WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Professor Sandvig's weekly dancing class will this week be held on Tuesday night instead of Wednesday.

The Knights and Ladies of Security will give a dance in Fraternity hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 21st.

Lost—Last night, two ten dollar bills folded together. A liberal reward will be paid for their return to the Maloney saloon. n18-2t

The Dalles football team defeated Wasco Saturday afternoon by a score of 18 to 0. At no time was the goal of the visitors in danger.

This is the last day for paying the Court street sewer assessment. Tomorrow all unpaid assessments will be delinquent and five per cent will be added to the tax.

The Elite barber shop is running four chairs thus ensuring patrons a speedy and satisfactory service. All tools sterilized and only steam laundried towels used. n18-1m

John Doe, a stranger here, was arrested yesterday by the marshal for drunkenness. He put up $5 for his appearance before Recorder Doherty this morning, but failing to appear the money was forfeited to the city.

Mr. W. W. Williams, who was operated upon at The Dalles Hospital about three weeks ago, continues steadily to improve and it is hoped will soon be able to leave his bed. The street rumor of a few days ago that Mr. Williams was dangerously ill hadn't a word of truth in it.

The Elite baths and barber shop, owned by Mr. Crawford, has undergone repairs that makes it one of the most up-to-date shops on the Pacific coast. Four chairs, four first-class artists, and all tools sterilized. We would advise Mr. Crawford to change the name of his shop to Antiseptic. n18-1t

Willie Edward, the little nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Carnaby, learned yesterday by sad experience that a cigar cutter will cut other things beside the ends of cigars. Willie is a very smart lad and naturally wants to know everything that is worth knowing. While examining a cigar cutter yesterday in the candy store next to the American market the boy put his finger in the little hole and was surprised to have the fleshy tip of that member snapped off in less than a jiffy. The cut extends to the middle of the finger nail and just barely missed the bone.

Mrs. N. G. Worden, who was brought here from Sherman county last week by Dr. Beers and underwent a critical surgical operation, died yesterday and will be buried from the Salvation Army headquarters tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Worden was about 25 years of age. She leaves a husband and one child of 6 years.

Beginning today, Monday, November 18th, all paid local reading advertisements in THE CHRONICLE will be inserted only once among purely news matter. After that they will be transferred to a column headed "Business Locals." There will be no exception to this rule. The news columns must be reserved as news columns.

In the county court last week the petition of M. H. Cook and others for a county road in the town of Hood River was denied for want of jurisdiction, it appearing that the entire road as prayed for is situated within the corporate limits of the town of Hood River. The court appointed Frank Senfert supervisor of road district No. 18, vice John Dairyple, deceased.

Irvin Julien was arrested last night on the charge of having threatened to kill his divorced wife, and proceedings were begun this morning to have him placed under bonds to keep the peace. On the promise of Julien that he would leave town and stay away proceedings were suspended and he will be kept in jail till trial time and put on board by Constable Jackson, who is charged with seeing him off. The constable spent the afternoon gathering Julien's moveable effects together and collecting enough money to buy him a railroad ticket.

In the circuit court this morning the jury was discharged for the term, after Judge Bradehaw had pronounced the following sentences: Ike Moore, for larceny of brass from the O. R. & N. Co., one year in the penitentiary; Frank Reed, assault with a dangerous weapon, one year; R. E. Davis, assault with a dangerous weapon, one year; Gus Erickson and George Weber, larceny of clothing, two years each. In the case of Ike Moore, Judge Bennett Saturday night argued a motion for a new trial. The motion was denied this morning and an appeal was taken to the supreme court. An effort will be made to have Moore released on bail.

Last Wednesday and Friday afternoons Meedames E. M. Williams and H. W. French entertained a large number of their friends at the residence of Mrs. Williams. The handsome home was beautifully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, most artistically arranged in Indian baskets, hung on the walls, and large brass vases. Progressive hearts was the amusement of Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. W. H. Moody and Mrs. H. Glenn won the prizes. The Misses Dawson, Marden and Carey assisted in the entertainment of the guests. Meedames Williams and French were assisted Friday by the Misses Cushing, Louise Rich and Virgil Cooper. These ladies will entertain this evening in honor of Miss Florence Sampson. They will be assisted by the Misses Virginia Hilgen, Elizabeth Schooling, Clara Sampson and Edna Glenn.

