LEARNING TO PLAY

Many people of The Dalles have forgotten how to play. Burdened down with business duties, engrossed with home cares, there is many a man in the city who does not give a moment of the 24 hours in his day to thoughts of recreation for himself.

Community Service offers such as these the opportunity to learn all over again. The Dalles has never had a more wholesome movement come to it than Community Service.

An attempt is now being made to raise funds sufficient to carry along the good work which has within three months demonstrated its usefulness. Already the response has been good. The campaign will be more intensified this week.

The Dalles is a city with drive, of course. It has just been one drive after another, month upon month. The drives for money have come at times when men were out of work and conditions have been hard.

But there is something different about this Community Service effort. The money being raised is to be spent right here in The Dalles. Not a nickel of it will go away. It will be used in making conditions better for everyone.

Community Service here has already demonstrated how men and women may be made to forget the more serious side of living. It teaches common effort and unselfishness. It is helping to cast aside prejudices of the past and to set up a better working spirit for the future.

Life can be symmetrical and worth while to its utmost if everyone devotes a portion of it to recreation and to the company of others in activities apart from those of business. Community Service in many places, as well as in The Dalles, is teaching men and women to play the game, making better citizens of all who participate.

Community Service plans not only for men and women but for boys and girls. Playgrounds are to be established over the city. Organized play which will teach members of the younger generation unselfishness and self-reliance will be installed in the children at a time when these qualities will mean the most to them.

Workers who are endeavoring to perpetuate the Community Service idea in the city say that everywhere the most favorable response has been encountered. One man who has called upon more than a hundred persons said that each one whom he had visited was sympathetic towards the movement.

That is an excellent manifestation. It shows that the movement has become generally known, and its merits appreciated. Such a good cause, therefore, should not be allowed to die. It is a spirit which is the real key to having the establishment of Community Service in certain cities all over the country. So far, the best service of H. W. Arthur, the director, has not met. The Dalles, a penny. And so far as The Dalles is concerned, it will not pay him anything for his support out of the city's capital city. In a few days Mr. Arthur will leave the city to go west. He has done a great work for The Dalles. The greatest appreciation that the city can give will be to perpetuate that which he has started.

The spirit of appreciation is certainly here. Will it be manifested in a material way? There is every reason to believe that the response will be gratifying.

LOOKING BACKWARD

From The Chronicle, June 20, 1921. The new R. & P. hall at the west block in Dalles is the first of its kind in the city.

The hall is a striking building on both sides of the avenue leading to the school house door. This is for the convenience of ladies listening to the Sunday band concerts.

A contest at bowling between the married and unmarried women at the club yesterday resulted in a victory for the matrons, the score being 192 to 154. These continued results go to prove that marriage is not a failure.

A quiet home wedding took place last Tuesday at 1 o'clock at Red Wilson, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hinton. Their daughter, Lillie May, was united in marriage to John L. Hollingshead.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Leach of Antelope in a most impressive manner. Only a few immediate members of the family and intimate friends were present.

Mrs. Kuegel and Mrs. Vause went to the docks today.

D. J. Cooper left today for Salem for a two weeks' visit.

Robt. Mash, Jr. and wife took a trip to the Cascades today.

Mrs. Harper and Melvin will spend a part of the summer at Shasta Springs, after which they will go to Santa Cruz for an extended visit with Mrs. Harper's parents.

River Drops Foot—The Columbia river is rapidly following the spirit of the times by getting "back to normal." This morning's government reading showed the water at 26 feet, which is a drop of one foot during the last 24 hours. Nearly all ferries along Second street are now being re-occupied by merchants, who had been compelled to remove surplus stocks stored in them when the high water backed up.

Cupid Busy—Sunday proved a busy day in The Dalles for Dan Cupid. Three marriage licenses were secured this morning, as a result of his dead-end aim with the bow and arrow. Licenses were obtained for Harvey E. Ferguson, 27, Dalles, and Mollie Rosa Hinton, 25, also of Dalles; Mack Ellette, 29, The Dalles, and his Pearl Dawson, 26, also of The Dalles; John D. McNeal, 19, and Dorothy Beatrice Greenough, 13, both of The Dalles.

Mrs. Gibber Dies—Mrs. Margaret Gibber, 70 years old, died at the hospital yesterday morning following an extended illness. She is survived by her husband, Frank Gibber, a druggist at Lyle, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Van Ostend, also of Lyle, and two children. The body is in the Grandall undertaking company's chapel. It will be sent to Hood River tomorrow for burial in the Knights of Pythias cemetery of that city. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m.

