J. H. Hays, of the California Chop House was more than pleased today to learn that his father and mother are on the way here from Delphi and may arrive tomorrow. They are accompanied by Mr. Hays' little daughter who has been living with her grandparents since the death of her mother. Mr. Hays has had a furnished house awaiting his parents and child for the past three months.

It is stated that "The Absent-Minded Beggar," by Rudyard Kipling, has realized in various ways about $485,000 for the families of the British soldiers who have fought in South Africa, or somewhat more than $10,000 for each line.—December Ladies' Home Journal.

Yesterday the marshal found on the street in a state of maddening intoxication a young fellow who gave his name as George Dean. When brought to the calaboose Dean was noted to have $110 on his person. This morning he was fined $3 and given back $107 when he took the first train for Portland.

Silver is now selling at the lowest price which it has reached in many years. Trading closed Saturday in New York with silver selling at 66½ cents. That was a decline of a quarter of a cent during the week, and it was a decline of 6.8 cents, or practically ten per cent in the price of the metal since the first of the year.

J. A. Renshaw, of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, came up last night from Portland with two boys, for whom he has secured homes, one with F. M. Warner, of Five Mile, and the other with Mrs. M. D. Wheeler, of Wamic. Mr. Renshaw will remain here till after Thanksgiving and receive any donations that may be given him for the society.

All Modern Woodmen and their lady relatives are requested to be present at 7:30 sharp.

No new cases of diphtheria have been reported for the past two days. The health officer this morning took down the green flag from the residences of Messrs. Patterson and Dawson. About fifteen houses remain under quarantine, and from none of them has any serious case been reported. The prospect now is that with the radical change of weather of the last few days the town will soon be rid of the pest.

The Mamie Helen Flynn Musical and Literary Recital will be given in the Vogt Thursday, Dec. 5th, and promises to be the event of the season. Miss Flynn has appeared before critical audiences and has met with the highest approbation and criticisms from the leading journals of the West. Her interpretation and execution of the most difficult classical music and her Shakespearean readings have won for her an enviable place among young artists.

Men who have just returned to Prineville from the southern part of Oregon report several bands of Warm Spring Indians camped at various watering places on the "desert," and that they are slaying deer by the score. One band of 100 are camped at Button Springs, the half-way station between Silver Lake and Prineville. The snow in the mountains has driven the deer to the lower hills and desert country, and it is little or no trouble to locate large bands of them.

A charming young woman of this city, whose name need not be mentioned for the world, entered Gumbert's cigar store the other afternoon to buy a magazine or something. While waiting for her purchase to be done up she admiringly placed her hand on the handsome nickel-plated cigar cutter and, not knowing what the little hatched holes in it were used for, inserted a finger in one of them, when, presto! the top was cut off in less than a wink. If you know a young matron who carries her dexter finger in a silly place ask no questions. You may tempt her to say she cut it while peeling potatoes for hubby's dinner.

Wallace Wilson, of the Baldwin restaurant, was held up last night by three thugs and robbed of $2.10, all the money he had on his person. The robbery was committed in the yard back of the stockmen's saloon on First street. Mr. Wilson was returning to the restaurant from a house across the alley from the saloon and, to avoid the mud in the alley, intended to pass through the saloon to First street. He carried a heavy tray on his right hand which was elevated to a level with his head. It was dark, and just as he entered the open gate of the little yard a man grabbed his left arm and another his right, holding them like a vise, while a third went through his pockets. The only money Mr. Wilson had on him was in a small, cheap purse. This they took out, and placing the empty purse in Mr. Wilson's hand, without the utterance of a word, vanished into the night. It was too dark for Mr. Wilson to get any recognition of his assailants that would aid in their identification. All that Mr. Wilson knows of their appearance was that one of them wore some kind of a yellow coat.

A Pair of Human Brutes.

A case of alleged cruelty to children has been under the consideration of Mayor Farley and Judge Hinkley for three or four days, and Tax Commissioner was asked to say nothing about it until the facts were ascertained. There, as discovered finally yesterday, were in part as follows: The parties complained of live in the thinly-settled part of the city, on the hill south of Judge Bennett's residence. The family consists of husband and wife and two boys, aged 5 and 7 years. The husband is a carpenter and is said to be an industrious man. The woman is his second wife and the step-mother of the children. It has been fully ascertained that for a considerable time the children have been treated with brutal cruelty. Their teacher in the public schools noticed that their faces and hands were usually covered with bruises, cuts and bleeding sores.

On the teacher's complaint a personal examination of the children was made yesterday by Dr. Doane, at the request of Professor Landers. When their scanty clothing was stripped off their little, wizened bodies the elder boy, especially, was found covered with thick welts and cuts similar to those on the exposed parts of their heads and necks. The mother accounted for the wounds by saying that the boys had fallen off a fence. The father, however, owned that the children had been beaten, but accused the brutality on the ground that they were ungovernable.

It was found that the children were in the habit of complaining to their schoolmates that they didn't get enough to eat, and once, if not oftener, their companions made up a little purse and bought them apples at C. L. Phillips' store. Yesterday the poor things were seen eating raw potatoes that they had picked up somewhere on the street. The poor things have the shriveled, old-manish look of children that are starved.

When the father was confronted with the brutality of himself and his inhuman wife and threatened with punishment he promised that if let alone the children would have better treatment for the future. The authorities were disposed to give the brutes another trial, but after the probation was half determined on it was learned through an agent of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society that the couple were arrested in Baker City about last August, charged with similar brutality to two elder children. The children were promptly taken from them and committed to the society and have since been placed in comfortable homes.

What will be done with these brutes, say you? That Tax Commissioner knows not, but it does know that somebody vows before High Heaven that before sleep seals his eyelids tonight he will swear out the necessary papers to have the little ones taken from their inhuman parents forever.
