MOVIE MOVES

Movie fans are in for a treat when "See My Lawyer," the new Robertson-Cole super-special release starring T. Roy Barnes, opens at the Clarno theater today for a run of two days. The scenario of the new comedy drama was written by W. Scott Darling from the famous play of the same name by Max Marcin. On the legitimate stage "See My Lawyer" was a big hit. The screen version, under the direction of Al Christie, is even better.

This is the second Robertson-Cole super-special in which T. Roy Barnes has appeared, having been one of the famous quartet of funmakers in "So Long Letty," a picture that has established records from coast to coast.

The story has to do with two young fellows—Robert Gardner and Billy Noble—who become interested in a machine which an inventor, Freeman by name, declares will manufacture artificial rubber.

The rubber trust, hearing of the success of the invention, ask that their experts be given a demonstration. They want to buy the invention. On the day set for the demonstration, Billy is alone in the office with the inventor and suddenly discovers that the machine is a fake.

Billy decides that the only way Robert, who has signed all of the circulars, can be kept out of jail, is to shirk insanity. Billy is to act as his lawyer. The trust experts are suspicious and the postal authorities notified. A postal inspector demands a demonstration on the threat of sending Robert to jail for using the mails to defraud if the demonstration is not satisfactory. It is a fine mixup, but several local developments which are brimful of clean-cut fun straighten matters out.

BOOZE IS BANNED; FRENCH FANS QUIT

By Hudson Hawley
(United News Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, June 9.—Because the New York authorities refused to permit the French line to serve liquor aboard their special "Dempsy light" liner during its stay in New York harbor, the sailing of the vessel, the Leopoldina, has been canceled. Only 200 applicants for tickets, where 400 were expected, is another reason for the cancellation.

Undeterred by this action, Carpenter's most intimate friends, including Mlle. Mistinguett, whose lover (Mlle. rival George), and other actresses and fight fans and a large contingent of silk hatted sporting writers, will sail to back up their idol on July 2.

The Leopoldina was to have provided its passengers with not only a round trip, but free board and lodging while on the American side for 4,500 francs—roughly $350.

Hit by hit the French public is warming up with the realization that the day for their idol to prove himself is fast drawing near and tight talk is heard in all the boulevard cafes.

Some of these fans may be interested to know that Dempsy's favorite color is blue and that he is a right-handed batsman.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

With school sessions concluded, activities of the senior class of the high school are centered upon the program incidental to commencement week, which culminates with graduation exercises in the school auditorium tomorrow night.

Class day ceremonies were held Wednesday evening at the school when 10 members of the class had gone all the way through the schools of the city together, representing the scenes of 12 years' association.

The 10 first came on the stage, dressed as "first graders." More members of the class joined the group as each year was presented until the entire class was on the stage.

The class prophecy was given by Glenn Cooper, dressed as a ghost. Marie Griffin read the class wish and Alice Chase gave the class poem.

The senior quartet, consisting of Ralph and Ben Hallyburton, Norman Gosch and Chester Phillips sang two songs.

Frank Peckman gave the valedictory, and the military was given by Edna Johnson. Foreword to the seniors were addressed by Allen Voolley, representing the juniors; Edna Cooper, of the sophomore class; and Leona Hostetter for the freshmen.

"Dix" was presented to members of the audience by the band representing the school during the year. The band sang its song, which was written by Leonard Klmdt.

The senior dance will be held to-night at Thornton's lake. Commencement exercises tomorrow night, and the annual dance Monday night, at the Commodore high school building for the 1921 classmen.

OLDEN DAYS IN WASCO COUNTY

By Margaret Walker

Mary Ellen Caleb Silvertooth was born at Fort Dalles November 1, 1853. Her mother, who was only 15 years of age, came here from San Francisco, to visit a sister, whose husband was a soldier at the fort. When the baby was 6 weeks old, she was christened at the old Catholic mission, which stood in the vicinity of the present poor farm.

Her mother was of Episcopal faith, but since there was no Episcopal rector here at that time, the Catholic priest was asked to officiate. Father Meagle, assisted by Father LaCroix attended to the christening with Mrs. Mary Cushing acting as godmother.

After a few months Mrs. Caleb and little Ellen, as she was called, returned to San Francisco. Three years later Mr. Caleb died and the young mother returned to The Dalles. Soon after arriving, Ellen developed a case of measles, the first in The Dalles.

Her mother married again and their home was on the DeChutes river, what is remembered as Gordon's bridge, or the free bridge.

In November, when she was four or five years of age, the heavy rains brought the river up very suddenly. Her stepfather was up and outside at 4 o'clock in the morning. On going out again at 6, he was startled to find how rapidly the river was rising. Hastily calling the family and waking the children, who had to be carried, they rushed across the bridge, which by this time could only be reached by wading. They successfully crossed, but had only just done so, when it broke in the middle and went down the river.

In a few hours, the house and other buildings followed; chickens were swept up with the water, and Mrs. Silvertooth particularly recalls her grief on seeing her pet cat on a barrel which was carried down stream.

All of her early education was received in a school house which stood on the southwest corner of Fourth and Laughlin streets. She was one of the first pupils of St. Mary's academy and attended school there for three years.

Among her playmates were Alice and Laura McFarland, who are now Mrs. W. R. Abrams and Mrs. J. W. Hill of Portland; Eliza Cushing, who died years ago; Katie Craig, who is now Mrs. Floyd of LaGrande; and Lulu Bennett, whom we know as Lulu D. Candall.

Among the early buildings which Mrs. Silvertooth recalls were the Laughlin house, which stood near the present Studelman ice plant; her aunt's home, which stood across the street from the Laughlin home; the Cushing home, just east of the Hantula house; and the old part of the present Fred Wilson property, which was occupied by the Newell family, who established the first newspaper, which was called "The Mountaineer."

All of the farms at that time lay along the creek. Along Mill creek were the homes of the Cushings, the Dentons, the Mesplets, and Caldwelles. Along Five Mile creek were the Bensons and the Dubois family. Along Fifteen Mile creek were the Herbsters and the Cates' homes.

Ellen Caleb's uncle, a Mr. McAuff, had a general merchandise store near the present site of the Model laundry.

She met Felix Silvertooth, who was driving a stage to Canyon City, in The Dalles. Her stepfather and mother moved to Camp Watson, which was 15 miles beyond Mitchell, in 1876. While here they suffered quite a fright from Indian outrages at Canyon City. Property was burned and unprotected people were killed. Two young men were killed on the John Day river near their home. Ellen and her mother were sent to The Dalles for safety.

They remained here for three months, then returned to find that their neighbors and passers-by had made such free use of the house and provisions that not much was left.

She and Mr. Silvertooth were married at The Dalles in 1881. They began housekeeping in Anacapa where they conducted a store and were interested in sheep raising and in the Long Creek mines. Their home was on the stage route to Canyon City and they had few neighbors. As the years passed more people came to make homes about them; the advantages of school and social intercourse increased and life gradually changed from lonely pioneering to the more comfortable times of the later years.

Five children were born to them, three of whom are living. Mr. Silver-tooth has been dead for four years. Mrs. Silvertooth is the oldest living native-born white child of The Dalles. With the exception of the short time spent in San Francisco during her childhood, she has lived continuously in Wasco county. During the recent historical pageant, she had the honor of appearing in this capacity and of sitting beside her own god-mother, Mrs. Mary Cushing.
