

FIGURES FOR COMPARISON.

Elections will be held in a dozen states today, but, excepting a few localities, there has been an unusual lack of interest during the campaigns...

There has been an unusually active canvass in New York, and each side claims the victory. Van Wyck, the Tammany candidate for mayor, was elected in 1897 by a plurality of 82,457.

Ohio gave McKinley a plurality of 69,036, while Governor Nash was elected the year before by a plurality of 49,923.

Maryland last year gave McKinley a plurality of 13,941. The last legislature had a democratic majority of 43.

Massachusetts in 1900 gave McKinley a plurality of 81,869, and Governor Crane, republican, a plurality of 97,976.

Kentucky gave Bryan last year a plurality of 7,975, while Governor Peckham, democrat, was elected by a plurality of 3518.

McKinley's plurality in Iowa in 1900 was 98,353, while Governor Shaw was elected the year before by a plurality of 56,217.

New Jersey gave McKinley a plurality of 56,899 and Nebraska a plurality of 7822, but Dietrich was elected governor of Nebraska in the same year by a plurality of only 861.

In Kansas, McKinley's plurality was 23,354, while Governor Stanley, republican, was elected by a plurality of 17,099.

Bryan carried Colorado by 29,661 plurality and the fusionists elected Orman governor by a plurality of 28,750.

The total vote in all the states holding elections this year will, no doubt, fall considerably below that cast in the presidential election.
