

KAISER-TRUE GANG SLEW MAN, THEORY

MYSTERIOUS GERMAN'S BODY, SKULL SMASHED, FOUND IN
VACANT LOT.

By United News
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 20.—
Slain as mysteriously as he had lived, Henry Fuhler, whom visitors to Atlantic City regarded as an extraordinary hotel clerk, has now become an official mystery for the police to solve. Who was Fuhler and whence did he draw the income which enabled him to spend freely for years in the gay resorts of Atlantic City, amounts far exceeding his income?

Stephen Lenz, tailor, the only confident of the 53 year old man of mystery, says Henry Fuhler's right name was Von Tickler, and that his mother was a Von Buelow, a close relative of Field Marshal Von Buelow, and of the present Count Buelow, regarded as the strong right arm of Hugo Stinnes, Germany's Croesus. The hotel clerk, who worked for many years behind the counters of modest hostilities varying his career with a brief experience in the menial position of steward, was really entitled to call himself Count Heinrich Von Tickler, according to the German-American tailor who heard the mystery man's story from his own lips.

Fuhler, as he was known here, was found dead in a vacant lot last Thursday with his skull smashed. It is intimated a kaiser-true band may have thought it had cause to kill this expatriate German because he was not interned during the war, being regarded as not a dangerous alien by the local authorities. He was registered, however, as an alien enemy.

Fuhler came to America 26 years ago at the age of 28, Lenz said, having quarreled with his father over the division of the estate of the father's brother, a colonel of the Prussian army.

DYING MAN SAYS WIFE FIRED FATAL SHOT

By United News
LONGBRANCH, N. J., April 20 — Dying of a bullet wound, Dennis Gallagher of Brooklyn, pointed to his wife, Viola, and accused her of firing the shot, according to the police, who caused Mrs. Gallagher to be held in the Freehold jail, without bail, on a charge of murder.

The Gallaghers, who live in Brooklyn, engaged in a dispute while guests at a dinner in the home of Felix Engle, of Highlands, near here.
The couple left the table and entered a bedroom where the argument was continued. Two shots were heard. Mrs. Gallagher declared her husband fired the first shot at her and that the second, which hit him, was fired accidentally while she was struggling to take the gun from him.
