

Are You Mixed....

on the Suit and Overcoat Question?

It's pretty hard to know what to do, isn't it, when every clothier in town has "the best at the lowest price" and all "give satisfaction," and all beat the tailor to pieces, and save you a half to a third—and all that. It comes down to the question of faith in somebody. Hart, Schaffner & Marx tailor-made clothing, made expressly for PEASE & MAYS, will answer the question. Stylish, durable and best for the money.

The mean temperature at this place for the past month of October was 58.2, the highest by five or six degrees of any month since 1876, which is as far back as the weather records go.

A Portland employment agency advertises in a Pendleton paper for 1000 girls for housework, 75 girls for working in hotels, 50 girls for working in stores, and 50 girls for waiting on tables.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. hope to see all the citizens interested in the public welfare of this community at the M. E. church tonight at 7:30. The Rev. J. M. Alexander will make the address. Everybody will be welcomed.

Another suit was filed in the circuit court this morning against F. N. Jones, court of Sherar's Bridge. This time the plaintiff is W. A. Johnston, The Dalles merchant, who sues for the recovery of $350.86, principally on book account.

A man named Taylor came over from Yakima county yesterday with a load of sorghum, which he disposed of with some difficulty to The Dalles merchants. People here are so used to syrup made of sulphuric acid and a little cheap sweet stuff of some kind for thickening, as to have lost their taste, if they ever had any, for the genuine, old-fashioned juice of the sugar cane.

Another case of diphtheria developed this morning. It is that of Curtis Corum, son of H. T. Corum of Wapinitia, who is living with his grandmother, Mrs. E. Davis, of 112 Fourth street, and has been attending the public school. The residence and inmates were promptly placed under quarantine.

Every merchant should patronize the columns of THE CHRONICLE new year edition just as liberally as he possibly can. Encourage this issue, as it will strive to make the queen city of The Dalles the "Commercial Emporium" of the mighty Columbia. What helps The Dalles helps you; you help us help you.

The Tacoma News charges Walla Walla with having two divorces to every nine marriages, and naturally infers that it must be a quarrelsome community. The Pendleton Tribune denies the charge, and says that Umatilla county, which, inferentially, is a connubial paradise, has one divorce to every two marriages.

One day last week four Hood River "youngsters" were seen fishing in Hood river, near town, and it was noticed that one of them had a string of good-sized trout. Their names and ages are given by the Glacier as follows: O. C. Bartmess, 82; Abner Cox, 80; A. G. Bradford, 76; P. F. Bradford, 74; making the combined ages of the four "youngsters" 312 years.

The best advertising space ever offered Dalles merchants is an ad. in THE CHRONICLE new year edition. The issue will be a souvenir gem and will be kept in the home for ages. Its an ad. that lasts. Remember a copy will be sent to every family in Wasco county and every article will be read from beginning to end. Your patronage will be solicited and everyone should respond.

The amount received in the county clerk's office as sundry fees during the month of October is $555.96. This is nearly $200 more than was received from the same source during any month since Mr. Lake took charge of the office. It is believed to be the largest amount ever received in one month since the office was established. The receipts for the corresponding month last year were $360.

Between 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon John Conboy, the Umatilla House barber, was cut and slashed with a razor in the hands of another barber named Coffey. There had been bad blood between the men. Coffey had worked for Conboy till last night and today Conboy swore out a warrant for Coffey's arrest on the charge of stealing a small sum of money. The men met in a front street saloon and words led to blows and in the scuffle Coffey drew a razor from his pocket and slashed Conboy on the neck and side. How dangerous the weapons are is not known as this writing as a physician has not been called in. Coffee disappeared and nobody seems to know what has become of him.

Regulations issued by the postoffice department in Washington some months ago distinctly stated that the department had no authority to designate any particular kind or kinds of box that should be put up by patrons of rural delivery mail routes in order to receive the benefit of the service. The act of congress, it was said, simply required that a "suitable box" be put up. Many a man can make for himself a "suitable box" that will meet all the requirements of the act. And if he does so, the department has no legal nor other right to force him to buy from a manufacturer whose contrivance is endorsed by officials of the department.

John Franklin Reynolds died in Hood River October 30, 1901. He was one of the oldest citizens of the town, coming here in 1881. He served during the war of the rebellion in an Ohio regiment. July 3, 1876, he was married to Mrs. Alvira E. Warner at Oakland, Calif. In 1879 he came with his family to Cascade Locks, and to Hood River in 1881. He leaves a widow and step daughter, Mrs. G. T. Prather, and two children—Mrs. Frank Davidson and Frank Reynolds, both of Hood River. Deceased was born in Jackson county, Ill., February 29, 1836. He was a schoolmate of the late Gen. John A. Logan. He was a member of the U. B. church. Funeral today, Thursday, at 10 o'clock from the U. B. church.—Glacier.

A correspondent of the Portland Telegram, writing to his paper of the placer diggings of the Gold Hill district, Jackson county, says: "Among the many placer properties of this district, that on Foot Creek, owned by State Senator E. B. Dufur, who took up his residence in Gold Hill early in the summer, is considered one of the most promising. Extensive preparations have been made for the operation of this old-time producer. Heavy hydraulic machinery has been installed, and with the advent of the winter rains work will be begun in earnest, and pushed throughout the season. This is known as 'The Frenchman's Mine,' and was successfully worked for a long time, until the death of the former owner caused a suspension of former operations pending the settlement of the estate. It was purchased last year by Senator Dufur, who will work it scientifically this season."

The Dalles has two well-developed and well-defined cases of smallpox, and what is worse, it has had them for some time, but owing to the creaky notions of the head of the family no physician was called in and the fact of the presence of the pest was only known to the authorities when complaint was made this morning by some of the man's neighbors. The two victims are the wife and child of O. W. Barrow, whose home is on the bluff almost due south of the O. R. & N. freight depot. Complaint was made to Mayor Farley this morning and he promptly sent a physician to the place, who reported the presence of the pest. The house was then placed under quarantine and Barrow was given to understand, in so unmistakable terms, that he must obey the law or suffer the consequences. It may be remembered that there was a case of smallpox in this same family during fair week and Barrow was very mad because the authorities wouldn't raise the quarantine so that he might attend the fair.

Franks of Halloweave.

Halloweave, with its midnight terrors, is over and as far as THE CHRONICLE has been able to learn the pranks of the youngsters were all of the good-natured variety and without and damage to property. Fewer gates than usual were missing this morning, as not a few took the precaution of storing them out of sight, or securing them with chain and padlock. A big, heavy lumber-wagon bed, weighing probably four or five hundred pounds, was deposited nearly half way up the steps leading to the hospital. Beside it were placed two empty cement or limestone barrels. A Union street paterfamilias who stored his front gate and had a cord of wood piled on the street found the wood neatly piled in the open gateway. In the neighborhood of the Mount Hood house a wagon wheel was carried to the top of a telephone pole and laid flat on the telephone wires. Bob Teague's delivery wagon was found near the Mission gardens loaded with gates, among which were two large ones from the wagon entrance to the C. L. Schmidt place.

The night before, every wagon on the Stadelman place was wheeled to a distance and the tails of a couple of horses in the stable were tied fast to a bale of hay. The only instance reported where any damage was done to property was in the case of Nathan Wheelton's two driving horses. Mr. Wheelton himself spread the report that the animal was ruined; but when asked for an explanation his reply was that the beast had lost his gate (gate), a very common occurrence.

The "boys" evidently had lots of fun, and it is much to their credit that there was nothing vicious about it.
