GRASS VALLEY HAS TWO 100% SCHOOL CLUBS

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, May 17.—Nine 100 per cent boys' and girls' clubs, with membership ranging from 5 to 19 have finished their projects for the year and have turned in complete reports to H. C. Seymour, state club leader, located at the Oregon Agricultural College. Cooking and sewing clubs are the only ones that are included in the list.

Cooking clubs have earned the 100 per cent certificates in Mohler, Tillamook county with Ella R. Sperry, leader; Grass Valley, Sherman county, with Marion White, leader; Boardman, Morrow county, with Frances Beebe, leader; and College Crest, Eugene, with Miss L. Lucy Jay, leader.

The Greenwood school near Independence, Polk county, has a 100 per cent sewing club under Mrs. J. W. Walker, leader, and Mrs. Anna Huntley, teacher. Other sewing clubs are Azalo, Douglas county, Mrs. Frank Albro, leader; Grass Valley, Sherman county, Marguerite Ferrin, leader; and Canyonville, Douglas county, Mrs. A. L. Miller, leader.

WILL FAVORABLY REPORT DYER BILL

CHINESE TRADE MEASURE APPROVED BY SENATORS.

(Chronicle's Washington Bureau.)
WASHINGTON, May 18.—Oregon will have much to do with the passage through congress of the Dyer act; now before a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee. This bill deals with the incorporation of the United States trading companies for the purpose of doing business in China and grants them privileges under taxation law which enables them to compete with similar companies doing business in China financed by Belgian, French and English and manned by citizens of those countries.

As the bill, if it becomes a law, would encourage and develop a large additional trade with China, which is unusually friendly to the people and merchants of the United States, the whole Pacific Coast has been strongly urging its passage.

It is understood that if the bill should become a law, a large amount of Oregon capital, together with large sums from other states on the Pacific Coast, will be available for the organization and maintenance of trading companies under this act for the development of Chinese trade and that it will bring a great additional amount of commerce to Portland and other Pacific Coast ports.

Former Senator George E. Chamberlain has given a great deal of time and assistance in regard to the legal phase of the proposed bill and is now preparing a brief for submission to the judiciary subcommittee and the judiciary committee itself.

W. D. B. Dodson, general manager of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, who was sent here from Portland at the instigation of his organization, appeared before the subcommittee and urged the immediate passage of this legislation for the reason that every delay gave the commercial competitors of the United States every advantage and made it more difficult for the United States to get its share of the trade in China. He pointed out that under the present conditions, trading companies in China of foreign countries have been relieved of a large part of the burden of taxation by their home countries and that the least the United States could do would be to enable American enterprise, and American capital to compete with these foreign companies on an equal footing.

WELL DIGGER GETS IN U. S. SENATE

When Peter Norbeck from South Dakota, took his seat recently in the U. S. senate, it marked the rise of another poor American youth from obscurity to success; and exemplified again the wonderful possibilities open to all youths of this land. When he was 25 years old, Pete Norbeck borrowed $150 with which he started in the business of digging wells. Today, his firm is known throughout the middle west as the best artesian wells digger in the land. He stuck to it—and his friends brought the political honor to him.

EAST WON'T COMPETE AT CHICAGO MEET

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, May 18.—Western athletes who came to the Penn relays and gave the east a trimming probably will have to be content with those laurels for the season. Eastern coaches say "for several reasons" they cannot journey west to Chicago on June 11 and meet the westerners in their own haunts at the University of Chicago's national collegiate championship meet.

Rules for the meet limiting the entries to eight men from a single college will make it "inadvisable" for the big eastern schools to go west, several of the coaches say.

If western coaches had seen the same disadvantages in entering a small team, the Penn relays would have been of an exclusive eastern color, which, however, might have been more to the liking of the east since the small band of westerners made such a wonderful showing.

Not a western school at the "relays" had more than eight entries, some of them had two men and some only four.

Yet the west scored first, second and third in the discus; first in the shotput; first in the four mile relay; first and second in the high jump; first, third and fourth in the pole vault, and seconds in the 100-yard dash, 120-yard hurdles, the javelin and the two-mile relay.

It is hard to tell what would have happened to the east if the west had sent an entire team to the relays as the east wants to do in the "nationals."
