HOW WOULD YOU DO IT?

"How would you spend a million dollars, if you suddenly fell heir to that amount of money," queried Manager Nolan of the Empress theater today.

"I've often dreamed of having all the money that I could possibly spend," the object of Nolan's inquiry responded. "I don't think, however, that I would have as much trouble in spending a million dollars as Fatty Arbuckle has in the Paramount picture, 'Brewster's Millions.'"

This conversation suggested a "how-to-spend-a-million" contest to Nolan, which he accordingly put into execution. He discussed the matter with the staff of The Chronicle and it was agreed that staff members would act as judges in selecting the best compositions on how to spend such a large sum of money.

The contest closes next Saturday night. In the meantime, Manager Nolan suggests, every person wishing to write a composition on the subject should see how Fatty Arbuckle, as Monte Brewster, spent his million. "Brewster's Millions," will be shown at the Empress theater Thursday and Friday, April 28 and 29.

All essays in the million-dollar contest must be handed in either at the Empress theater or The Chronicle office by 9 o'clock, Saturday, April 30.
