

GEORGES' CHANCES GOOD, SAYS COULON

BANTAM PAYS TRIBUTE TO FRENCHMAN'S SCIENCE AND TERRIFIC PUNCH.

By Edwin Hultinger
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, May 14—Johnny Coulon, a former bantamweight champion, thinks that Georges Carpentier has a "good chance" to beat Jack Dempsey.

Coulon accompanied Carpentier on a two weeks' theatrical tour.

"I have seen enough of Carpentier to form a very good opinion of him," Coulon said here today. "In some ways he is better than any boxer in the world and I have seen most of the good ones in my time. Carpentier has more science than any living fighter and has innumerable little tricks that no other boxer possesses.

"Carpentier also packs a terrific punch that will knock out any living man if he lands it. Of course he is lighter than Dempsey, but if he gets his punch over the champion will go down and stay down.

"I discovered that Carpentier has one tremendous asset possessed by no other fighter I have seen. He can hit a tremendous blow while poised on the balls of his feet—that's something that every fighter in history has wanted to do and couldn't."

CARPENTIER LACKS STAMINA

By United Press
JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 14—John Bentley, city commissioner and veteran ring follower:

"Carpentier has a good chance to win the world's championship, but I think Dempsey will successfully defend his title. The Frenchman is a smart fighter and a wonderful boxer, but I believe he lacks the stamina and endurance to stand up under the rushing attack of a strong, hard-hitting fighter like Dempsey."

TROOPS ORDERED

The dawn of the third day of fighting in the hills above here brought reports here of six dead and many wounded, with possibilities that the casualty list would ascend.

Attempts at peace late last night failed when both the warring factions refused to stop their hail of bullets until the other side was silenced.

The flare of revolvers and pistols up and down the Tug river for 12 miles continued throughout the night. The battle died down soon after midnight but was resumed at daybreak.

Communication with the battle area was still interrupted this morning, but the course of the fight was plainly discernible by the sound of the volleys and flares that went up from the snipers in the West Virginia and Kentucky hills on opposite sides of the Tug river.

Shots continued pouring into half-dozen little mining colonies in the valley between the two mountain sides.

Some of the reported dead were lying in the range of fire and could not be rescued. The constant exchange of shots prevented the complete check of the casualties and identification of the victims was impossible in many cases.

Dan Whitt, a miner, is among the latest victims of the guerrilla warfare. He left the mouth of a mine yesterday to procure water for women and children huddled in the mine mouth. He was killed before he had taken 20 steps into the line of fire.

A score of women and children were said to be suffering for want of food and water in a mine where they sought safety Thursday morning. One wing of the seven-mile fight rages about the mine mouth and their escape is cut off.

The battle opened Thursday morning between miners who have been on strike for a year and those who have taken their places in the coal fields.

Two were reported killed the first day. The casualties were increased by two yesterday, with reports that at least two other victims were known.

TYPHOID CARRIER

spoke freely and announced what her defense would be.

"I believe I am a natural typhoid fever carrier," she declared.

Her statement was made official by the presence at the interview of Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie, who is in charge of the investigation.

"All of my husbands died of typhoid," she said, calmly, with no manifestation of emotion.

"I have physicians' certificates to prove it.

"When Mr. Meyer, my last husband, died, I had three doctors hold a post mortem examination.

"They found at first that he had ptomaine poisoning, but that acute typhoid had developed and had caused his death.

"Other physicians found that my other three husbands had died from typhoid fever likewise."

Then she paused a moment and added emphatically:

"I am innocent of any wrong-doing. But I do believe that in view of all that I may be a typhoid carrier."

(A typhoid carrier is a person who is immune to the disease, but who carries the germs and innocently communicates the malady to others who are susceptible to it.)

Mrs. Southard declared today that her present husband, Paul Vincent Southard, chief petty officer of the U. S. S. Monitor Monterey, did not know that she had had four previous husbands, all of whom died under strange circumstances. Southard today appeared dazed by the turn of events. He did not go to see his wife and refused to talk to newspapermen.

NEW SITUATION

breaking point, several Paris newspapers declared today in commenting on Premier Lloyd George's speech regarding the upper Silesian situation.

At the same time, it was learned from semi-official sources that France is determined to enforce her program of awarding most of the industrial district in Upper Silesia to Poland, which Britain opposes. In this connection it was stated that Premier Briand will refuse to participate in the next meeting of the supreme council unless he is assured the allies will accept, in principle, his Polish policy.

"Lloyd George is taking great risks in provoking reactions dangerous to the Anglo-French entente," Philippe Millet declared, writing in the Petit Parisien.

"Berlin will rejoice and Paris will regret," was the Figaro's comment on Lloyd George's speech.

Pertinax, writing in the Echo de Paris, declared:

"France will not permit Lloyd George to force her hand. We hope France's spokesman will make this known in unmistakable terms."

have got to organize to protect ourselves.

"It seems to me that the majority of the unfavorable sentiment against the pooling plan in Umatilla county can be directly attributed to the work of a few leaders. All of the ranchers are not against this plan. Without any solicitation at all a total of 23,000 bushels of wheat has thus far been signed up in that county."

Mansfield went on to say that he is "absolutely against" the use of "two marketing plans by the Oregon

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night.

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Grain Growers' association: one with a compulsory pooling clause and the other permitting local option. Permitting Umatilla county ranchers to get in under an optional pooling agreement could create dissatisfaction in all of the other grain growing sections of the state and would in all probability wreck the state organization, he argued.

S. R. Thompson, president of the Umatilla county farm bureau, replied to Mansfield, reiterating that farmers in his county are not in general opposed to pooling, merely desiring "self determination" in the marketing of their wheat. "We think that the Chicago plan is best," he added.

In a brief analysis of the meaning of cooperative marketing, W. F. Schilling, representing the United States Grain Growers, Inc., explained that, as the world's markets now stand, the "farmers are compelled to market cooperatively or else lose their jobs." The big advantage of cooperative selling is that the man doing the selling "knows where the stuff he is selling is located. The wheat is all under contract and he can't sell something he hasn't got."

The farmers have been "holding the sack" for years, Schilling continued, and "if they can't sell it after they have grown it, what the — is the use of growing it?"

Put to a vote as to whether 100 percent pooling, as permitted by the national organization, should be adopted as the selling plan in Oregon during the next few years, the 100 percent pool won by a large majority. Umatilla county representa-
