A new line of children's school hats and caps received at Campbell & Williams' millinery parlors. At reasonable prices. Call and see them. 023-1f The special adjourned council meeting, which was to have been held last night, did not convene, as the special committee on assessment for the Court street sewer had not completed their plan of assessment. The mayor will call a meeting as soon as the plan is ready for the action of the council. The managers of the late carnival have never yet been able to find out exactly where they are financially. A number of bills against the carnival have never yet been presented nor their exact amount ascertained. It is only known that there will be a small balance on the right side of the ledger equal to something between five and fifteen per cent of the subscriptions. Lovic, a Cello Indian, came mighty near losing his life last night at the freight depot. Lovic had filled himself with alcohol, but managed to crawl on the steps of a car in order to beat his way home, when he fell heavily to the ground and was rendered for a time insensible. Nightwatchman Fawcett, thinking the man was dead, hired a truck and had him conveyed to the city jail, where he revived. He was still half drunk at a late hour this forenoon, and his head was one mass of bruises so that the wonder was that he ever came back to life.

James A. Simonson and Ettie Green were united in marriage this morning by Rev. W. Skipworth, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Green, on the Matlock ranch on the ridge between Three and Five Mile creeks. The bridegroom is the son of our fellow-townsmen, Ness Simonson, and is a most worthy young man, and no higher compliment can be paid to the bride than to say that she is every way worthy of her husband. After the marriage the wedding party partook of an elegant luncheon, and the happy couple left on the afternoon train on a short wedding trip to Portland.

Menefee & Parkins have on exhibition a musical instrument or piano attachment, called an Angelus Orchestral, that is well worth seeing and hearing. It is an organ in reality as well as appearance, and when placed in position in front of a piano plays any tune by itself or on the piano or in unison. The music is on thick, perforated paper and is transmitted automatically. The operator merely works an ordinary pair of treadles and manipulates two sets of stops which regulate, with remarkable precision, the time, modulation and volume of sound. The instrument is specially adapted for the use of theaters and for dance music.

Four wagons, loaded with 300 bushels of wheat belonging to Mason Brothers, of Kllickitat county, arrived here this morning from the ranch near Bickleton, which is opposite Arlington and over thirty miles east of Goldendale. The teams started on their journey Monday morning. The wheat was sold to Tom Bolton and delivered at the Bailey Gatzert dock, the owners realizing 51 cents a bushel, but, of course, paying ferrage. This is seven cents a bushel better than the Arlington price last Monday, but even this would hardly half pay the extra cost of transportation were it not that the wagons will go back loaded with supplies purchased here, on which there will be a saving that will make more than wages for all the extra expense of the journey.

As announced yesterday, W. W. Williams, of this city, underwent a critical surgical operation yesterday afternoon as the only possible relief from impending death. The patient was taken to The Dalles Hospital and the operation was performed by Drs. Ferguson and Doane. A serious obstruction of the bowels was discovered which had been superinduced by acute inflammation of the gall bladder and surrounding structures, and an unusually large number of gall stones were removed. The operation was performed successfully and the patient recovered in shorter time than was expected, from the influence of the anesthetic. His symptoms this afternoon hold out some hope of his recovery, although his case is considered by his physicians as most critical.

Will the Doctor Prosecute?

Under the heading, "Wasco Spoke too Quickly," the Portland Telegram says: A man named Frank Yates, who claims Portland as his home for the past nine months, has worked upon the feelings of the officers of Wasco county that County Judge George C. Blakeley, of The Dalles, has written Dr. McKay a letter, asking if Multnomah county is in the habit of sending its poor to other sections of the state for treatment in order to avoid expense. Being a little ruffled in his feelings, because there was some air over the claim that he had sent a Mrs. Bassy to Portland, Judge Blakeley strikes out from the shoulder in his letter. He would undoubtedly score but for the fact that Yates has not been in the county hospital since August, 1899. If he has made such an affidavit, as is stated, he has perjured himself, and Dr. McKay says he is willing to prosecute. Wasco county authorities have been taken in by the man.

The Telegram is unkind in intimating that Judge Blakeley's letter to Dr. McKay was dictated by "ruffled feelings" over the Bassy affair. The letter was based on the affidavit of Yates, and following a somewhat similar charge by Dr. McKay in the Bassy affair, was the most natural thing in the world. We have Yates affidavit before us, signed by his own hand and attested by the judge and it swears to everything stated in Judge Blakeley's letter. It positively affirms that Yates had arrived here from Portland on the Dalles City nine days previously; that for the previous nine months he had been an inmate of the hospital at Portland; that he had been a resident of Portland for the past two years, and that Dr. McKay had purchased for him the ticket that brought him to The Dalles. Dr. McKay says he is willing to prosecute the man for perjury. Very well. The affidavit is here and is at the doctor's service any time he may call for it.

Herrmann the Great.

Herrmann, the Great, the famous magician, will be the attraction at the Vogt tonight. To say that Herrmann is great would be too expressive. He is superb, superlatively great, wonderful. The opportunity of seeing him in his splendid magical entertainment is a rare treat and there is a charm about an entertainment of this kind which attracts everybody. People who do not go to a theater any other time in the year come to see Herrmann. Herrmann is a genius whose distinguishing feature is the completeness of his work in every detail. From his first appearance he is thoroughly en rapport with his audience and everybody feels at home with him. Besides a grand new program of magic, drama, several sensational illusions will undoubtedly be presented here, among them are La Cabinet Esquante, Nash's Astonishing the Wind, the Escape from Sing Sing and the Turkish Signpost. A feature of the program are McWaters

& Tyson and Co., who constitute one of the strongest vaudiville acts ever seen in this country. Their latest skit is entitled "Scenes in the Dressing Room," for which special scenery and effects are carried.

Fine Pointer Bitch and Pups.

"Printer's Wasco Queen," one of the best bred English Pointer bitches on the Pacific coast, together with her litter of pups, has been on exhibition in the show window of Clarke & Falk's drug store for the past few days and has attracted much attention from local sportsmen and fanciers of pure bred dogs. Wasco Queen is out of "Chance H.," winner of many first prizes on bench and sired by "Printer Boy," No. 4315, Vol. 14, A. K. O. S. B., owned by Mr. Will C. Gibbon, of Portland. This breeding alone is sufficient guarantee of the fine qualities of Wasco Queen, as "Printer Boy" is looked upon by sportsmen all over the Pacific coast as a great producer of prize winners.

Wasco Queen won second place on bench at Portland Kennel Club bench show 1901. Queen's pups are sired by Taylor's "Bright," winner of second place Tacoma 1900; second place Seattle 1900, and first place Portland 1900. If blood lines count for anything, it can safely be said that The Dalles can boast of as fine a litter of pure bred English Pointer pups as can be found in the West.

Printer's Wasco Queen is owned by Mr. Henry Zeigler, a local sportsman and fancier.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Frank McFarland, an old-time resident of The Dalles, is registered at the Umattila House.

Clyde Riddell, who has been with the W. E. Campbell surveying party for the past four months, returned yesterday overland from the Wallawa country with the wagons and camping outfit of the party. Clyde expects to leave next Monday for Eugene to resume his studies at the University.

Knights and Ladies of Security.

By order of the council the regular meeting night has been changed to Thursday. W. A. CRAWFORD, Cor. Secy. 023-24