This afternoon there were just twelve houses in the city under quarantine for diphtheria, and no more. About half of these are new cases that have occurred in the last three or four days. The rest are old cases in which the patients are out of danger. The physicians assure the CHRONICLE that nearly all have the disease in a mild form. This record is bad enough, we are sorry to say, but the public may rest assured that these twelve cases are all that are known to the physicians and the city authorities. There will be a special meeting of the city council tonight to take action on the collection of the delinquent sewer tax and there is hardly a doubt that something will be done to provide for the more rigid enforcement of the quarantine laws and the punishment of those who violate them.

The Chinese-American play, "King of the Opium Ring," which will be the attraction at the Vogt Wednesday, Nov. 20th, comes with the stamp of approval of New York's press and public, before whom it was presented for an engagement of six weeks, testing the capacity of the immense auditorium of the Academy of Music at each performance. Charles E. Blaney and Charles A. Taylor, authors of the play, dwell with the dramatic race for some time, and tell an interesting and thrilling story of life in San Francisco's famous Chinatown. The opium ring was the most picturesque grouping of dramatic characters ever known in American history. A mysterious circle bound by oath in a ring of defiance, for twenty years a reign of terror to the custom houses of the Pacific coast. Its king was a Jeky! and Hyde character, known as King George among the Chinese—a monarch who defied American laws and corrupted politics behind a mask of gold gained through smuggling—a modern Monte Cristo worshipped as Maumun in society—a gambler and knave who wielded the scepter among the Chinese and the lowly. The story is one of sunshine and shadow of real life, graphically picturing in four dramatic acts scenes and incidents embodying comedy, heart interest and stirring tragedy, with intensely original plot and theme. The production is claimed to be one of stupendously marvelous grandeur, presenting a kaleidoscope view of oriental magnificence.

St. Martin's Springs.

The Shastana County Pioneer says the St. Martin hot springs, under the present management, is creating a feeling that may end in their being condemned and taken by the government, as were the hot springs of Arkansas, which are still owned by the government. These springs were conducted without due regard to the accommodations of the public, and even without common courtesy, until the citizens of Little Rock circulated a petition, which finally contained a hundred thousand names, and which so influenced congress that this body made a government property of them, leasing them out and furnishing free baths to those of the afflicted too poor to pay for their use, paying the original owners, however, a liberal sum for the use of them.

The St. Martin's springs are phenomenal for their curative properties, are fully the rival of those of Arkansas and by many are considered superior. No case is known of rheumatism or venereal disease which was not promptly cured at the Shastana county springs.

A health resort and curative waters belongs to the public, nor can the public be rightly excluded from the use of them any more than a railroad company could exclude passengers from their cars.

We hope the present owners will so manage the springs that no necessity for taking them will arise, yet considering the populous centers of Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane, to say nothing of Vancouver, The Dalles, Walla Walla and Pendleton and other towns, whose citizens need them, it would be improbable that the delegations in congress from these two states would not demand better sanitary regulations and accommodations than are at present furnished.

Wedding Bells.

Friday evening, Nov. 16th, at 8:30 o'clock, at the bride's home in this city, Mrs. Marie Periano to Mr. W. H. Christians, Rev. D. V. Poling performing the ceremony. This was a very pretty home wedding, and was witnessed only by the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The best wishes of the entire community will follow Mr. and Mrs. Christians wherever their lot may be cast.

The groom is a man of fine parts, and is greatly respected by all. He has been in the employ of the O. R. & N. Co. for twenty years, and is one of their most trusted engineers. Billy Christians is a man among men, and richly deserves the prize he has won in the person of the bride.

Mrs. Christians has been a resident of The Dalles over six years, and has won the admiration of all in her circle of influence. She has built up a nice business in the millinery line, and her friends are legion. She possesses those solid accomplishments which render one a useful member of society, and is entitled in every way to the high opinion entertained for her by the people of The Dalles.

A more deserving couple would be hard to find, and THE CHRONICLE heartily extends its best wishes.

Married.

On Sunday, Nov. 17th, at the home of the bride, about four miles below this city, Miss Hattie E. Halvor to Mr. George Mann. A number of the friends of the bride and groom were present. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a bountiful repast.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann are very favorably known in this community, Mr. Mann being a fireman in the employ of the O. R. & N. Rev. D. V. Poling, of the Congregational church, performed the ceremony.

PERSONAL MENTION.
