon before Recorder Doherty, has been continued till Friday morning. Summers is accused of committing an assault on John Dalrymple at the Floyd ranch. Summers, while on the way here from Spokane and while camping on the roadside near the Floyd school house, turned his horses into the school house grounds. When Dalrymple remonstrated with Summers the latter swore the grounds were public property and he would keep his horses in the enclosure as long as he damn pleased. On further remonstrance on the part of Dalrymple, Summers assaulted him with an ax. Summers was arrested here by Constable Jackson, and Recorder Doherty bound him to appear for trial in the sum of $100.

Mr. George H. Cooper, of British Columbia, has invented a new system of notation which he claims to be superior in many respects to the decimal and metric system now in general use. It is a system of eights instead of tens, and is designated as the "octimal system." The fundamental advantage of the system is that it eliminates fractions. Eight may be subdivided to infinity and you always get unite, never fractions or pieces of unite. The very name of the decimal system shows its nature. It runs to fractions so constantly that the fractions is as much a natural part of the term as the Greek "deka" meaning ten. Mr. Cooper maintains that a system which eliminates fractions and does not put any other hard thing in place of it is worthy of the serious attention of an intelligent world.

Mr. Chas. A. Taylor, whose "King of the Opium Ring" scored such a hit in The Dalles last season, will present his latest effort entitled "Daughter of the Diamond King" at the Vogue opera house tonight. At no time has such a cast of talented artists ever been seen on one stage, embracing, as it does, some of the best known members of the theatrical profession. The school room scene in the first act, where thirty little ones are seen studying their books bent over their desks, and the grand illumination scene in the fourth act, during which 150 incandescent lights of various sizes and colors burst forth to amaze the spectator, are both novel and artistic pieces of stage work, being original and true to life. In writing "Daughter of the Diamond King" Mr. Taylor has a production which exceeds anything he has heretofore attempted. A cast of twenty persons, headed by Mr. Butte, who made such a good impression with

"The town of Easton," says The Kennebec (Me.) Journal, "sends down the story of ninety-two potatoes which fill a barrel and weigh 164 pounds. Just to get an idea of their size, count an ordinary barrel of potatoes. Maple Grove tells of a field of one and three-fourths acres which yielded 325 barrels of potatoes. Presque Isle tells of a single potato, eleven inches long and weighing three and a half pounds." We wonder what these specimens of the efforts East would say if they saw some real potatoes. Ninety-two potatoes weighing 164 pounds is only a pound and three-quarters to a potato. These would be counted "scrats" in this country. We had at one time on exhibition in the office window of THE CHRONICLE for months two potatoes that weighed fourteen pounds, one 7½ and the other 6½ pounds. And the remarkable thing about them was, not that they were big for Oregon, but that they were grown on what some people would call a "sand bank" on the edge of the Columbia river.

In view of the fact that there are wild and unfounded rumors about "twenty to thirty" cases of diphtheria in the city, THE CHRONICLE this morning made it its business to obtain the exact truth in the case, and the following facts, obtained from Mayor Farley, Marshal Champlin and the local physicians may be relied on as the exact truth. There have been eleven cases, all told, of diphtheria within the limits of the city. In five of these cases the patients have recovered and the quarantine has been raised. There are now six houses quarantined, and no more, with one patient in each house. There has been no fatal case within the city limits. One case outside the city limits, near Thompson's Addition, ended fatally at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. It was that of Oland Millikin, a boy of 7 years. He was buried privately yesterday forenoon. The city authorities are doing all in their power to maintain a strict quarantine of all infected dwellings, and if the inmates and others had co-operated with them as they should the disease need not have spread as it has. The authorities have determined to punish to the full extent of the law all future violations of the quarantine ordinance. Meanwhile there is no real occasion for alarm. Let the people unitedly co-operate with the authorities in enforcing strict quarantine and the disease will be stamped out in a very short time.

The Truth of the Matter.
 Referring to the paid advertisement which appeared in THE CHRONICLE of Saturday, the 19th inst., and signed by Theo. H. Liebe, I will say the gold watch referred to by Mr. Liebe belongs to Chas. J. Stuhling and was placed in my care by Mr. Stuhling, in the latter's place of business, and was not placed in the possession of Mr. Liebe, as he asserts. Mr. Stuhling held the receipt for the watch, as he himself will testify. As to the charge of drunkenness, I will say I was confined at home with a badly crippled shoulder for over two weeks, and was unable to work, as Drs. Doane and Eschelman will testify. Mr. Liebe did not make this charge from his own knowledge, as he never called upon me nor did we see each other until I had been in the employ of T. A. Van Norden for more than two weeks. Consequently he drew upon his imagination or acted upon hearsay evidence. The truth of the matter is that Mr. Liebe, by his hasty actions, has made a vacant place in the mechanical department of his establishment which cannot be filled, as all good watchmakers have employment. Mr. Liebe is now mad at me because I did not go to him and upon headed knees beg for reinstatement; mad at Mr. Van Norden because he (Van Norden) gave me employment, and mad at himself because of his hasty actions. And now he seeks revenge by trying to place a stigma upon myself and my innocent little children, and by trying to injure the business of T. A. Van Norden, who has the entire confidence of the people far and near, and whose business is placed upon too firm a foundation to be shaken by Mr. Liebe, or anyone else.

Respectfully,
J. E. ADCOX.
