

New York Letter

by
Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, April 29.—The police undoubtedly have a right to expect some help from outside forces in their efforts to land the principals in a robbery of the other day. But to date no help has come. Mrs. Marie B. Finley was the victim, the thieves stealing money and jewels from her car while she was driving it. And despite the fact that Mrs. Finley is a spiritualistic medium of some reputation and experience, and said to be on most friendly terms with all sorts of people on the all-seeing plane, not even a hint has been received as yet regarding the whereabouts of the criminals. The police threw a cordon of reserves around the block where the hold-up took place, but in spite of this and the open wires to the spirit world, the men escaped.

The only gorilla in the world in captivity (that probably ought to be all spelled out in capitals) has to have real attention given it when it pines away. That is why Edna Cunningham, of London, whose father captured John Daniel—the above mentioned only, and so on—when he was a baby gorilla, was cabled for by the Madison Square Garden people to come and cheer John up. The animal just moped and grew thin, refusing to eat or play, and the experts diagnosed it as homesickness. Miss Cunningham had been brought up with the animal as a playmate and as a desperate last resource, she was sent for. She cabled back that she would sail at once. But John Daniel died before she arrived.

New York adds to her art treasures steadily, although slowly, due to the regulations in foreign countries against exportation. Titian's famous "The Man with the Falcon" has just been purchased for $300,000 by a New York art firm, from a Berlin collector.

Authors, playwrights and motion picture actors all got into the same picture recently, and the result is amusing and well done. It is "The Non-Sense of Censorship," the film made for the National association of the motion picture industry, which is being shown in photoplay houses in states where agitation for censorship is now going on. Douglas Fairbanks, Rupert Hughes, Edward Knoblock, Samuel Merwin, Rita Weiman, and Montague Glass, are among the "stars"—all of them except "Doug" being writers.

One lone crusader sees his duty as a citizen and is doing it. Among the places in New York where smoking is forbidden is the subway—stations as well as trains. It is not a frequently violated law and consequently no great effort ever seems made to prevent the semi-occasional infraction. But one man who boards the Broadway subway at West 157th street, takes it more seriously than the rest of the world. He scans the platforms every morning and night with an eagle eye and when he spies a smoker, he approaches him with the direct question, "Do you think you are doing right in breaking the law against smoking in the subway?" The query has never yet been resented so far as anyone knows. Surprise, embarrassment and obedience have been the only emotions registered.

Whether it has anything to do with the difference in the laws governing this country and Bermuda, certain it is that there is a greatly renewed chatter this spring about the starting of an airline between New York and the hospitable island. The 620 miles could be made easily by air in six hours, say those who have figured it all out and declare that such service will be a reality before many months. The regular mail service between Miami and Nassau, to be inaugurated this spring, is one fact pointed to in support of the chatter.

Craps can no longer be referred to as exclusively as "African gold." It is just at the moment the amusement par excellence of debutante New York —that is at such times as there are no men about to make dancing eliminate even the fascination of the little ivory cubes. Nearly every jewelry store and novelty shop in town is displaying sets of those cubes in silver and gold cases, fit for a place in any mesh bag carried on the Avenue. And it has even been suggested by some flippant soul that, with the present length of skirts worn by the girls in question, artistically — embroidered knee-pads will have to come next. For no real crap-player of the days when it was confined to quiet alley corners, would be without his pads to protect his knees while he knelt on the hard stones to "shoot."

Eyes tested, glasses fitted. Dr. Geo. F. Newhouse. u

GEORGE CARTER OF IOWA NEW PUBLIC PRINTER

It did not take President Harding long to decide just what he wanted to do—when the question was printing—his own profession. So he appointed George H. Carter, of Iowa, a practical printer and newspaperman, as Public Printer in charge of all governmental printing at Washington. He was formerly clerk to the congressional committee on printing.

that capacity. Her son was an employee of the Hill grocery store.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

By United Press
Yesterday's hero: Uhle, Cleveland pitcher. Effective in the pinches, he helped defeat Detroit, 18 to 5, with a homer and two singles, driving in six runs.

Other hurlers, attempting to emulate Babe Ruth, a reformed pitcher, were Bill Piercey of the Yanks with two doubles and a single, and Lee Meadows, Philadelphia, with a homer and a single.
Piercey helped defeat Washington,

9 to 5, and Meadows' mauling helped clean the Boston Braves, 11 to 6.

With the other big leaguers trying for record scores, the Giants and Dodgers mingled in a skinflint affair from which the Brooklynites emerged with a 2 to 1 victory.

Thirteen players failed to help Connie Mack, whose squad was set back by the Red Sox, 6 to 2.

The heavy hitter of the day was Joe Wood, Cleveland, with four hits in six tries against Ty Cobb's Tigers.

CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT TO GO LIMIT SAYS KILBANE

By United Press
CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 29 — Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion of the world:

"It will go the limit. I don't look for a knockout. I'll be pulling for Dempsey to win, but I'm afraid he is up against the stiffest opponent he ever has faced. This Carpentier can hit and he is clever, no matter what some people think. If the bout goes the limit, of course Dempsey will be the winner."
