

NEWS NOTES

Benefit Social Afternoon—An elaborate social afternoon will be given by the Daughters of the American Revolution at Hotel Dalles Saturday afternoon. Cards and a social time will feature the afternoon's program. Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Pilcher, of Community Service will sing.

Young People's Day—"Young People's Day" will be observed Sunday at the local United Brethren church. A special program will be put on in the evening, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings and an address by the Rev. P. K. Abrahamson. A special sermon will be given in the morning.

25,000,000 Will Perish—The Rev. Carroll Roberts gave a very stirring talk at the Christian church last night on the Chinese famine situation. He told of the destruction of the crops by the floods and of the certainty that at least 25,000,000 will perish. He also told of how the missionaries and other Americans in that zone are giving of their own means until they are suffering also. There were 11 baptisms at the close of the service.

Mother Seeks Word of Son—A touching appeal of inquiry, regarding any new clue that might have been found in connection with the fate of W. J. One, has been received from his mother by a local business man. Since his mysterious disappearance a month ago, no trace of him has been found and his mother expresses the belief that he has met with foul play, else he would have written her. He was always faithful about writing, she says. She has asked that all his personal effects be sent to her.

Miss Steeves To Direct Dances—Miss Amelia Steeves, talented aesthetic dancer, has been appointed to direct two groups of dancers for the historical pageant. They will be known as the Rainbow and the Raindrop dances. Miss Steeves studied aesthetic dancing at the University of California, under Vestoff, who was a dancing partner of Pavlova for a number of years. She very successfully directed a fairy dance for the local high school two years ago, when "The Merchant of Venice" was staged.

Government Harnesses for Sale—United States government army harnesses, made entirely of "back" leather, the best known to the harness making trade, may now be obtained in The Dalles for the small sum of $45, according to E. R. Jackman, county agent. A number of these harnesses have been secured from the government by Paul V. Maris, director of the state extension service of the Oregon Agricultural college, and are being distributed through the various county agent's offices throughout the state. A sample harness is on display at Jackman's office, where orders will be taken for as many as are desired.

No Guests at Jail—Last night was "banner night" at the local city jail. For the first time in months, not a single "sleeper" was given lodging in the municipal bastille. The usual run of suspicious characters picked up during a night ranges from five to 15, all men without sufficient means of purchasing lodging. The police work on the theory that such men are safer in jail than roaming the streets after dark, and accordingly the order has gone out for officers to pick up all persons without visible means of support. The usual procedure is to release the prisoners the next morning with orders to get out of town.

Not Horseless Age—"Talk about this being a horseless age; some of those statisticians had ought to make a visit to The Dalles city pound," lamented Chief of Police Frank Heater this morning, as he prepared an ad for The Chronicle in which he seeks to locate the owners of horses in the pound and get them to claim their animals within the next 10 days. "The city has 11 apparently ownerless horses in the city pound at the present time; some of them first-class animals," continued Heater. "These horses have been picked up while roaming at large on the city streets. We will hold them for 10 days, and if they have not been called for by that time, they will be sold at public auction to pay the cost of feed."

Pays for "Stepping on 'Er"—Ninth street has long been popular among local motorists as a place where the accelerator could be "stepped on" a little bit. This street is smooth and has few curves, and 20 miles an hour seems like "just crawlin," as one motorist expressed it. But, strange as it may seem, the street has suddenly lost favor as a speedway during the last few weeks. The reason for this fact is simple. Tom Crofton also likes to ride on Ninth street. Tom Crofton is the new city motorcycle policeman, and where he rides, trouble generally ensues for persons who like to burn the pavement. Yesterday F. E. Jones of this city joined the rapidly growing list of persons arrested for speeding on this street. He paid a fine of $5 in the police court this morning.

Chorus Practice Held—The chorus practice at the Vogt school last night under L. S. Pilcher was a success. The different parts were carried in a way to produce a fine effect. About 40 people were present and 25 remained for the song leaders' instruction. The next practice will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock, at the Vogt school. "The Oregon State Song," by Murtagh, will be held Monday evening at 8 members of which are: Carlton Pepper, J. H. Broer, Lynn Roycroft, Charles Roth, W. D. Hostetter, H. E. Greene, Francis Sexton, Jess Sexton and H. W. Arbury. Lighter songs will also be sung and a stereopticon will be used to place the words before the vocalists. Enthusiastic sings have been conducted at 6 o'clock in the A. M. Williams company, the Edward C. Pease company and the

J. C. Penney stores, during the last three evenings under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Pilcher.

Labor's Work is Outlined—A good crowd of local union men turned out last night at Schanno's hall, to hear the program of speeches delivered by representatives of the state federation of labor. Otto R. Hartwig, president of the Oregon State Federation of Labor, was the principal speaker of the evening. He told of the educational work being done by the state federation and its effect upon local labor unions the state over. He boosted the proposed $800,000 road bond issue. Mrs. L. Gee and Mrs. Daisy Houck, representing the Garment Workers' union, gave brief addresses. Jack Zamford, representing the Bakers' union, E. J. Stack, former secretary of the state federation of labor and C. M. Ryner-son, editor of the Oregon Labor Press, gave brief talks.
