

Are You Mixed... on the Suit and Overcoat Question?

It's pretty hard to know what to do, isn't it, when every clothier in town has "the best at the lowest price" and all "give satisfaction," and all beat the tailor to pieces, and save you a half to a third—and all that. It comes down to the question of faith in somebody. Hart, Schaffner & Marx tailor-made clothing, made expressly for PEASE & MAYS, will answer the question. Stylish, durable and best for the money.

A horrible cutting scrape is reported to have occurred last night at a dance on the old Tom Ward ranch on the Canyon City road, twenty miles or so from town. The victim is Nick Marks, of Pleasant Ridge, and it is reported that he was "cut to the heart" and is not expected to live. His assailant is a young man named Ruben Ford, who works in a livery stable at Dufer. Marks, it is said, resented some supposed insult offered to his wife and another lady by Ford, and attacking Ford with his fists was getting the best of him when Ford drew his pocket knife and stuck it into Mark's breast. These are all the particulars that could be learned up to the hour of going to press.

A good story is told on a capitalist from the red hills of old Polk who has just returned from a protracted visit in Portland. The amusing incident occurred while he was taking in the sights and "doing" the city, as related by a man who was near by and witnessed the incident. The Polk county man was standing on a prominent street corner of the metropolis, gazing at the throngs of people and the wonders about him, when a couple of gentlemen dashed up in an automobile and stopped near by. He gazed at them and the machine for a moment, and then rushed up to them and exclaimed in tones of deepest sympathy, "Gentlemen, did your team get away; I see you have lost the tongue to your rig!"

A Barber on the War Path.

Charles Coffee, the barber, who cut John Conboy, another barber, in a front street saloon yesterday afternoon, was arrested last night by Officer Alliekey, but not for the cutting. Before the scrap in the saloon Conboy had filed a complaint in justice Brownhill's court, charging Coffee with the larceny of 75 cents. It was for this Coffee was arrested and his trial fixed at 10 o'clock this morning. Coffee appeared promptly with his attorney, Douglas Dufer, as did District Attorney Menefee and some witnesses, but Conboy failed to appear and put in the claim that he was sick from the cutting of yesterday afternoon and had made an appointment with a physician to come at noon and dress his wounds. The court awaited Conboy's arrival until nearly noon, when an agreement was reached that the case be postponed till 2 p. m. Monday, and that meanwhile Coffee be permitted to go on his own recognizances.

Coffee says he is prepared to prove that the six bits which he is charged with having stolen was the amount of percentage coming to him at the time he closed the shop last Thursday night. He had been working for Conboy and had been left alone in the shop for the evening. When closing for the night he had placed a check in the drawer for the amount taken, with his name on it, had locked the drawer and left the key where Conboy would find it. Coffee says he didn't even take all that was coming to him.

The scrap in the saloon will hardly be discussed in the courts if Coffee's version of it is true, unless Conboy's wounds should prove serious. Coffee says he was standing at the bar of the saloon when Conboy entered and approaching him asked, "Why did you quit working for me?" and at the same moment struck him a violent blow on the right temple, then threw one of his arms around Coffee's neck and commenced punching him in the face. It was while in this position that Coffee pulled out a razor and began to use it on Conboy's side and neck. After Coffee had surrendered the razor to the bar keeper Conboy threw him against a glass door, breaking the glass and inflicting a deep cut on Coffee's scalp. Such is Coffee's story and he has the marks to show that he must have been in some kind of a pretty bad scrap.

Conboy's wounds were dressed yesterday afternoon by Dr. Giesendorfer. They are not serious.
