Schools Insured for $270,700—If every school house in school district No. 12 should suddenly burn to the ground, the city would have $270,700 with which to rebuild, according to insurance statistics compiled by Miss Prudence Patterson, city school board secretary. Of this sum, $143,500 is carried in insurance upon the high school, fixtures and general equipment.

Dalles Dip Initiated—The Dalles dip was initiated for the 1921 season yesterday afternoon, when a number of local young men decided that the season had progressed sufficiently to permit summer bathing. Chamber To Elect Officers—Election of officers of The Dalles-Wasco County Chamber of Commerce will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the chamber of commerce building. At this time, a president, two vice-presidents, a secretary and a treasurer will be chosen to head the city-county organization. All directors will have a vote. Cooperators Sign 800 Acres—With a total of 1200 acres of fruit and produce land necessary before the Oregon Growers' association will establish a branch organization in Wasco county, local fruit and produce men have already signed up 800 acres and expect to have the remaining 400 acres within a few days, County Agent E. R. Jackman said this morning. It is estimated that 90 percent of the fruit and produce growers in the Mill creek district have signed up their land in the cooperative organization.

Community Luncheon, Enjoyable—One of the most delightful and enthusiastic meetings occurred at the noon luncheon at the Y. W. C. A. rooms Thursday at 12:15 o'clock. The topic of the day was: "The Value of Y. W. C. A. Activities to the Community." Short, to the point talks were delivered by Mrs. Carlton P. Williams, Mrs. Lulu D. Crandall, L. Barnum, Mrs. E. M. Williams, John L. Bogue, Miss Helen Fair and Miss French. A short community sing preceded the talks. It was voted to perpetuate these "booster" meetings and each one present agreed to attend the next luncheon and bring a friend. The next meeting will be held Thursday noon, April 21.

ELY MANSION ON LONG ISLAND MAY BE SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

The summer White House will be in the beautiful Shinnecock Hills on Long Island, according to late information. Dr. Albert H. Ely, who accompanied President Harding on his Florida trip before inauguration, has offered his beautiful home to the Hardings. And there is one overpowering appeal, say the President's personal friends—and that is—"it is near an attractive golf course."

but had to use a trio of pitchers to do it.

The Angels battled 11 innings with Seattle before Carroll's single brought Wade Hillefer home with the run which made the score 4 to 3. Vernon and Sacramento furnished some thrills. Twice Sacramento was in the lead and twice Vernon came from behind, finally winning 8 to 6.

THE FORUM

Editor, The Chronicle:—The question arises: has The Dalles ever built any macadam pavement? Macadamized pavement was patented in England by a Scotch engineer named MacAdams, hence the name.

He grafted the idea from Julius Caesar who built the road from Dover to London, which, by the way, is in excellent condition today, after almost two thousand years of service.

The specifications for true Mac Adam calls for layer of 6x6x8 inch cut stone laid in a clay mortar, then the three sizes of rock are laid on nine courses, each course wet and tamped (or rolled.) The nine courses amount to fourteen inches. Each course is bound together by a thin layer of clay mortar. This makes a permanent roadbed with very little upkeep but the cost is exorbitant.

There is not and never has been any macadam in The Dalles. A pile of rock rolled into the mud is not macadam, neither is it a serviceable roadbed.

Bitulithic is expensive if properly applied and is excellent for light traffic, but if the people of The Dalles are really interested in getting the best road possible for the least money, let them investigate concrete paving.

Write to the Wayne county commissioners, Detroit, Mich., and ask for the Wayne county specifications and the report on 50 miles of concrete roads built, I think about 1900. The upkeep after 15 years was about 40c per mile. This is worth investigating.

BRITT AND HANLON BOX FOR IRISH RELIEF FUND

By United Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8—Time has not taken from Jimmy Britt his famous left hook and Eddie Hanlon still knows how to land the body punches.

Perhaps the blows lacked a little of the old-time steam and perhaps the two warriors could not get the distances or furnish the bursts of speed they used to show, but they haven't forgotten how.

That was proven here last night when Hanlon and Britt boxed three rounds for the Irish relief fund, Jack Welsh refereed. No decision was given but that had no effect on the enthusiasm of the two boxers who flayed away at each other with a vim which recalled the days gone by.

Alex Greggans and Jack Stelzner also were on the bill. They met last 24 years ago in San Francisco.
