

ATE, RRANK AND WERE MERRY.

Concluded from third page.

be understood that The Dalles orchestra furnished some fine music; that the male quartet, composed of D. V. Poling, J. S. Landers, H. Northrup and R. G. Davenport, was down for two numbers, "Hard Times" being the first, and it had to respond to an encore each time before the clamor ceased; and all the time the champagne flowed.

A toast was given during the evening to the French brothers, we know not just where in the program, and there was an expression of universal regret that sickness prevented any of them attending. Scarcely a speech was made that did not in some way bring their names out, and each mention of them was followed by expressions of esteem. The toastmaster also spoke of the communication received by him from the French brothers—J. W., D. M., Smith and Marsh—expressing their deep regret that illness prevented their attending, and assuring him of their appreciation of the occasion and the spirit which prompted it.

It was undoubtedly the biggest gathering of representative business men ever held in The Dalles. An air of perfect good-fellowship prevailed, and we believe that the drawing together of our business people in the bonds of close comradeship will be of as much benefit to the city as even the introduction of the electric power and the establishing of the 750 barrel mill.

Mayor Farley received many expressions of regret, and among them was the following letter from Hon. F. P. Mays, (who is now in Southern California for the purpose of benefiting his health), which failed to reach here in time to be read at the banquet:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 26, 1901.

MR. TOASTMASTER:—I am greatly pleased to have been asked to join you in celebrating the completion of certain improvements which will doubtless bring others of like importance in their train.

I regret not being personally present to meet and greet you, my old neighbors of The Dalles, for wherever I may reside you are yet and will ever be to me neighbors and your town my home. I take much pleasure in everything which goes to the material advancement of your local interests as a people and as a town. I remember to have had quite as much satisfaction last winter in preparing and securing the passage in the Oregon senate of Senate Joint Memorial No. 9, (asking congress to open to navigation the Columbia river from The Dalles to Celilo as I got from aiding any Multnomah county legislation. I have seen The Dalles grow from a little village of 500 to its present population of nearly 6000. The signs now in the business zodiac lead many to hope—yes, to fully believe that within the next few years a further similar increase will occur, as a logical result of the business energy and active push which now seems to be on you.

Your banquet is but a very slight recognition of the benefits to your town which have come in the past and are now coming from the energies of those who made the D. P. & A. N. Co., the scouring and flouring mills, and other enterprises, and those which are yet to come along with these, and the latest and probably greatest, The Dalles Milling & Power Co.

Although in San Francisco I could not deny myself the pleasure of sending you this brief letter, and of extending to you the season's compliments and wishing you and "The New Dalles" continued and additional prosperity.

Sincerely yours,
F. P. MAYS.

At 12:30, to the lively music of the orchestra, the crowd dispersed, each delighted with the evening's entertainment.

"NOTHING TO IT."

The Heppner Giants Defeated By The Dalles Infants By a Decisive Score of 17 to 0.

The football season was closed at The Dalles yesterday for the championship honors for Eastern Oregon, The Dalles Infants defeating the Heppner Giants by a score of 17 to 0. At no time in the game was the home goal in danger, and but once were the visitors near the territory of The Dalles team, and that was shortly after the game began when by punting, the Heppner team got the ball near the middle of the field, where it remained but a short time. In fact, the Heppner team never made their yardage once, played slow, indecisive ball, and, in short, were never in it for a minute. Even the Heppner coach, the mighty Eastland, could not stay the tide.

The Dalles boys were in condition, ready for the game of their lives, and played fast, fierce, snappy, though goal-matured, ball from start to finish. The sensational run of sixty yards by Elton, tackle, the sure ground-gaining of Williams, Cooper and Bartell and especially the splendid managing of Bartell, and steady, effective work of the line, ends and quarter, were features of the game. In fact, the Dalles team had the college spirit and training, and they owe much to the great assistance given by the home boys who came from their college duties to help do battle on the gridiron.

The Dalles secured choice of goals, taking the east, the Heppner team getting the ball. The kick off was poor and the interference worse, and ended in Heppner bringing the ball well down the field. For a few minutes the playing was close and exciting, but after that it was all one way. By a succession of fast and furious line bucks, the ball was driven through the shattered ranks of the Giants until the clever halfback, Williams, went through for a touchdown. Captain Cooper kicked goal. The next play had hardly begun from the center of the field when Elton tore through on a tackle play and nearly scored a touchdown before being tackled by Ball, one of Heppner's first ends. Only the fact of Elton having a damaged knee prevented him from going over the goal. At this stage of the game, great excitement prevailed and it was with difficulty that signals could be heard by the players, but that did not prevent Bartell from going over the second touchdown of the first half, Cooper kicking goals. This made the score stand 12 to 0 at the close of the first half.

Near the close of the second half, Captain Clark, of the Heppner team, was severely wrenched in the hip necessitating his retirement from the game, Charles O'Neil taking his place. Williams made a touchdown in good season but Cooper failed in the goal kick, closing one of the best games that The Dalles boys ever played by a score of 17 to 0.

The time of the first half was 30 minutes and the last half, 25 minutes.

The Dalles people and the promoters of football, who took the financial end of the matter in hand, are ever thankful for the coaching, assistance and good work of our college boys. One of our best line men, Porter Frizzell, did not play but his services are appreciated just the same. The crowd was a most enthusiastic one, but not nearly so large as was expected. It is to some extent discouraging to advocates of athletics and to the best interests of the rising generation that more people in The Dalles do not encourage good, clean, healthy, manly sport. This has a decisive bearing upon the future of athletics in The Dalles, which is quite progressive and public spirited in most things. The promoters of the park have tried holiday, week day and Sunday games, and know how the financial end of the string has worked. They will do well to meet expenses. In fact, cannot do so without selling their fence.

The Dalles people as well as the young athletes of our town enjoyed the visit of the Heppner football team and their friends very much, and all the visitors express themselves as having had a pleasant time. They all agree that the game was clean and that they lost of their own fault. The boys go to Pendleton to meet the All Pendleton team on New Year's day, when it is hoped they will have better luck. Here's to Heppner! The line-up was as follows:

| Heppner. | The Dalles. |

Officials: Referee and umpire alternately Grant Mays and Percy Garrigan, the latter manager of the Heppner Giants; line men, Charles Heppner and Garfield Crawford; timekeepers, Chas. Burgett and Fred Hart.

Quite an excitement was caused toward the end of the football game yesterday when during a line buck, a player rushed through the line striking the captain of the Heppner team, Arthur Clarke, in a manner that caused a severe wrench to the left hip, straining the ligaments and causing intense pain, the more so from the fact that in the desire to determine the extent of his injuries the boys moved the leg about, every movement causing the sufferer to cry out, and giving the spectators the impression that the injury was more severe than it really was. A physician was called and Arthur was taken to the Umatilla House. As soon as he was in a position to keep the injured member quiet, the pain diminished. Although it will be some time before he entirely recovers, he was limping about the streets this morning and left on the noon train for a visit to his mother in Hood River.

Tomorrow is the last day of A. M. Williams & Co's great December clothing sale. Profit by this information.
