At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Ody Neff and Miss Minnie Peddicord,

The editorial desk of THE CHRONICLE is ornamented with a beautiful "bouquet" of slips of ever-bearing raspberry, the gift of Mrs. C. J. Stubling. The fruit is in all stages of growth from the opening blossom to the big, luscious, ripened berry. The bushes from which these slips were cut have been in bearing all summer and are in full bearing now. The "bouquet" is well worth a visit to this office. Mrs. Stubling advertises the plants for sale at 10 cents each.

A grocery drummer has just vouched for the following yarn to the Albany Democrat: "When the Scotch bagpipers were through the valley introducing Scotch oats in Salem among the boys dressed in the Scotch kilts was a Jew boy. After going around awhile the boy was missed. Upon going back they found him in a tree with a Scotch collie dog on the ground. The Scotch dog had objected to a Hebrew boy wearing Scotch clothes and had treed him."

Jailer John Fitzgerald complains that domestic pigeons have become so numerous about the court house as to become a nuisance. While they don't gain admission to any part of the building so many of them perch on the gutters of the roof that these water channels have to be cleaned out at considerable trouble every little while. Mr. Fitzgerald intends to apply to the city council for permission to exterminate them with a shot gun.

A very quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized Monday afternoon, October 21st, at the country home of Mrs. E. J. Bagley, the contracting parties being her daughter, Miss Eva Bagley, and Mr. George M. Prayne. Both parties are well known and popular young people and have a host of friends, who wish them much happiness. The bride lived in this city until a few weeks ago, while the groom is one of our most successful young business men. Those present were Mrs. Bagley, Mrs. Eastwood, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Bagley, Ira Prayne, Harry Bagley, Mr. and Mrs. Yeakel and daughter, Elizabeth, Mrs. J. Cronker and others.

"Dr." M. H. Walker, the palmist who occupied a tent in the midway during the late Dalles carnival, got himself into a peck of trouble at Astoria the other day through the abuse of a Portland girl whom he is accused by his wife of having hypnotized and then abused. When Walker's long-suffering wife complained of the affair to the Astoria police the "doctor" got his gun and swore he would kill both of the women. His wife then charged him with insanity and Walker was examined, but the charge was not sustained. The authorities then shipped Walker out of town by boat and his wife by rail, while they turned the Portland girl over to the care of a local aid society.

White George St. Lawrence, of Klickitat county, was in town yesterday with a load of wheat, his four-horse team and wagon were seized by Constable Jackson on an execution sworn out in Justice Brownhill's court on complaint of Napoleon Bulley, of the East End, who sues Mr. St. Lawrence and N. O. Crewling, also a Klickitater, for $75, alleged to be due for services in cutting grain. Under the exemption law Mr. St. Lawrence was permitted to have the wagon and one span of horses and harness released, the constable retaining the other span and harness. Mr. St. Lawrence denies that he owes Bulley anything and will fight the case in court. The hearing has been set for next Saturday, October 26th, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Herrmann, the Great.

The great and only Herrmann comes to the opera house Thursday, October 24th, in his magnificent exhibition of magic and occult phenomenon. The critical theater-goers of the United States have long since endorsed the marvellous work of this Great Herrmann, and it is safe to say that as an entertainer in magic and sensational illusions his standard is absolutely secure as being the foremost purveyor of this style of entertainment on the American stage. Novelties in magic are as essential to success as in the field of the drama, and it is probably to this one fact that Herrmann always presents something new and startling, something that starts the tongues to wagging in the cities he visits, as well as to the marvellous dexterity with which these feats are performed, that much of his phenomenal success is due.

A Whitewashing That Does Not Whitewash.

J. E. Adcox, in his letter of Oct. 21st, also a paid advertisement, made assertions that he cannot prove. I meant every word I said, and can prove every assertion I made. This drops the controversy as far as I am concerned. I have been the sole proprietor of the store of J. E. Adcox & Co. since Dec. 10, 1900, and am doing business at the same old stand. My patrons of the past will please address future orders to Theo. E. Liebs. Remember all work is guaranteed.

Rev. C. H. Mattoon, of Summit.

Today's Oregonian has a very good picture of Rev. C. H. Mattoon, who is well and favorably known in the Baptist circles of The Dalles and in all Oregon. The Oregonian gives the following account of Mr. Mattoon and his life work:

C. H. Mattoon, of Summit, Or., who attended the State Baptist Convention, held at the Second Baptist church, East Side, was one of the most interesting men present in that large gathering of prominent Baptist ministers and educators. He is a pioneer of 1851. Educated in Central College, Ohio, he was thoroughly equipped to become an educator. On arriving in Oregon he engaged in teaching, and was made a member of the first faculty of the McMinnville college, when Professor G. C. Chandler was president of that institution. For several years he continued his connection with that college. He was one of the organizers of the Corvallis Baptist Association, and also the state convention, and was for several years historical secretary of the convention. Through his careful, painstaking efforts the records of the Baptist denomination have been preserved. Mr. Mattoon has been engaged for a number of years in the compilation of data and in writing the history of the Baptist church since 1843. The work will be entitled, "Baptist Annals of the Northwest Coast Between 1843-1890." Mr. Mattoon has completed the manuscript, and it has been revised and approved by prominent Baptists. It will be illustrated with pictures of pioneers. Those who have examined the manuscript say it is a valuable contribution to the history of the state. At the recent convention Mr. Mattoon delivered the historical address, in which he paid a high tribute to the pioneers of the state. Although well along in years, his mind is clear and he is full of activity.
