must be considered affecting food products from the American farm in their relationship to imports of like products from foreign countries.

"Our center of production from the farm of food products is somewhere in the Mississippi valley, while our center of consumption of food products is in the populous areas of the east, many hundreds of miles away from the center of production.

"Ocean rates from competing countries are so much lower to our consuming centers than are the exorbitant and increasing freight rates from our own farms to our own consumers, that we urge a consideration of this very important condition now menacing the farmers of the south, west and middle west.

Sales Tax Opposed.

"Agriculture neither asks nor demands any special favors in the revision of the tariff, and will tolerate no unfair discrimination against it, for the benefit of other branches of industry.

"The committee highly commended the section of the president's message in which he said, 'The country does not expect nor will it approve a shifting of tax burdens.' The committee recognizes very little value in the great amount of propaganda that has been carried on during the last year from the shifting of taxation from income to consumption tax and believes it economically unsound, socially unjust and governmentally inexpedient.

"The general sales tax would shift the burden of taxation from income and excess profits to a tax on fundamentals such as food, fuel, clothing and shelter.

"A strong effort has been made to repeal the excess profit tax, but as no better way for raising an equal amount of revenue has been found the federation opposes its repeal.

Farmer Needs Aid.

"More than $16,000,000,000 in securities now escape a federal tax. The federation recommends to congress that it submit to the several states a constitutional amendment prohibiting the issue of all tax free securities.

"Recent experiences have demonstrated that the farmer is not being adequately financed through our present system. When he avails himself of the present short time commercial credits he jeopardizes his welfare.

"To improve this situation the American Farm Bureau federation urges legislation which will provide the proper authorization for commodity financing based upon warehouse receipts also for cattle financing based upon the proper pledge and for personal rural credits secured by the proper insurance features. It also asks that the profits derived from the federal reserve banks be made a revolving fund which may be used to provide working capital during the interim between the time when requests for money are received and the sale of the debentures. It is suggested that these debentures be made eligible for sale in federal reserve banks or on the open market. It is also suggested that the federal reserve board be given proper authorization to so classify rediscounts that primary production may be given adequate consideration. The federation recommends legislation which will make it possible for the federal farm loan banks to increase their maximum loan from $10,000 to $25,000 and it urges all the country banks to join the federal reserve banks.

Telephone Increase Hit.

"A committee has been appointed to cooperate with the Washington office of the federation in making a careful study, getting data, securing the advice of experts and formulating such a measure as will meet the financial needs of agriculture as outlined in these resolutions.

"Since it is represented that various public utility corporations such as the American Telephone & Telegraph company by use of subsidiary corporations are enabled to secure from the public, where subsidiary corporations operate, excessive charges for service in such a manner that the public service commission is unable properly to regulate rates, we recommend that our attorney be instructed to take such action in all cases as in his opinion will secure relief for members of the farm bureau and the public generally.

"The American Farm Bureau federation, believing it is contrary to the public interest, is opposed to placing a tariff on lumber, either rough or dressed. It is committed to a definite, constructive forest preservation and reforestation policy.

"The federation also declared against tariff on fertilizer."

Meat Regulation Asked.

A committee was appointed consisting of John Brown, Indiana; W. G. Jamison, Colorado, and Chester H. Gray, Missouri, to make a study of Music Shoals nitrate project in Tennessee, to hire necessary engineers, and report their findings to the executive committee.

"The federation recommends that there should be necessary legislation concerning the meat packing industry and livestock marketing to insure the livestock producers against unfair practices. We reaffirm our previous resolutions asking for fair and just packing legislation.

"We believe any regulatory control should be vested in the United States department of agriculture rather than in a separate commission.