Return from Auto Tour—Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Ketchum and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Schanno returned yesterday from an automobile trip through Washington. Their route was from The Dalles to Portland to Tacoma, through Snoqualmie Pass to Yakima, and then back to The Dalles. They report snow yet two or three feet deep in Snoqualmie Pass. Miss May Hall of Tacoma and Mrs. J. E. Dittus and family of Yakima accompanied them home. Mrs. Dittus will meet her husband here, who has been returning the Eastern states.

Cars Damaged in Smash—A rather unusual automobile accident occurred this morning between Union and Court streets on Second street, when a man who gave his name as J. Chimes attempted to drive his car into the center of the street from where it was parked at the curb. He had just turned the front end of his car into the center of the street when another automobile, listed as belonging to P. O. Beum, crashed into the rear of Chimes' car. Both automobiles were slightly damaged. Neither driver was hurt.

To Discuss Mormonism—Mrs. Marion Williams, representative of the National Reform association, which is seeking to secure a constitutional amendment forbidding polygamy in the United States, will be here this week addressing several mass meetings. Mrs. Williams, who says that she was formerly a Mormon, will talk under the auspices of the Good Intent society. She will speak Thursday evening in the Methodist church on the subject, "The Menace of Mormonism." Her Friday night topic, which will be discussed at the Baptist church, will be "My Life in a Mormon Harem." Mrs. Williams will also give a talk exclusively to women Friday afternoon.

Plan for State Convention—A plan of campaign by which The Dalles post of the American Legion hopes to secure the state Legion convention for this city in 1922, will be outlined tonight at a special Legion meeting to be held in the county court room of the court house. Arrangements will also be made for the transportation of a large delegation of local Legion men to this year's state convention at Eugene, July 1 and 2, in order that the authorized delegates to the convention, Harold Sexton and Edgar Harrison, may have the backing of numbers when they ask that the 1922 convention be held there. Commander P. J. Foley expects that at least 20 automobile loads of local Legionnaires will make the trip to Eugene for the state convention.

Will Spray Elm Trees—Elm tree beetles are at work in The Dalles, and if allowed to go unchecked, will destroy the foliage and even the trees themselves, according to J. H. Skelley, who has been deputized by the city to make arrangements for the spraying of infested elm trees. The beetles are just starting to hatch and a thorough application of spray at the present time will free the trees from the parasitic insects for the remainder of the year, according to Skelley. Bands of cotton impregnated with cylinder oil which have been placed about the trunks of a number of trees in the hope of keeping the beetles from climbing the trees, have proved ineffective, Skelley says. He asks all persons wishing to have elm trees sprayed to get in touch with the chamber of commerce.

Six Sisters Meet—Mrs. Leon Curtis of Granddallas is entertaining her five sisters, Mrs. E. F. Hunter and Mrs. R. E. Monfroe of Portland, Mrs. George Hall of Oakland, Ore., Mrs. Sherman Cooley of Brickleton, Wash., and Mrs. E. M. Kunzelman of Berkeley, Cal. The latter is accompanied by her younger son Elwin. It has been a custom with the sisters to meet together every two years. Two years ago they met in Berkeley, at the home of Mrs. Kunzelman. They will remain at the home of Mrs. Curtis for several days, when she will accompany them to Brickleton, Wash., where they will continue their visit at the home of Mrs. Sherman Cooley. Friends have received invitations for a formal reception, which Mrs. Curtis is giving at Hotel Dalles, Wednesday afternoon, in their honor.

MOVIE MOVES

Realism and fidelity to detail are two elements on which the Fox Film Corporation, producers of "White New York Sleeps," makes its bid for the success of this picture, which is being shown at the Empress theater today and Tuesday. The photodrama is divided into three acts. The first depicts an enthralling incident which takes place in the home of a suburban millionaire. The second episode, gorgeously invested, presents in pictures a version of the notorious "badger game" in this act is seen an entire dancing number from Ziegfeld's Midnight Frolic, together with the tense action revolves about a tig-rish shop girl, a dumb paralytic, his gentle, tender hearted son and the gangster leader of a band of thieves. In this act occurs a river fight between the New York police boat and a gasoline launch containing members of the robber gang.

The New York police assisted Director Charles J. Brabin to film this scene, in fact the police boat was actually manned by policemen.
