The bloodiest fighting occurred in the northern sector, where for a month the Greeks had made steady advances on a 60 mile front.

The Turks, gradually acquiring ammunition and other supplies by way of the Black Sea ports, meanwhile prepared their counter-offensive.

MINING CONGRESS OPENS IN PORTLAND

AUDITORIUM ONE OF RICHEST TREASURE HOUSES IN COUNTRY TODAY.

By United Press
PORTLAND, OR., April 5.—Hundreds of mining men from the Pacific Northwest are in Portland today for the opening of the third international mining convention here. The session will continue until Saturday.

The municipal auditorium, convention headquarters, is said to be one of the richest treasure-houses in the country today. Special police were everywhere, while detectives mingled with the crowd keeping a watchful eye on the priceless exhibits. Among the most attractive displays are two of gold ore from Josephine county, Oregon, valued at $10,000 each, and one from Baker county, valued at $15,000.

Delegates were welcomed today by Governor Ben W. Olcott and Mayor George L. Baker.

SHAPELY AMERICAN ANKLES PLEASE LONDON

By Lloyd Allen

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON. (By mail.)—Slender ankles, after all, are the best diplomacy. And the American chorus girls, who have been imported here, are cementing Anglo-American understanding in a way undreamed of by ambassadors and such.

In the "League of Nations," C. B. Cochran's latest theatrical production, there are 10 of them; and Englishmen, who as a rule are not lavish in their use of superlatives, describe them as the "willowiest, lissomest, and gracefulest girls," who ever glided across London's "boards." Not only English men, but English women, too, are loud in their expressions of admiration for the American type of womanhood, which differs quite a lot from the English product. Cochran has been particularly happy in his selection, and his American girls, conforming as they do to the "Kirschner" type,—tall and slender—make a striking contrast to the "petite" English girls who are part and parcel of the same show.

While American chorus girls, without exception, are tremendously popular with audiences—they cause the management one or two extra grey hairs on account of their unpunctuality during rehearsals. From inquiries made of various theatrical managers who have fair young Americans under their wing, it would seem that usually they come to England with a glorious anticipation of being thoroughly spoiled. Hence, they begin by turning up late for rehearsals and then proceed to overstay their lunch hour. At the first managerial reprimand they raise supercilious eyebrows; at the second they are prettily penitent; but at the third they begin to realize that the manager means business, and reform accordingly.

However, the conquest of London has not been left to American chorus girls only. Those "stars" which America has spared from her own great armament are shining brightly over here.

The Dolly Sisters and the Trix Sisters are making a hit, while the two biggest successes of the past season were "Paddy the Next Best Thing" in

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is cataract. Cataract being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Cataract Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. which Edith Day scored such a prolonged triumph.

There is some flavor about American talent which never fails to please the English palate. The Prince of Wales is certainly not immune from the American lure. At a recent dance of Lady Lavery the Trix Sisters were sorted out by the Prince of Wales for special attention. He danced with one of them and insisted on hearing excerpts from their "act"—and went on applauding and pleading for more until they had finished the third number.

Another complete and individual American success was scored by Mary Nash at the Oxford theater, in "The Man Who Came Back."

In London's smartest ballrooms, the American demonstrator is to the fore. At the Savoy hotel, Leonora Hughes with her partner, Maurice, head the huge ballroom spellbound each night — and many Londoners went just to watch them dance, without any intention of joining in the whirling throng themselves.

Elsie Janis makes a musical complaint, entitled "It's All Wrong," at the Queen's Theatre—and while this finds little favor with Americans in the audience, Londoners clap and endorse and pronounce it "Fine!"

Managers are at a loss to know whether it's the American "ankles or the accent" that so completely wins London's favor, but the favor is won beyond a doubt, and those programs announcing an "English and American company" are practically certain to play to full houses.

BRITISH COAL

and bring disaster to owners and workmen alike.

"It also will bring disaster to every industry dependent upon coal as well as the nation which exports it.

"Even if the pooling plan were adopted, it would be necessary to reduce wages. So what the men really are demanding is a subsidy to maintain pay at the present high levels.

They want other workmen taxed more in order to retain their scale."

Williams, as president of the Coal Mining association, will have a voice in the final negotiations.

EDENBURGH, April 5.—First violence in the British coal strike occurred here today.

Five hundred miners overpowered a police guard at the Harthill collieries, wrecked the plant and drove away employes endeavoring to pump water from the pits.

LONDON, April 5.—Britain's threatened general strike was deferred today when transport workers adjourned without taking a vote.

Called to decide what action to take in supporting the mine strike, the transport workers considered only routine reports.

They are expected to take joint action with the railway union whose executives meet here tomorrow.

By Ed. L. Keen

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, April 5.—Great Britain today was thrown back into war times by the coal strike.

To combat what was accepted as a threatened industrial revolution, government agencies were empowered to assume control of mines, food manufacture and shipping, street car lines, canals, harbor, export trade, lighting and all means of transportation.

Some of these were to be taken over today.

Authorities were prepared to introduce the most severe restrictions since the armistice.

To carry out its industrial program the government already has begun extensive military and naval movements. The navy recalled all men from furloughs and stopped leaves. Reports were distributed in such way as to give the government the greatest aid, both in carrying on industries and in preserving peace.

Transport workers, commonly recognized as the most radical labor group, met today to decide on ways of supporting the miners.

The transporters went into session early today with President Harry Gosling in the chair.

Railway men meet tomorrow. The two sessions will determine definitely whether Britain faces a near revolution. The three greatest groups form the triple alliance, comprising more than 3,000,000 men and easily the most powerful labor army in the country.

The government's promptness in meeting the challenge was disturbing to transport and railway leaders. As a result it was indicated today they may urge delaying the strike vote until negotiations have been resumed between miners, colliery owners and government agents.

Railway and transport workers were anxious to act, however, to forestall any movement to cut their wages. They believed any reduction made for miners will be applied to them next.

The entire alliance feared owners of the industries were intent on slashing wages to the "starvation point."

Unemployment figures leaped by the thousands. Thirty thousand tannery workers joined the idle today.

Two hundred thousand employed in food factories were laid off, 60,000 motor workers, 326,000 brewery employes and thousands in lesser trades swelled the list.
