Gov. T. T. Geer has appointed Wm. O. Minor, of Heppner, Frank Brown, of North Yamhill, and C. M. Cartwright, of Hay Creek, delegates-at-large to the National Live Stock Association, which meets in Chicago on December 23, for a four days' session.

Jim Welch was arrested by Marshal Champlin yesterday afternoon and conveyed to the calaboose in an express wagon in a state of glorious paralysis. At the request of Judge Doherty Welch, this morning, contributed $5 to the running expenses of the city.

Don't forget when you are looking for real estate that Hudson & Brownhill and Dad Butts are still in the swim. If you have a good farm near town to trade for a fine home in the city, they can accommodate you, or will sell you a good city or farm home cheap and on easy terms. For further particulars call on or write to Hudson & Brownhill.

State Representative George Miller, of Arlington, who was a rabid Corbettite—after the republicans of this district had voted for him a year and a half ago, and anything-to-catch-votes before election—spent last night in the city, repairing his fence, it is presumed, as it is well understood that he wants to go back to the legislature. Brother George had better suppress his ambition. The republicans of Oregon have hung out the sign in big capitals: "No Simon-Corbettite need apply for anything."

The district court was occupied all this forenoon with the case of E. E. Davis, who was accused by the state of assault with a deadly weapon on the person of Ben Wilson, of the East End. It was proved that Davis had entered Wilson's saloon, and without any pro-provocation had snapped a pistol in Wilson's face. The gun, fortunately, didn't go off, else Mr. Wilson would almost certainly have been killed. The jury found Davis guilty as charged in the indictment.

A Yankee invention is about to knock out all the telephone girls. Each person does his own switching and no one hears what he says to another. If the time is busy a buzzer prevents him from saying a word or understanding what is said. The system has been tried in New Bedford and works to a charm. There is but one person at the central station and she can walk around the block at any time and put a stop to the use of the 'phones. In that city the new invention has already cut down the prices of the 'phones to users fifty per cent.

According to the records of the United States land office at this place, Wasco county has still 512,408 acres of land that is open to settlement. Of this 333,348 acres are surveyed and 179,060 unsurveyed. The total area of the county is 1,761,000 acres. Of this 23,530 acres have been reserved and 1,235,062 acres appropriated under the various land laws. Between January 1st and November 1st of the present year 280 new homestead entries have been made in the county, covering 44,000 acres of land, while proofs have been made on 65 homesteads, 18 commuted homesteads, 4 timber cultures, 9 cash entries and 16 timber and stone entries.

The annual meeting of the commissioners of the Second Eastern Oregon District Agricultural Society was held here on the 12th instant when President Robert Mays, Vice-president Duke and Treasurer J. S. Fish were re-elected, and C. E. Bayard was elected secretary and N. H. Gates assistant secretary. The time for holding the next district fair was not decided upon, for the reason that there is a reasonable expectation that the state fair at Salem will, next year, change the time of its annual meeting and that a general effort will be made to have a regular circuit, commencing with Salem and followed in due succession by Portland, The Dalles, Pendleton, La Grande and Baker City.

Carl Peetz, of Sherman county, celebrated his 64th birthday last Tuesday. Referring to the event the More correspondent of the Shaniko Leader says: "Mr. Peetz, who is one of our most respected citizens, is a native of Schleswig-Holstein, and fought in the ten years' war between the Danes and Germans for the possession of that principality. The Germans were victorious, therefore our island Carl passed under their rule. Not relishing the change of government Mr. Peetz left the old country some thirty-five years ago. Of this period he spent some years fighting grasshoppers in Minnesota, thirteen years spent with rail in the Pagan Road country, bringing up German peas and in Sherman county. Since then he has turned extensively and made a competency for his declining years, buying a snug home in Moro, where he will probably celebrate several more birthdays before he goes to join the great majority. Few there are who have made more friends and less enemies than our good German friend, Carl Peetz."

River pirates at Portland came near murdering the watchman of the steamer Regulator Thursday morning. The victim of their assault, a brother of Captain W. J. Johnson, had just come from Canada and had been working on the Regulator only two days. Shortly after he had gone into the hold to start fires in the engine he was confronted by two men, one of whom leveled a revolver at him and told him to hold up his hands. Johnson immediately complied with the demand, but did not raise his hands sufficiently high to satisfy the robber. "Get them up higher, there," came a second command, and as Johnson was about to stretch out his arms at full length a pistol shot rang out. Feeling that he was shot Johnson dropped to the floor. At the same time the two men turned and ran. The shot awakened a number of the crew sleeping on the deck, but before a search could be instituted the robbers had made their escape. Johnson believes he would be able to identify his assailants on sight. His wound is not dangerous, although it will prove painful for some time. He believes that the man who did the shooting did not intend to shoot, but got excited and accidentally pulled the trigger too hard.
