

MIDNIGHT FROLIC PASSES WITH BOOZE

By Westbrook Pagler
(United News Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, May 19.—Curfew is tolling in the land of jazz. When the pretty little follies of the midnight shimmy back into the wings of Ziegfeld's roof, one week from Saturday night and the musicians snap the latches on their fiddle coffins, there will be no spark of the old night life from the drought stricken wastes of Broadway to Frisco's moral strand. The frolic is the last and Flo Ziegfeld, connoisseur of feminine beauty, the man who shoved high noon back to midnight—is closing his show early this season because a lot of plain clothes policemen with the tactful touch of the saddle-burned mule skinner have been doing detective work among his guests.

Detective work consists of weaving among the tables, snatching drinks at random from in front of after-midnight diners and sniffing or sipping the same in the quest for fractures of the statutes of the United States. It has been no unusual thing for a plain clothes man to station himself at the entrance of the roof and tap all masculine hips for contraband of the eighteenth amendment.

This has made it risky for those who brought liquor as well as for those who came only to dine, dance and drink such things as indulgent reform permits. So the frolic is closing. It will reopen in the summer in the hope that this spasm of police vigilance will prove to be only a spasm.

The Century roof went through painless dissolution months ago. The Garden—the resort where Herman Rosenthal was to have been shot on the night he was shot, had he dined there as usual, which he didn't—closed with a wild soiree a few weeks ago with cabaret girls in their lingerie kicking their millinery about among the tables. The Pekin is only an unpleasant memory. So is Rectors, but not so unpleasant.

Churchill's is a business men's restaurant. The garish glories of Murray's still bloom, but not after midnight. Shanley's and Healey's are still going and so is Reisenweber's but the pace has slowed down from a dizzy whirl to the sedate measure of a May pole dance.

The little club and a few places like it are still open after midnight but dance music is the only entertainment and Bert Williams said a whole chapter when he droned, "You cannot make your shimmy shake on tea."

"This is the last after midnight entertainment in the United States," said Leon Friedman, who is Ziegfeld's first deputy connoisseur of what's beauty and what might have been but missed. "I don't think there's any public place in the country now where people may sit and watch a show after 12 o'clock. If a man does not care about dancing there'll be nothing left to do but to go home and play poker."

with the janitor until it's time to call it a wild, mean night and go to bed. Liquor undoubtedly made most of the night life of New York."

FOUNDATION ANNIVERSARY OF Q. M. CORPS SCHEDULED

WASHINGTON, May 19.—A record breaking long - distance dinner will be given on June 16, when captains of industry and business men who supplied the army during the war will sit down with quartermasters of all ranks and kinds, reserves, guardsmen and regulars, in commemoration of the 146th anniversary of the establishment of quartermasters corps, June 16, 1775, in Carpenter's Hall, Philadelphia. Tables will be set from Coblenz to China, and from Panama almost to the Pole, on three continents and in all the insular possessions of the United States, for this wide-reaching celebration, the first of its kind ever held in the Army.

In his foreword to the diners Major General H. L. Rogers, Quartermaster General of the army, says today:

"During the 146 years of its existence the Quartermaster Corps has expended the stupendous sum of approximately fourteen billion dollars, and never has the Corps been involved in a scandal of any kind. The magnitude of the work being done today by the Quartermaster Corps can best be realized by the fact that approximately 85 per cent of the annual appropriation made by Congress for the maintenance of the Army is expended by the Corps. During the fiscal year 1920, for example, our outlay was $476,000,000.

Sawdust Trail Method of Getting Church Converts Is Out of Vogue

(By Carl Victor Little.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WINONA LAKE, Ind., May 19.—The jazz method of getting church is out of date.

Preaching of the old, old story by sensational and spectacular means which became famous throughout the land during the heyday of Billy Sunday's popularity, is no longer favored by the majority of America's leading churchmen. New members of churches are now brought into the fold of Christian fellowship by quiet and conservative teachings.

Most representative ministers and laymen frown upon what they now call the rag-time circus method of conversion.

These points were brought out most emphatically as the opinion of delegates to the Presbyterian general assembly, who met as the committee on evangelism here today.

This committee, in backing up the conservative methods, not only represented the rank and file of the 1,500,000 members of the Presbyterian church of America, but also the views of most of other denominational governing bodies with whom it cooperates and exchanges views.

"Our 20,000 converts last year were gained through quiet boyhood methods," said Dr. George Mahy, head of the evangelical committee. "We learned that most churches found this way most satisfactory."

Rev. W. R. Graham, New York, secretary of the committee, stated that those who follow a band to church usually leave when the band quits playing.

"We have dispensed with the sawdust trail and pied piper methods altogether," he said. Persons who are converted in wholesale lots are not as apt to stick to their church membership, as those who accept the faith after a quiet talk by some good brother or sister."

Rev. Mr. Graham said new members are now obtained by personal work of church members among their neighbors.

Read your instruction book It says—

Old oil should be drained from the crankcase at regular intervals and replaced with fresh oil.

This statement is made because engine operation causes road dust, carbon, fine metal particles and other impurities to accumulate in the crankcase oil. The gritty oil circulates through the engine, impairing its performance, and ultimately leads to rapid depreciation and repairs.

These careful instructions from the manufacturer are often disregarded; cleaning the crankcase is a job generally disliked.

To meet this need Modern Crankcase Cleaning Service has been established by first-class garages and other dealers co-operating with the Standard Oil Company. These garages and dealers use Calol Flushing Oil,—the scientific agent that cleans out old oil, dirt, grit and other impurities and does not impair the lubricating efficiency of fresh oil used. The cleaned crankcase is refilled with the proper grade of Zerolene.

Look for the garage or dealer displaying the sign shown below,—it means "Better operation and longer engine life."
