

NEWS NOTES

Workman Seriously Injured—Struck by a falling bridge bent yesterday, while working with a bridge repairing crew near Sherman, on the Bend branch, J. Arnold was dangerously injured. He was rushed to a Portland hospital for treatment.

Community Song Rehearsal—The final community song rehearsal with Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Pilcher will be held tonight at the Vogt school. Important business will be attended to. The men's chorus will practice at 7:30 o'clock, the general chorus at 8 o'clock followed by class instruction work at 8:40 o'clock.

Achievement Day—Today is "Achievement Day" at the Dufur high and grade school. This morning a display of work done in the school during the term was placed on exhibition. Dufur and The Dalles high school baseball teams tangled this afternoon, on the Dufur field. C. C. Springer, principal of the Dufur school, was recently elected to serve in that capacity for another year.

Mrs. Nellie Sumner Buried—Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Sumner were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Burget-Mogan company's funeral home. The Rev. W. H. H. Forsyth officiating. The following persons acted as bearers: W. F. Doak, J. C. Johnson, George Penny, Paul Darnielle, W. E. Gilhousen and George Scherrer. Burial was in Odd Fellows' cemetery.

Denatured Alcohol Makes Two Drunks—Denatured alcohol, mixed with some other substance to remove the potency of the poison, last night proved the undoing of W. J. Law and H. Thomas, the latter a "buck" Indian. The mysterious beverage was not rendered "kickless" by the process of removing the poison, however, as Thomas and Law soon found out after drinking a portion of the mixture. They were arrested and lodged in the city jail as "drunks."

Special Election Called—With more than 1,000 signatures on the $800,000 road bond petitions, where only 727 are needed, County Judge J. T. Adkisson today called a special election for June 7, at which time the question of voting bonds for the construction of The Dalles-California highway will be placed before the people of Wasco county for their decision. The county special election will be joined with the state special election, also called on that date, thus saving the county the cost of holding a separate poll. Tomorrow is the last day in which persons wishing to vote in the election may register. County Clerk W. L. Crichton pointed out. Persons unable to register may be sworn in and vote, however, Crichton explained. He asks all persons who have moved from the precinct in which they were originally registered, to report their new address to his office, in the court house.

Early Settler Dies—The Rev. Alvis W. Quinn, 63 years old, died Tuesday, May 3, at the St. Mary's hospital in Astoria, following an attack of pneumonia. The Rev. Quinn was an early settler of Wasco county, taking up a homestead near Dufur in 1880. Four years ago he moved to Long Beach, Wash., where he lived until the time of his death. He was born at Marquam, Marion county, Oregon, where his parents had settled on a donation land claim after crossing the plains in 1853. The Rev. Quinn was an ordained minister in the Christian church. He is survived by his wife, Angie; one daughter, four sons and 12 grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock from the local Christian church. The Rev. Carl C. Walker officiating. Funeral services will be under the direction of the Dufur chapter, W. O. W., of which the deceased was a member.

TWO FOREIGN

States and Britain are the two greatest exporters of coal and Cardiff and Baltimore are the chief ports. The distance to Buenos Aires from either port is approximately the same. The best American coal at Baltimore is 28 shillings, or $6.60 a ton.
"But during March, wages along in Britain cost $5.25 a ton at pit head. American coal exports in 1913 to Buenos Aires totalled 28,824 tons. During the first 10 months of 1920, they reached 1,482,681 tons. Britain's 1920 exports dropped to 275,000 tons, while export prices dropped from $18.40 to $8.70 within a few months."

Horne then agrees that the government is unable to alter conditions at Baltimore or Buenos Aires. The only way to remedy the situation is at Cardiff, with a subsidy of approximately $160,000,000 a year for wages, which is also impossible.

GERMANY AT FEVER

demands and even the rebuilding of the cabinet took second place. Germany offered her military forces to the entente for service in Upper Silesia after the cabinet decided not to send an expedition there on its own responsibility.

D. Gustav Stresemann continued today as the chief candidate for the chancellorship with the possibility that Herr Stegewald would assume the foreign affairs portfolio.

