

MOONSHINE SWELLING AMOUNT OF INSANITY

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 22.—Insanity is increasing as a result of the world war and conditions growing out of it. Dr. D. H. Lee, of Rochester, told the 71st anniversary of the American Institute of Homeopathy in session here.

"Our method of living, our methods of eating and the general tendency to worry and brood make for throwing the mental machinery out of gear," said Dr. Lee.

Farmers, Dr. Lee said, outnumber any other class of persons among the 500,000 in asylums in the United States. He explained this on the theory that farmers work hard, worry and lack recreation.

Men engaged in other professions have a greater diversity of interests which tend to keep their minds in a healthier condition, the speaker said.

Intemperance was blamed for sending its quota to asylums in spite of prohibition. Bad whiskey which is now being drunk works faster than the genuine stuff, Dr. Lee said.

HELD AS MATERIAL WITNESS IN RICH MURDER CASE

By United Press
VANCOUVER, Wash., June 22.—George Denton, 67, is held as a material witness in the murder of Ben Rich at Ridgefield on June 5. He may be able to furnish evidence leading to the arrest of the murderer.

Denton is not suspected of complicity in the crime.

ing in, is about the same in quantity and quality as that of former years, according to Mell. He does not anticipate any advance in the market price for wool until next year, when the surplus will have been, to a large extent, used up.

The local scouring mill is the largest in the state outside of Portland, and handles wool from all of eastern Oregon and parts of Washington and Idaho. It is owned by Portland capital.

WASHINGTON HOME IS NOW A SHRINE

By United Press
LONDON, June 22.—Sulgrave Manor, Northamptonshire, the home for centuries of George Washington's ancestors, was dedicated today after its restoration.

Henceforth the manor will be maintained as a memorial. Its reconstruction was completed recently at a cost of $160,000, raised by the Sulgrave Institution of America.

The manor, a survival of Tudor days, with Jacobite additions, has been restored to its original state, along with the meadows that surround it.

In connection with today's ceremony, a bust of Washington was unveiled at the manor.

Construction work on 18 new homes for Corvallis residents under way cost aggregating $55,500.

cooperation will prevail in the campaign to secure the Elks' convention as in the present effort to land the 1922 Legion convention.

J. W. Allen, representing the Knights of Pythias lodge, appeared before the directors and asked for the cooperation of the business men of The Dalles in the putting on of this year's Fourth of July celebration, the major details of which are being arranged by the lodge. He explained that the present idea called for a parade in the morning, and that the lodge would like to have individuals and business houses enter floats in this parade. The directors agreed to render any assistance possible in the putting over of a routing celebration in The Dalles this Fourth.

The auto park committee of the chamber will probably attempt to advertise The Dalles by placing 500 sets of auto plates, each plate bearing the name of the city in raised letters upon 500 different automobiles here. J. Marsh of the Ellensburg, Wash., chamber of commerce, appeared before the local directors last night and explained the advertising by name plates proposition, which is being generally adopted by Washington towns, he said. The plates will retail at $2 a pair. H. P. Fenecher, chairman of the auto park committee, agreed to take orders for these plates among local automobile owners, and if a sufficient number of orders are secured to pay the cost of the plates, they will be secured.

gulf side of Galveston island, would check any danger.

Inhabitants were told not to be alarmed. Some lowlands on the streets might flood but there is no danger to the city, the weather bureau declared.

The telephone company announced that the gale is moving north with diminishing fury.

GALVESTON, Texas, June 22.—The oil tanker William H. Dohoney was at the mercy of a heavy gale today.

An S. O. S. from Captain Laeka was picked up at the radio station here.

The appeal said: "Helpless in high sea running from east. Have lost propeller 94 miles west of Galveston drifting westward. Heavy winds at sea. Need help at once."

The ship is a 10,000-ton vessel and belongs to the Mexican Petroleum corporation.

BELIEVE VESSEL

will furnish a clue to the missing ships. The sea mystery was the subject of conference Tuesday between Secretaries Hughes and Hoover and Eugene T. Chamberlain, commissioner of navigation in the department of commerce, resulting in world wide efforts by government agents to find the vessels or their crews.

The mystery has grown with information obtained by the bureau of navigation that at least ten vessels have disappeared within the past six months. These ships flew the flags of almost every seagoing nation—America, Britain, France, Japan, Spain and Italy.

The list confirms the missing ships mentioned in a United News dispatch from New York.

In addition, the commerce department's list includes the British tanker Ottawa, Port Lobos, Mexico, to Liverpool, and a Brazilian boat, the Calibello. These two vessels, and a number of others, are reported to have cleared from Norfolk, Va., within a few days of each other and to have been heard from last while they were off the southern Atlantic seaboard.

While it is conceded that some of the missing boats probably were the victims of rough seas or mines, it is pointed out this theory scarcely can hold for all of them, or some traces would have been found. The belief still is held here that in some instances the crews mutinied, taking charge of the vessels, or that a few of the boats were diverted to the bootlegning trade, carrying their illicit cargoes from islands of the West Indies to secluded ports of the Florida coast. With the ragged coast of Florida offering hundreds of sheltering inlets, prohibition enforcement officers have reported a tremendous increase in the amount of smuggling in that district and it is believed an increased number of carriers have been put in the trade, which is said to be extremely profitable. Liquor cargoes, it is stated, have most frequently had as their source the islands of Benini and Nassau, British possessions which are short sailing from Florida.

The state department suspects "fool play" in the case of the Carol Deering, the American schooner which was wrecked off North Carolina, without leaving a sign of her crew. When the boat passed Cape Lookout lightship, North Carolina, on January 31, according to the state department, a man on board hailed the lightship, reporting the vessel had lost both anchors and asking its owners be notified. A short time afterward another vessel passed the lightship. It was asked to stop but despite numerous attempts to attract the ship's attention, no response was received.

The Carol Deering carried a motor lifeboat and dory but neither of them has been picked up and no wreckage from them has been found. Most of the provisions, clothing and supplies of the vessel had been removed.