Prince Buelow also was mentioned for chancellor.

Little attention was paid the candidates for minor offices in the ministry, it being accepted that the cabinet's career would end with acceptance of the allied ultimatum.

Study of the allied terms, particularly the drastic demands regarding disarmament and the punishment of war criminals, led to some doubt that Stresemann would be able to form the cabinet.

The belief Germany will fare better by accepting the ultimatum than by attempting a new offer appeared to be growing. The old cabinet studied the terms transmitted by Ambassador Sthamer yesterday but, without issuing a statement, turned its attention to Upper Silesia.

According to reports here the Polish invaders, numbering 20,000 well-armed men, have assumed possession of a 20 mile strip along the southern and eastern boundaries of Upper Silesia.

They killed 75 entente troops and wounded 150 in the fighting up to Thursday night.

The invaders surrounded Katowitz in the southeastern section and captured Rosenberg, far to the north.

Allied representatives reported they had not a chance of withstanding the attack with their small forces. Reports here that the Poles had attacked non-combatants and were requisitioning supplies from the occupied territory aroused the Germans to a fighting temper.

Militarists and pan-Germans appeared before the cabinet to urge that the reichwehr be sent into Silesia immediately. The cabinet, after a full day of debate, decided against the measure but agreed to offer the service of its troops to the entente.

Two reasons were given for that decision. The first was that independent action might be taken by the allies as a war-like act. The second was the removal of the troops from Germany might encourage the radicals to some outburst.

German troops were impressed into service by the small French detachment in Upper Silesia, according to advices generally credited here.

pressed at the office of the secretary of labor.

Late last night leaders of the marine engineers asked for a conference with Davis. The conference lasted until nearly midnight. Benson sat in on part of it.

The wage question has been a stumbling block to an agreement since negotiations started Monday. A practical agreement was reached Tuesday and Wednesday on working conditions. Employers have virtually agreed to give up their demand for an open shop and have promised to continue present working conditions, which include an eight-hour day and arrangements for overtime pay.

HAWK CATCHES

ped that stream without as much as hooking a "whiting."

Peck, according to the small boy, has a trained fish hawk. The procedure is something like this: Peck drives his flivver along the highway until suddenly he spies his pet hawk circling in the air above him. He then disembarks from Henry and awaits results.

Recognizing Peck, the hawk immediately flies to the river, where it fastens its talons in the fat back of a particularly choice trout, unsuspectingly floundering its way to Bend.

The hawk then flies with its prey to where Peck is reposing in the shade of a friendly tree and drops the trout at his feet, repeating this performance until the engineer's basket is full.

Interviewed at his office this morning, Peck admitted that he had enjoyed trout for dinner last night, but declared that the small boy's narrative was slightly exaggerated. He explained that he was driving along the highway near the Deschutes river, when suddenly he noticed a fish hawk laboring in the air with a large trout. The trout was so heavy that the bird could barely carry it. Hopping out of his car, the engineer picked up a stone and hurled it at the hawk, causing the bird to drop the fish and hurriedly to fly to safer regions. Peck then seized the fish and proudly carried his trophy home.

STILLMAN'S KEYHOLE WITNESS TESTIFIES

By United News
NEW YORK, May 6—The key hole and ladder squad of James A. Stillman's many witnesses against his wife in the divorce suit which is now recurring piquant flavor, was examined Wednesday in the presence of the woman whose name they endeavor to blacken, as the divorce trial got under way again before Daniel J. Gleason, referee.

A large array of distinguished and expensive counsel was present. The session was secret but Mrs. Stillman, a stunningly attractive figure in a large seal coat over a black crepe dress, is said to have evinced amusement more than scorn or anger as her traducers told of glimpsing unconventional scenes through the key hole of the door to the bedroom of Fred Beauvais, the Indian guide in the Blackburn house, Grandanese, Canada.

George Adams, 57, was said to have taken the stand as keyhole witness number one but was reported also to have admitted being still on Stillman's personal payroll in a "consultative" capacity. Similar testimony as to incidents is believed to have been contributed by Adams' son, Fred.
